

ALUMNI.

In running through the catalogue with a view of discovering into what channel the alumni of the University have fallen the following figures were obtained. This list is by no means exhaustive, nor does it contain figures gathered from the last two classes since the desire was to find in what line the students finally settle. The greatest number of those graduated within the last two years are teaching the young idea.

Lawyers 55, including 13 from Law College in 1892.

Physicians 40, including 36 from the Medical College during 1884-5-6-7.

Teachers or professors—71.

Editors or reporters—10.

Ministers—10.

Civil Engineers—7.

Bankers—6.

Students—15.

There are also about the same number—one hundred and twenty-five—divided among the following vocations: insurance agents, stock raisers, horticulturists, meteorologists, clerks, farmers, merchants, stenographers, grain dealers, missionaries, druggists, botanists, electricians, and one congressman, Dave Mercer, from the Second District in Nebraska. There is a large army of alumnaal housekeepers, who have changed their names since they left the University. One fact struck the compiler of these statistics very forcibly as he was looking over these figures, namely, that the alumni are in a remarkable degree checks on each other. There are ten editors and exactly ten preachers to offset their work. There are fifty five lawyers and a half more of teachers, but it takes that number to undo the work of the Blackstonians.

"WHERE WE'RE AT."

CLASS OF '94.

Francis Tucker instructor in Chemistry, Nebraska City high school.

W. A. Richmond teacher of Science, Fort Collins, Col.

Oscar R. Bowman teaching in Alliance.

Johnson boys, Will and Jim are studying law in Lincoln.

H. E. Covell is married and dealing in merchandise.

Geo. Babcock is teaching at Palmyra.

Howard Ricketts is in Chicago Medical School.

Sawyer, making electricity in New Haven, Connecticut.

Miss Chamberlin, teaching Literature in Lincoln high school.

Annie Edwards is teaching in Sterling, Ills.

Frank Fisher is resting in Lincoln.

CLASS OF '93.

DeAlton Saunders teaching Science in Lincoln high school.

Vesta Gray, in her father's law office in Fremont.

John Marshall, Chicago Theological Seminary.

J. J. Sayer is on the Sioux City Tribune.

Herman Senter is now in the 'Varsity and intends to start for Europe sometime in January.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Fred Hyde is at Washington, D. C. studying law.

C. A. Porterfield is in the employ of the Santa Fe in New Mexico.

Eggelson is city engineer at Boise City, Idaho.

C. C. Marley is studying law at the U. of N.

Earnest Pollord is at Nehawka.

Avery is studying in Germany.

Eager got left but he is not "chewing the rag."

A. C. Epperson, Law '91, is county attorney for Clay county.

Eben Prentiss formerly '95 was in the city Saturday the 17th. He is teaching near Odell.

O. P. Reedy formerly '95 was in the halls on the 16th. He is teaching in Gage county.

A. F. Montmorency is chief of a surveying party at Anaconda, Montana.

A. E. Guilmette is studying law in Hastings. Sheldon is still at Harvard.