

JUNIOR "PROM."

One of the happiest local events in University circles this year, was held at the Lincoln hotel Thursday evening of Charter week, when the Juniors and their friends, about seventy couples in all, met to enjoy the annual Junior promenade.

The young folks claimed the freedom of the entire second floor, and they pretty nearly filled it. The west dining hall, decorated with various fraternity and society emblems, made a very pleasant room for dancing, while the State Band Orchestra furnished such music as makes the lover of the dance happy.

It was nearly nine o'clock when the grand march was begun. It was led by the Chancellor and Mrs. Morrill, followed by the patrons and members of the faculty.

Only once are you a junior, and only once in that year do you indulge in a promenade, a fact which each individual present seemed to appreciate that night.

It was one of the jolliest affairs ever known in the history of the University, and when the party broke up there seemed to be a paucity of adjectives in the English language to express everybody's opinion of it.

THE SOCIETIES' RECEPTION.

By no means the least enjoyable of the many events of Charter Day week was the joint reception of the literary societies given at the Nebraska Conservatory of Music Saturday evening, Feb. 16. Coming as it did, at the close of an over-crowded week, some fears were entertained for its success, but it proved to be the crowning event of the week. The music hall was crowded with a throng of happy students who gave no evidence from their actions that they had been celebrating for several days.

Representatives of the different societies received the guests in the parlors on the first floor and adorned them with the colors of their respective societies. At nine o'clock all joined in a grand march, after which amusements of various kinds were taken up.

The committee on entertainment did their part so well that the evening was enjoyed by all. But it was Saturday night, and promptly at twelve o'clock the lights were turned out, abruptly ending the pleasures of the evening. And so once more the dissipations of the Charter Day season are over.

LOCAL.

Geo. Davies is back in school again.

Elisabeth Russel joined the Union February 22.

Lulu Burrow has been visiting her brother in Filley.

The Sophomore class commenced Calculus this week.

Mr. Peterson was taken into the Delian Society February 22.

The Palladian membership reached seventy-five last Friday.

Professor Fling was on the sick last week. His classes missed him.

□ The cadets will appear in white trousers on dress parade hereafter.

A large audience filled Union Hall at the musicale Friday evening.

Tuesday, March 4, the Sophomores and Freshmen gave their joint reception.

Prof. Wilson occupied the pulpit of the First Baptist church last Sunday evening.

Miss Bessie Gahan, a former University student, spent the past two weeks in Lincoln.

The Shakespeare Club met at the Conservatory February 25th. Mr. Williams spoke.

March 8th, the Unions will give a "Ghost program," which promises to be decidedly ghostly.

The missionary band held their regular monthly meeting February 24th at the new Conservatory.