

If the ostiology class continues to kill dogs at the present rate, it will not be long until we are dogless.

The Improved Stock Breeders' Association held its annual meeting at the University last week.

The missionary study class have changed their hour for meeting to five on Saturdays. There are some seventeen in the class.

The seniors are arranging for a bonfire on class-day eve; presumably the intention is to give to the flames caps, gowns, canes, hats, and ponies.

There was a large attendance in the chapel last Sunday afternoon to hear Prof. Bessey's lecture on "My Understanding of the First Chapter of Genesis."

The Palladian new members' quartet, composed of Messrs. Taylor, Moore, Hitchman, and Congdon, promises to be an attractive feature in that society.

The noonday prayer-meetings of the Y. M. C. A. are now held in room 10, University hall, as this is more convenient than the Y. M. C. A. room in the Conservatory for most of the students.

Mr. G. A. Steiner, formerly of the class '96, left last week for Salt Lake City. He has gone into business and will no doubt be able to give the Latter Day Saints some pointers in his line.

One section of the public speaking class discussed the case of the Cotner grave robbers one day last week. Messrs. Barr and Shreve appeared in behalf of the state, and Elmore and McGuffy for the defense.

Dr. Gunsaulas has accepted the invitation of the senior class to deliver the commencement oration. The University has enjoyed many good things this year, but none have been or will be more acceptable than this.

Professors Ward and Wolcott do not intend to let the bone-man get ahead them this year. They have converted the top of Nebraska Hall into a bone yard. There it is that the spirits of the lost purps moan over their bleaching skeletons.

The contest between the Maxwell Club and the Union Boys Debating Club took place Saturday evening in Union Hall. The following were the contestants: Maxwell Club—Sroman, Menzer, Rogers and Kenyon; Unions—Bishop, Barr, Hoagland and McNeal.

The English Club met February 23, in room 29. The room looked as if some fairy had waved her wand over it. The program consisted of two excellent papers by Miss Bruner and Mr. Abbott, after which the club was agreeably surprised by being served to lemonade and wafers.

April 6th, the Union boys are going out to Wesleyan University to debate the question, "Resolved, that the spoil system is the principal cause of our political corruption." The delegates from the Uni. will be Lunn, McGuffy, Newbranch and Abbott. Our boys are to have the negative side of the question.

Thursday evening, February 14, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. held their semi-annual reception at the University Conservatory of Music. In the earlier part of the evening college songs were sung; later, Miss Perkins favored the company with several fine piano solos. Unique souvenirs were distributed among the three hundred guests.

One of the most enjoyable programs of the season was given by the Palladian Society Friday evening. It was the new members this time and they had formed themselves into a senate of the year 2003. Everybody saw the force of affair when nothing but skirts and bonnets greeted us; a woman even occupied the chair. May we hope the prophecy was wrong.

Washington's birthday was celebrated very fittingly with a short address by Mr. A. W. Jeffries of Omaha. He came here under the auspices of the Omaha club who thus desired to emphasize their fidelity to the State University. Mr. Jeffries spoke especially of the humility, self-respect and
