Notice.

All subscribers who have not paid their subscription will do the business managers a great favor if they will settle at once. It is now near the close of the school year and all subscriptions must be paid.

Several have reported as not having received their HESPERIAN. We hope that the spirit which made the check room indispensable, will not necessitate lock-boxes for the college papers. The subscription price is low enough so that if it is impossible to borrow, one might buy.

How we shook hands with ourselves and rejoiced when we saw the bulletin board on Monday. A vacation, and long enough for a breathing spell too. If there is a season of the year when a vacation is justifiable it is certainly now. The work is always so steady after the first of the year and by the time spring opens everyone is about worn out. Without a little resting spell now the last two months of school is a continuous drag. After the six days of change we shall all feel like "digging" again.

The interest being manifested by students in the coming city election is indeed worthy of notice. Men who spend from four to six years in the city of Lincoln have a decided right to participate in its struggles for good government. The student vote is strong enough to influence the election returns to a marked degree and it is to be hoped that no voter will neglect his responsibility. College men are not 'influenced' as much as many others by petty party ties, when it comes to municipal elections, and this enables them to choose the best man for the place regardless of affiliation.

It is true that the jam in the main hall is frightful just after classes, and that the mail boxes are difficult of access, but this does not justify some of the carelessness which has become especially evident of late. Mail has been missing for a whole week and then suddenly appeared in the proper box. The trouble lies in the fact that some people care not for anyone's convenience except their own. Someone goes to the mail-box, seizes the bunch of letters or notes in the pigeon-hole marked with his initial, glances over the names and then discharges the handful in the first box which comes handy. This method of procedure is very annoying to the one who fails to receive an important missive which has been dropped in his box. A half minute for the sake of others is surely not wasted even though the time is short and the press in the hall unpleasant.
