

being formulated for a successful season. The marked success of our team in the past is an incentive to pains-taking effort in the future. The indications now are that most of the old men will be ready to play in the Spring and an abundance of new material is in sight. The outlook is decidedly favorable: a coach will be procured; new and nobby suits will be purchased: a trip east will be made: possibly an Inter State League formed: in short everything possible will be done to bring base ball to the front and fix it firmly as a recognized college sport. The only question as to entire success is that of Finance—and this will disappear if the student-body properly support the team. A series of "indoor base ball games" is being arranged and by beginning of '98 it is hoped that means will be provided that all who desire may begin to 'condition' for the opening of the season.
