

Those receiving medals were John D. Hastie, first individual prize; Orlo Brown, second individual prize; George Ryon, first cavalry prize; and George Burgert, first artillery prize. The regiment was then reviewed by a party composed of Governor Holcomb, Major Fechet, Captain Barry, Chancellor MacLean and the Board of Regents.

THE PERSHING DRILL.

The Pershing Rifles drilled part of the time on the south campus and part of the time in the armory. Considering the cold weather and the slippery ground they did exceedingly well. When they drilled on the familiar armory floor their work was better than expected by the most enthusiastic. On the campus the drill was in both normal and extended order with one battle exercise; indoors the company marched and countermarched in every formation and gave the bayonet exercise and manual with and without the numbers. The chief feature was the presentation of a costly silk flag to the Rifles by Chancellor MacLean acting for Lieut. Pershing. It was a proud color guard that moved forward under Lieut. Weeks to receive the colors from Lieut. Stotenburg and Chancellor MacLean. And the company was proud, too, as Capt. Oury brought them to present arms and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner" with the silken folds of the new flag unfurled in the breeze.

The Palladian Party.

The Valentine party given by the Palladian girls at the home of Miss Jeffery last Monday evening, adds one more event to the annals of Palladianism. That it was a delightful party is as natural as the relation of cause and effect. Could a saint have read some of the verses and seen some of the artistic productions which were put up at auction, he would certainly have said they were too demonstrative to be doubtful—it was Cupid's day. The value of the gems varied inversely as the prices paid. The latter ranged from ten pounds of chocolate to forty smiles—this was Cupid's day. The evening was spent with games and a general good time. Two beautifully decorated tables, loaded down with delicacies from the hands of the Pall. girls, refreshed the eighty guests, only to make them lighter hearted than ever—Cupid was found in it all. The alumni present were Messrs. T. F. A. Williams, E. F. Piper, Z. E. Crook, A. S. Johnson, the Misses Flora and Edna Bullock, Nettie Philbrick, and Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Tucker. There certainly is not one who will not remember St. Valentine's day at the home of Miss Jeffery as one of the brightest and most enjoyable events of their life.

The Forum and the Debating League have agreed upon conditions relative to the debate with Nebraska, and the success of the event now rests entirely on the completion of the arrangements between S. U. I. and Nebraska University. This marks a new epoch in our debating history, and an important advance in debating interests. No definite place of holding the contest has as yet been agreed upon, but in all probability it will be at Omaha. The Forum is a strong society, and we need not fear but its representatives will not uphold the previous debating record of S. U. I.—Vidette-Reporter.
