The same old complaint of last year is heard every Saturday at the Library. Old and new students join in asking why the Library cannot be opened at 8 o'clock, but no satisfactory answer has ever been given. Many students desire to put in a good day's work every Saturday, and no better time can be found for hard work than early in the day.

Again our foot-ball eleven is victorious. The Ames game was well played, well attended and well enjoyed. It seems apparent that our team is to be the pennant winner again this year. Wiley Woodruff and his Jay Hawks will have the greater honor of being defeated by a still stronger team than that which so thoroughly cooled off their ardor in the memorable Kansas-Nebraska game of '97. Our team deserves praise and loyal support.

It is full time that arrangements for the preliminary debates be in progress. What has become of the debating association? Has it had a meeting? What is going to be done this year? Who are thinking of entering? All these questions are asked now and then by interested parties, but no one seems to be able to answer. Let us do something. Why wait until the eleventh hour and then rush through without half preparation, and when everyone is complaining of the enormous amount of work on his hands?

Rates of board at Harvard University are nearly double what they are at the University of Nebraska. At one student's club, Memorial hall, where eleven hundred students or thereabouts board, the rates range from $4.00 to $4.20 per week, and at private houses no board can be secured less than $5.00 per week. At Memorial hall a contract is made with the man who runs it, whereby the rate can never run above $4.20 nor below $4.00. The proprietor of the club necessarily has to keep the quality of the board up or the students will leave and he will be the loser.

The following is a bill of fare at Memorial hall, which our Professor Caldwell states he triumphantly combated with and bravely exterminated on June 6, 1898, although grave doubts exist as to his capacity in this line:

- Scotch Broth
- Boiled Calf's Head, a la Venaigrette
- Roast Ribs of Beef, Dish Gravy
- Boiled and Mashed Potatoes
- String Beans
- Pickles
- Chow Chow
- Macaroni
- Halford Sauce
- Tomato Ketchup
- Cocoanut Pudding, Lemon Sauce
- Apples
- Cheese
- Crackers
- Tea
- Coffee
- Cocoa
- Oranges
- Sliced Tomatoes 15c
- Asparagus on Toast 10c
- Fried Soft Shell Crabs, Tartar Sauce 25c
- Strawberries 10c
- Strawberry Shortcake 50c each
- Strawberry Shortcake 15c per order

College of Law Notes.

Peace. Even the Maxwell club knows its meaning.

Vice-President Halderson returned in time to lend dignity to the first Maxwell club meeting.

"English as She is Spoke" by Laremen, is a recent addition to the law library.

The Dean is his old self again this week, with the result that the Juniors no longer consider Blackstone a dry subject.

Three instructors and their three hobbies—Wilson, Webster and Robbins—Evidence, Equity and Common Law Pleading.

The class of '99 does not desire to see Colonel Bryan return one half as badly as it does to see John Longfellow once more.

At the Maxwell club tomorrow evening J. R. Burleigh and Miss Bertha Stull will urge that women should be allowed to vote. G. D. Talbot and J. C. Moore will speak on the negative.

The Maxwell club election last Saturday evening did not develop the "scrap" which some had prophesied. In fact the club showed itself to be a very happy family. The officers elected were: President, E. B. Perry; vice-president, T. E. Boys; secretary, Skiles; critic, G. E. Tobey; sergeant at arms, H. Halderson.
