

the ball, and she began to make a series of furious rushes, and seemed that she would certainly make another touchdown.

Kingsbury sprained his ankle and Iowa did everything to delay the game. Again and again Irwin smashed the Iowa line for big gains. Five times in succession he carried the ball, and made an average of 4 yards for each buck. The ball was on Iowa's 8 yard line. A few more bucks would have taken it over. Here the game was delayed by the Iowa coach rushing on the field, and the game was called on account of darkness, and Iowa had one point in her favor.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

According to a decision of the debating association another division has been added to the preliminary contests. This makes the total number seventy-two.

During the Thanksgiving recess the debating clubs were rather quiet. Many of those registered for the preliminaries occupied the time in taking notes. To glance at them working in the library would remind one of those periods in the school year when history papers are over due a day or so.

The debating clubs this year have not been able to secure many contests with other colleges. The fact that the preliminary debates were discussed a few weeks earlier than usual, is, no doubt, the cause. The Delian club, so far as we have been able to learn, is the only organization that has secured a debate with other colleges. They debate with Doane here December 9th. R. D. Andreson, W. F. McNaughton and F. E. Edgerton will represent the Delians on the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, That party allegiance is preferable to independent action in politics."

The State Normal students who are in Lincoln and University Place, met at the home of Misses Bertha and Nona Johnson Thursday evening for their annual Thanksgiving reunion. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. J. King, H. L. Sams, Guy Joy, Edith and Amos Hutchinson, Sanford Hunt with his sisters Bertha and Laura, and Robert and Carrie Ord and Mamie Agnew of Wesleyan. W. J. Lowrie, H. O. Sutton and Misses Mamie and Nettie Henry were also present. The evening passed most pleasantly.

The Palladians had a regular old fashioned Thanksgiving feed Wednesday evening. Sandwiches and pickles, doughnuts and pumpkin pie, fruits, candy and nuts completed the list of refreshments. Everyone enjoyed himself thoroughly. G. A. Benedict was toast-master for the evening. Mr. Reid responded to the toast "The Rag," Miss Nona Johnston to "An Old Thanksgiving Dinner," Mr. J. J. King to "The New Members," and Miss Rena Alderman to "The Future."

Miss Alderman spoke as a prophet looking into the Palladian of the future. Among the Alumni Palladians Messrs. H. O. Sutton, Banghart and Thatcher, and Misses Helena Bedford, Flora Bullock, Mabel Cushman and Fannie Hewitt were present.

A merry crowd of Delians and their friends gathered in Delian Hall Wednesday evening, November 23rd, to participate in the annual Thanksgiving feed. Lively and interesting games made the time pass quickly. Cake, fruit and candy were served from dainty little plates and good jokes and stories with plenty of merry laughter served for sauce and champagne. Those present were: Misses Archer, Fleming, Buckmaster, Robinson, Pyrtle, Packard, Davis, Wilson, McCallum, Wiggins, Muldoon, Rosa, Votaw. Messrs. Boomer, Theobald, H. J. Theobald, Root, Turner, Warner, Moore, Swallow, Osborne, Garrett, Bartos, Harner, Jones, McCallum.
