Monday evening the letters "L. S. C." and "Welcome" were daubed on the University steps and walks in many places with green paint. On one of the benches is painted the motto, "Reserved for the L. S. Prof. Fling delivered a lecture at the opening of the new public school building at Wymore, Neb., Jan. 2d. During the course of the lecture the building caught on fire from below and the entire audience rushed from the building. However, the fire was soon put out and the lecture resumed as if nothing had happened. Mr. Fling reports the new building as being very complete in its facilities for instruction and thoroughly modern in every detail. Three of the instructors employed there, Miss Cushman, Miss Leonard and Mr. Banghart, were formerly students in the University.
