LITERARY SOCIETIES

There has been a very noticeable increase in the attendance of the various debating clubs of the University of late. Debating was never more alive in the University than it is today.

The Union Doane debate which was to take place last Saturday evening was postponed. It will take place this Saturday evening at Doane. A large crowd will accompany the Union debaters to Crete.

Word has been received from Colorado. They will choose one of the four questions sent to them by our association, and will also select the side they desire. It appears this was the agreement with them last year, when we obtained a like privilege.

The Delian boys at their meeting next Saturday evening will discuss the topic, "Resolved, That any combination to prevent competition should be prohibited by law." Last Saturday they debated the Greater Trans-Mississippi Exposition question.

The Palladians, Saturday evening, resolved themselves into a legislative body and debated the bill now before the legislature providing for free libraries in country school districts. They did not finish the work, and will debate the same question again Saturday night.

The debaters of the University are much pleased to see the old wheel horse Hawxby around again. In attempting to remove some warts from his nose, he applied a little too much carbolic acid. His face was not very presentable for a few days, but he is around again with the same old smile.

The Delian Doane debate will take place in Lincoln, Friday night, Feb. 17. The question is "Resolved, that Party Allegiance is Preferable to Independent Action in Politics." The Delians will defend the party side. The speakers are W. F. McNaughton, A. H. Maxwell, W. H. O'Connell.

The girls from 1436 S street will have charge of the Delian program for next Friday evening, February 10th.

Death of Harry Fleming.

Last Sunday morning at 5 o'clock, Harry E. Fleming died at 410 No. 12 st. He was sick but seven days altogether. A week ago Saturday night he felt slightly unwell, and by Monday his physician thought he was taken down with the measles. The measles seemed to develop into pneumonia and after Wednesday he grew steadily weaker until the end.

In the loss of Mr. Fleming the Freshmen class is deprived of one of its most promising young men. The deceased was a graduate of the Sutton high school, where he had been a faithful student and a prominent member in society. In the University he has won the esteem and affection of a large number of students. In the Union Boys Debating Club, of which he was vice president at the time of his death, he has distinguished himself as a high-minded, conscientious thinker. Because of his ability as a speaker, and on account of his loyalty for the club he was to have been one of its representatives at the contest in Crete last Saturday night.

The honest, faithful work of Mr. Fleming as a student, and his influence in his social and religious circles in Lincoln, causes many hearts to mourn. But the assurance that such a character, which has helped to make this life nobler and brighter, will surely be blessed hereafter, must inspire those who knew him to higher aspirations.

The following testimonial was received this week by the Union Boys' Debating club from the Pi Kappa Delta society of Doane College:

To the Union Boys' Debating Club.—Dear Friends:—On behalf of the Pi Kappa Delta society of Doane College, we desire to extend to you our most sincere sympathy in the loss of your fellow member, Harry E. Flemming, who passed away yesterday. Although it was never our privilege to know Mr. Flemming personally, we had looked forward to forming a firm friendship with him during our approaching joint debates. It is indeed a common loss both to you and to us that he should be snatched away so quickly from the activities of University life. May the influence of his life inspire us all to higher endeavors and nobler manhood.

J. W. Searson returned to his home at Grand Island, last Tuesday.

The Senior Class has not yet decided what representation it will have in the union annual. At the last meeting of the class a committee, consisting of Mr. Sloan, Mr. Hanson and Miss Shively, was appointed to look after the matter. The committee desires that members of the class will submit class histories, stories, poems, etc., just as soon as possible so that they may be examined. The best production submitted will appear in the annual with the author's name attached, as the representation of the class. All productions must be handed to some member of the committee before February 20th, otherwise they will not be considered.
