FIVE CENTS.

WIN FROM HIGH SCHOOL.

Game Saturday Proves Hard For University Men—Weak Points Brought Out.

The first game of foot ball for the '99 university team took place on the university grounds Friday, September 30.

The game was between the Lincoln high school team and a mixed eleven of the first and second team of the university, which ended in a victory for the university, the score being 6 to 0.

The game started by a "kick-off" from the high school and during the greater part of the first half the ball was carried scarcely twenty-five yards from center.

During the latter part the university succeeded, by successive center rushes, in gaining ground until a touch down was made by Williams just as time for the first half was called.

After time was called a goal was kicked by Ringer. The last half was played with a new line-up by the university, but neither side succeeded in scoring.

The high school played a steady game throughout. The men played together and made several good gains by end runs. The university eleven was so well organized and the team work was poor. Numerous fumbles and thoughtless plays occurred throughout the game.

The game as a whole was of little benefit to either side except as a criterion as to future playing. Upon the whole, the students of the university had little reason to feel encouraged. Several times they proved to be extremely weak, especially in the center of the line. The absence of Stringer, Benedict, Carver and Tyson from the game weakened the playing of the men noticeably.

The high school boys played well together. Raymond, Eager and Shedd carried off the major portion of the honors. With a little more development and steady practice there should be no doubt as to the outcome of the high school game with Omaha, which is to be played in a short time.

The university team will necessarily need a great deal of development before the game with Ames the latter part of this week. The Ames team has been in training for the past two months and is now in the pink of condition. With this they have the advantage of their home grounds, thus giving them a very good chance to add another victory to those already gained over the university.

The line-up Saturday was as follows:

High School.	University.
Kyle	C..... Plowhead
Martin	L. G..... Wallace
Hubbard	R. G..... Ringer
Harrison	L. T..... Brew
Mickle	R. T..... Pearse
Johnson	L. E..... Drain

ENGLISH CLUB MEETING.

The English club met for the first time this year at the home of Miss Harriet Cooke, Thirty-sixth and Holdrege streets, on Saturday evening. Verses were read by Miss Elsie Blandon and Miss Jessica Morgan. Later in the evening the club elected officers as follows: Edwin Ford Piper, president; Miss Annette Abbott, vice president; Miss Jennie Fox, member of the executive committee; Miss Elsie Blandon, delegate to the students' council. The club will hold meetings every two weeks at the homes of the different members.

LAW SCHOOL OPENS.

Fifty-one students were registered in the law school Saturday, of whom forty are new students in that department. This is twice as large a number as registered on Saturday before the opening last year. Most of the seniors and many juniors will register Monday and it is believed that the enrollment will reach one hundred and fifty during the year.

The enrollment at the University of Iowa to date is 150 ahead of what it was at this time last year. Dean Currier is confident that within ten days it will exceed the entire enrollment of last year, which was 1,350. There is a gain of about thirty in the law department and forty in the medical. The exact figures at present are: College, 609; law, 206; medical, 233; dental, 127; homeopathic, 62; pharmacy, 50; total, 1,287.

GRAY-JONES NUPTIALS.

Society Function in Fremont Last Week.—Both Parties Known in University Circles.

The Evening Fremont Tribune of September 27 describes the marriage of Miss Marietta Gray to Elbert O. Jones. Both are former students and well known to a large number of people in this city. The Tribune speaks as follows:

"At high noon today the nuptials of Miss Marietta Gray and Elbert O. Jones were solemnized at the fine home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Gray, on East Sixth street. It was a very quiet wedding, very few guests being present. The ceremony was performed by Judge Hollenbeck.

"The front parlor in which the ceremony took place was decorated with green vines, white flowers, ferns and palms. The judge stood in the alcove in the northwest corner of the room and precisely at 12 o'clock the bridal party came down the stairway, while here and has won for herself many sincere friends, who will wish her all happiness.

"The bridegroom is a young man of excellent standing in his community. He is an attorney at Sioux Falls, S. D., with a very good practice. Mr. and Mrs. Jones left this afternoon for Sioux Falls, where they will at once begin housekeeping.

"Those in the wedding party from out of town were: Mrs. J. O. Sloane of Omaha, Miss Gertrude Marsland of Lincoln, Misses Phyllis and Edith Wyatt of Chicago; and George Cody of Grangerville, Cal."

CORN TASSELS.

Now that the second edition of "Corn Tassels" is about to appear, it is well to know how the former one was received. Among the favorable comments that was received at the time was the following from the Woman's Tribune of Washington, D. C.:

"The dedication of this little volume of poems gives the keynote to the book, 'To the state I love, Nebraska, and to her people.' It is fairly redolent of the breath of the prairies and the corn-fields, whose distant horizon leads the thought out to the infinite as does the sea. The bright young face of the poet appears as the frontispiece. Mr. Dunroy is proud to be known as a Nebraskan, whose inspiration is the direct outgrowth of its fields and skies, and what no one who has ever lived in the state can help but feel he has expressed in this little volume in faultless rhythm.

"The first poem, 'Nebrasky,' pictures the level land, the broad, flat rivers, the bluest sky, the loving winds, the fields of 'emerald bladed corn that swishes in the breeze, the little clumps of supple willow trees,' that make 'Nebrasky.'

"And this is not all that our poet finds to inspire his muse. There are the prairie night, the lullaby of the corn, the dawn, the grasses waving in stormless tides, the flower which 'The sun has photographed upon the field, a myriad golden pictures of his face;' the river 'with shifting isles of shallow sand,' which made it seem 'like a silver ribbon blotched with gold;' the prairie view where the boundless levels lie 'beyond the aching eye's deep straining, and then farther still the floor which meets the bending sky;' the amber autumnal robes; these and the wind and flowers and bird songs are the rich material for our poet's rhymes.

"Nor although happiness here, has he limited himself to these; there are homely poems of life, of love and of heroism, all showing a poetic sense and an appreciation of the good and the true."

MUSIC.

Students desiring private instruction in music will find it to their advantage to call on G. C. Menzendorf, former instructor of music in the University of Nebraska. The following branches are taught: Piano, violin, cello, mandolin and other stringed instruments; also harmony and theory. Price of tuition moderate. Students studying music with Mr. Menzendorf are not barred from taking such studies in the university as they are properly prepared and qualified for. For further particulars call at studio, Brace bldg., room 405, cor. Fifteenth and O streets.

WILLIAM REED DUNROY,
Nebraska's Greatest Poet.

the wedding march was played by Miss Helen Gray. The ushers, R. C. Roper of Lincoln and Frank Hollenbeck, came first, followed by the bridegroom and his best man, C. E. Abbott. The bridesmaids, Misses Irene Sloane of Omaha and Lova Jones of Sioux Falls, S. D., preceded, and the bride and her maid of honor. Miss Sloane was handsomely gowned in a shell pink taffeta silk, while Miss Jones wore pearl blue lansdown. Both carried pink roses. The maid of honor, Miss Vesta Gray, was dressed in a brocaded ivory silk and carried pink roses. The bride looked charming in a white liberty silk over white satin, made with a slight train. She carried white carnations.

"The judge used the beautiful ring ceremony and when the final words were pronounced the couple was congratulated freely by the guests. A bountiful wedding luncheon was served, to which all sat down. Many beautiful gifts were received by the pair.

"The bride is a young lady widely and favorably known to Fremont people. She was born and brought up
