

The Alumni Bulletin

H. G. SHEDD, - - Editor

Published the first of each month, and entered at the postoffice at Lincoln, Nebr., as second class matter.

SIX MONTHS.....TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

FEBRUARY 1ST, 1900.

Notice.

The editor has received many letters from alumni and former students, all of whom appear pleased with the plan of publishing the ALUMNI BULLETIN. A large majority of the alumni have not responded, however, and the editor now makes a last appeal that as far as possible each one send in 25c. toward maintaining the paper. He will be pleased also to receive as far as possible any notes of interest concerning alumni and former students as well as the present addresses of former students of the University of Nebraska who did not graduate. The addresses of these students is not known at The University of Nebraska. Any suggestions as to improving paper will be thankfully received.

O. H. Erwin, '97, is practicing law in Omaha.

W. R. Boose, '99, has been elected principal at Elmwood, Neb.

A. Randolph '96 is teaching in Pipestone, Minn., public schools.

Miss Jean Tuttle, '98, is doing post-graduate work in Chicago University.

A. E. Davisson '97 is director of the University School of Agriculture.

Henry Lighty '84, is now located at Paloval, Wash., engaged in the loan business.

Dr. F. M. Fling attended the annual meeting of the American Historical Association.

Ernest A. Wiggernhorn, '98, is engaged in the banking business at Ashland, Nebraska.

C. L. Countryman, '97, of Nehawka, Neb., attended the stock breeders' association.

The Junior promenade of the University of Nebraska will be held at the Lincoln hotel Feb 16th.

A. E. Henry, '98, A. M. '99, is a fellow in political economy in the University of Wisconsin.

A paper on "Othello," by Dr. L. A. Sherman, appeared in the Chicago Record on December 21.

Miss Julia Korsmeyer, '93, and Miss Dorothy Canfield are taking lectures at the Sorbonne, Paris.

Edward Markham, the author of "The Man with the Hoe," visited the University of Nebraska recently.

Chauncey F. Warner, '99, has returned to The University and will enter the law school after the holidays.

Miss Stella Kirker broke her arm during the holidays while on a visit to St. Paul by slipping on a board walk.

George R. Boomer delivered a lecture upon "Nebraska Boys in the Philippine War" at the University chapel recently.

E. F. Turner, '99, who played left guard on the foot ball team last year, is employed with a bridge constructing party in Minnesota.

The Subject of Dr. Benton's Charter Day address at the University of Nebraska is announced as "Facing the Twentieth Century."

A. J. Weaver, '95, law '97, delivered an address at the Jacksonian Club banquet at Omaha Jan. 13, upon Democracy's New Year.

There were forty-eight professors and graduates who took part in the exercises of the state teacher's association during the holidays.

A letter from Roy P. Teele, '97, now in the government service in Cheyenne, tells that he is the proud father of a month-old boy.

W. H. Wagner, '91, superintendent of the public schools of Hebron, Neb., attended the meeting of the state teachers' association during the holidays.

O. A. Wright, '97, is teaching in the high school at Lead, S. D. During the summer vacation Mr. Wright is employed by the Star stamp mill of Lead.

R. E. Preston, '92, assayer for a British mining syndicate, is now located on the Askold island, twenty miles out from Vladivostok, Eastern Siberia.

A series of popular lectures will be given by University of Nebraska Professors during the remainder of the year in the interests of the College Settlement.

S. B. Sloan, assistant in English at the University of Iowa under Professor Ansley, is offering a course in journalism modeled upon that of the University of Nebraska.

Charles P. Storrs, '90, is now geologist for the Northern Pacific Railway Company and has in charge the survey of all the coal fields belonging to that great system.

At noon, January 4, the new regents of the University of Nebraska, J. L. Teeters and Edson Rich, took the oath of office before the Deputy Secretary of State.

Cecil Pugh '99, is engaged in raising sheep on a ranch near Danbury, Red Willow county, Nebr. A large amount of alfalfa has been raised on this ranch the past season.

At a meeting of the Chicago section of the American Mathematical Association, two papers by Professor E. W. Davis and Mr. R. E. Moritz attracted marked attention.

There are now twenty-two graduate students of The University taking work in the department of philosophy. Eleven of these are taking the subject as majors for the master's degree.

There are at present over thirty graduate students taking their major in English. The whole undergraduate enrollment in this department is one thousand, five hundred and fifty-six.

James E. Shue, '96, who has been connected with various mining concerns in Wyoming since graduation, is at present at Humboldt, where he is installed in an electric lighting plant.

The Athletic Board of the University of Nebraska has recently taken important action in the matter of educational qualifications taking part in athletics in the University of Nebraska.

Miss Olivia Pound, permanent secretary of the class of '95, is preparing a class book to be issued in June which will give an account of all of the members of that class since graduation.

T. F. Bannigan, '92, now of Cripple Creek, Colo., brought into the geological department last week specimens of sylvanite ore. He has promised to contribute to the collection in future years.

Director Davisson of the University of Nebraska school of agriculture reports a total registration in the farmers' short course of one hundred and ten. This is fully one-third more than were expected by any one.

On the 7th of February the annual meeting of the Nebraska state conference of charities and corrections will occur in the chapel of the state university, beginning at 2 p. m. and continuing for an evening session.

There has been a great demand by agricultural papers all over the United States for various cuts of the University of Nebraska buildings, and especially for informations of experiments carried on at the University farm.

John P. Harpham '84, now located at Seattle, Washington, has been in Nebraska recently. He is attorney for several large corporations on the coast, among them the Pacific Steam Ship Co., and an Alaskan railway.

H. R. Tucker, '99, has resigned his readership in American history in order to engage in teaching, and Miss Cook has been appointed to fill the vacancy. Miss Cook was one of those who were elected to the Phi Beta Kappa Society by the faculty a couple of weeks ago on account of the high scholarship she had attained in her University work.