U. B. D. C.

The boys of the U. B. D. C. at their last meeting debated the question resolved "That the United States Army in its present proportions, is a menace to our free institutions." Plenty of argument was brought out on either side and the merits of a regular and citizen soldier thoroughly discussed. The question adopted for discussion next Saturday is: Resolved, "That the Republican party is responsible for the industrial and financial conditions from 1893-96."

P. B. D. C.

The Palladian Debating Club met Saturday evening with the largest attendance of the year. The Chinese immigration question was debated, whether the Chinese should be prohibited absolutely from immigration into the United States or not. The question was considered in both its commercial and moral aspects by the speakers of the evening and after the regular debate a general discussion was held in which everybody took part. All who attended felt it was worth while.

At the next meeting the question of the disfranchisement of the negro in the south will be debated by old and experienced men who will discuss it thoroughly. Later the same question will probably be debated with Wesleyan University.

Nebraska Takes Another Scalp—Drake Defeated—Crowd Small but Enthusiastic.

Nebraska's eleven defeated Drake University last Saturday in the most interesting game of the season. The weather was very disagreeable and the crowd was consequently rather small. A high wind prevailed all afternoon, interspersed with a few drops of rain.

The crowd small as it was, did some excellent rooting and engaged in much friendly bantering. Between the halves a crowd of men marched around the fence and made it disagreeable for the individuals who were watching the game through the fence and from nearby trees.

As the score shows the game was closely contested. Star plays were as limited in number as the attendance at chapel in May. Team work was the order of the day combined with the boxing ability of each individual man. Both sides were penalized for off side plays, but Drake was the aggressor in this art and easily carried off the honors much to the credit of the other fellow. Captain Bacon of the Iowans was disqualified in the beginning of the second half for planting his foot on a Nebraska man's thinking apparatus. This, however, is to be said to his credit. When ordered out he went out like a gentleman and did not threaten to take his players with him.

Nebraska's team work was of a spasmodic nature. At times, Drake seemed able to make her gains at will but on a pinch the 'varsity men always rallied and held. Twice in the first half, Drake rushed down wind and when he tried his punts against the wind he could do nothing, loosing twenty yards on one which was carried back by the wind.

The individual work of the men was all good and it is hard to mention any one man as all were of the same class. Raymond of Nebraska made several good punts. During the first half, he kicked against the wind and then held his own with the Iowa man. When goals were changed, Raymond looked wise and on the first attempt sent the pig skin sailing through the air for fifty yards. Toward the latter part of the half he punted for sixty-five yards.

Captain Brew played a fine game. He started in as right-half but after a few plays went to his old place as left tackle. He broke through the line several times and tackled hard. Koehler gratified his admirers by putting up a rattling good game at center, breaking the line time after time. The backs were fast but Crandall proved the best ground gainer and played his usual strong game.

Drake's strong point were her ends. Bates and McFerrin, who held their places like walls and permitted no brilliant end runs. Captain Bacon played a good game and the two backs were speedy.

GAME IN DETAIL.

Drake won the toss and chose the south goal. Nebraska kicked off for twenty yards. Drake fumbled and Cortelyou dropped on the ball. Two line bucks and 10 yards for an off side play placed the ball on Drake's ten yard line, out here Nebraska fumbled and lost the ball. Bliss went around the end for twenty two yards. A line buck netted nothing and Drake fumbled. Cortelyou got the ball.

Several line bucks and a kick by Drake placed the ball on Nebraska's 40 yard line and in her possession. At this point Brew went into the line as left tackle, Pillsbury out and Montgomery in as right half.

Nebraska lost ball on downs, Drake kicked and got ball on fumble. After two line bucks with only two yards gain, Drake tried a drop kick for goal from the twenty yard line. Raymond punted fifteen yards, the ball changed hands a couple of times without advantage to either side although Brew made one good tackle for a loss of five yards.

Raymond punted thirty-five yards against the wind to center of the field. Drain had gotten through the line and tackled Stewart as soon as he had the ball. Drake after two downs, kicked back for twenty-five yards and secured ball. Young here made the best gain of the day, going between tackle and end for twenty-one yards.

By line bucks the ball was placed on Nebraska's ten yard line with only a couple of minutes left to play. Drake felt sure of scoring but she failed. An attempt to go through the line lost a yard and Koehler blocked next play for a loss of two more yards. To hold the ball Drake had to make eight yards on her next down. She tried another drop kick but failed again. Time was called without either side having scored, although both teams had been within ten yards of the coveted line. Most of the playing was done in Nebraska's territory.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The mission study classes have been organized into two sections. One section meets Tuesdays at 5:00 and the other Saturdays at 2:00 p.m. Miss Henderson is acting as leader. The work is interesting and profitable beyond the expectation of the members. The missionary fund started by subscriptions of two and one half cents per week, is growing rapidly. A small collection of reference books bearing on missionary work will soon be placed in the university library.

Dr. Rowlands spoke to the students in chapel last Sunday afternoon. His subject was "The Student and His Relation to the Sabbath."

the field to Nebraska's ten yard line, but could get no farther. The close formation on the offensive was worked for gains. On the end runs, the interference was somewhat loose, permitting Drake's ends to get in repeatedly.

Drake's team work was steady, but best during the first half with the wind at their back. Their line was about the weight of Nebraska's and did not hold very well. The interference was good on the end runs and was hard to break. On the punts, Drake's line held, being blocked and that by Westover. However, the man from the other side of the river could not kick nearly as hard as some of the class politicians. He punted for only twenty-five to thirty yards with the
