

ball on a fumble of a very difficult catch by Crandall. Nebraska soon gained the ball and Raymond punted for fifty-five yards.

Drake started down the field but was stopped by Westover and was forced to kick making ten yards. Here, Nebraska settled down, and by repeated line bucks carried the ball steadily down the field. She lost it only once and then Westover blocked the kick. Crandall was sent over for a touch down after ten minutes of playing. Ringer kicked goal. Score 6-0.

Drake kicked off but on first down Raymond kicked for sixty-five yards to Drake's fifteen yard line. After several line bucks, Drake tried a kick but the wind caught the ball and carried it down toward the goal line. Drake fumbled the ball just inside the line and it rolled out. Cortelyou was at hand forcing the man to drop on the ball and not a second too soon to keep Cortelyou from getting it and counting a touch down. As it was a safety was scored counting two points.

The ball was kicked out from the twenty-five yard line by Drake to center of field. Little was done during the remainder of the half.

Nielsen played right half and Johnson left end during the last five minutes of the game.

Manager Tukey in speaking of the attendance after the game said that "the contest with Grinnell would be transferred to Omaha." The management cannot run and pay the expenses with a crowd like the one at the game Saturday and is not to be blamed for transferring the game to Omaha.

SCHOOL OF MUSIC NOTES.

The professors dislike western students because they refuse to believe everything the professor tells them, without some proof.

BOOK REVIEWS.

Methods for the Examination of Milk, for Chemists, Physicians and Hygienists, compiled by Dr. Paul Sommerfeld, Assistant in Chemistry in the Emperor and Empress Frederick Hospital for Children of Berlin. Translated by Dr. A. T. Peters, Investigator of Animal Diseases, U. S. Experiment Station of the University of Nebraska, and R. S. Hiltner, A. M., Instructor in Chemistry, University of Nebraska. 100 pages.

This little work on milk inspection is adapted to the needs of the commercial analyst, market inspector and health officer as well as the technical chemist. The qualitative examination of milk is first taken up and methods given for the detection of fats, albuminoids, and milk sugar. In the quantitative analysis, the determination of ash, per cent of fats, total nitrogen, and the usual chemical constituents is given in such a form as to be at the same time complete and not too exhaustive. The detection of preservatives in milk is also treated of at some length.

The latter portion of the work is devoted to the examination of milk for bacteria and disease germs. A short bibliography on the subject of milk analysis completes the work. The translators have made additions in the way of footnotes and brought the work up-to-date as far as possible.
