Nebraska has added another victory to her already creditable list without a score against her yet. The work of the team Saturday was somewhat of a surprise to the crowd. While Nebraska expected to win, she hardly hoped to be able to run up so large a score. The Grinnell team was strong and aggressive and in the best of physical condition, every man playing through the entire game. Nebraska was not in as good shape, several yet showing the effects of the hard battle with the Medics at Kansas City two weeks ago. Minnesota was able to run up a score of only 26 to 0 against this team after a hard game. The game was one of the cleanest ever seen on the campus and no hard feelings were shown by either side. The Grinnell players are gentlemen.

A former graduate of Nebraska University and a present graduate student at Kansas University, took occasion recently to make some comparisons of the two institutions. His opportunities should have made him an unbiased judge, but the facts seem to warrant the conclusion that he spoke hastily and without duly balancing the conditions. The statements were that, though in most respects, Kansas University is about five years behind Nebraska yet in the departments of law, chemistry, the biological sciences and sociology she is far ahead. The first part of this statement is, in many respects, probably too strongly put. The latter part of it is undoubtedly too sweeping. It is well to admit that Kansas has a stronger department of sociology because Nebraska has none at all. The Kansas law school, too, is older and has a longer course both of which are points in its favor. In organization, faculty and character of instruction, however, it does not seem necessary to admit that Nebraska is at all behind. That some have considered her ahead is evidenced by the fact that they (several) have left the free department at Kansas and paid tuition to attend here. The chemical department here is one of the strongest in the west. Kansas University is making laudable strides towards a high place in this line of work. She has a new building soon to be dedicated. At present, however, in extent, depth, and quality of work Nebraska takes a place some distance ahead, while in equipment there is no chance of comparison. It should be noted though that Kansas has a very strong school of pharmacy, a branch of chemistry which the department here does not touch. As to the biological sciences it seems only necessary to mention Dr. Bessey, of whose reputation as a botanist the whole world knows, Dr. Ward who has several times been specially honored by his fellow zoologists and has several times received marks of their special confidence, and Professor Bruner, who only a couple of years ago was chosen by the government as the best equipped entomologist in the United States to accomplish an important mission to South America.

Organized rooting has not been in evidence so far this season. There is only one more game to be played on the campus this year and it is the most important one of the season. Plans must be perfected to have some good rooting with songs, yells, howls, whistles, cat-calls, groans, etc., etc., and afterwards the biggest celebration ever seen in Lincoln. The leaders should come from the battalion, and the cadets should take the initiative in thus pushing it through to a success.

Spirit and enterprise are always to be commended, and a student or an organization of students that can devise something entirely novel in the way of ceremony for welcoming new members is usually deserving unstinted praise. There is such a thing, however, as mistaken judgment in the selection of "welcoming" material. Anything harmless is passable, but when any plan is chosen, in the execution of which it is necessary to permanently disfigure, or where there is even risk or chance of doing permanent injury, there is a cause for serious criticism. Initiations are effective and need to be impressive and convincing but the purpose is thwarted and the effect lost when they are allowed to become mere frolics. When they do actual injury they deserve only severe condemnation.
