Attention is called to the change in our editorial staff. A board of five editors chosen from the members of the journalism class will hereafter have charge of all the editorial work. The editors were chosen because of their fitness for the positions as indicated by their work as reporters. All promotions on the staff of the paper will be made hereafter on this basis and every member of the journalism class will have a chance to compete for an editorial position.

Doubtless many alumni out of Lincoln would like to express their opinion in regard to having a general athletic manager at the University. We would like to have them do so and ask that all shall write at least a few words in regard to this. Send your letters to the Nebraskan-Hesperian and we will place them before the Regents. Let every alumnus who loves his alma mater do this and the University may be able to take another step forward in her already prosperous career.

Organized rooting was mentioned in last week's issue but we will bring it up again. Arrangements must be completed shortly in order to enable every one to learn the yells and practice them. We must have several new ones applicable to the special occasion of a game with our northern sister University. The last effectual attempt at such rooting was in 1897, when we surprised the Jayhawkers until they could not play fast enough to keep our team warm. A company of cadets in charge of the captain was located in each corner of the gridiron and in the center were crowds. Of course, there are times during the game when one cannot see as well as though he were free to move up and down the field. However this sacrifice should be made in order to urge the team on to their best efforts by showing your good will towards them and your confidence in their ability.

The question of the successor to Professor Hastings is interesting every one in the University. He has done much for his department and athletics and his loss will be greatly felt. During his stay here, he has organized track athletics and perfected the indoor contests. However, he is to leave us and some one must be secured to fill his place. A petition circulating among the students favors Coach Booth of the football team. Any one who has watched practice on the field during the present season knows his ability in that line. The work of the team also stands as a monument to his skill. He is able to handle a gymnasium and light athletics in the same masterly fashion. The question now seems to be this: "Is the University strong enough to have a man at the head of general athletics as Stagg in Chicago and many other men in the eastern colleges and universities?" We would say "yes," most emphatically. There are now over two thousand students at the University and such a man is badly needed here. Mr. Booth could, with assistants, carry on the work which Dr. Hastings has managed so efficiently and add to it the coaching of both football and base ball teams. By this some permanency would be given to our football team. We would not need to run the usual risk of selecting a coach by correspondence. Our coach would be here to watch and direct affairs during the entire year.

Y. M. C. A.

An increase of one hundred and fifty members in the Y. M. C. A. has been determined upon by the membership committee at a recent meeting. Little special effort has been placed upon this department of work during the past two years as it was felt that the greater effort should be placed upon a real development of the organization or rather the utilization of the membership already secured but it seems that the time has come now for a special effort and to this end the committee is being enlarged. It ought not to be a difficult thing to add this many members and it ought to be done.

The Young Men's Christian Association conducts a work that ought to be of as much interest to one young man as another; it is a university movement just as much as football, debating or oratory and as leaders in these movements demand university support so have the leaders of the Y. M. C. A. the right to make the same claims.

If men are asking: "What is there in it?" The answer would be "not much to the man who goes in for this reason." It is possible that for some men the association is of little value. They have their home life and social circle, they don't have to work for their expenses while in the university but there are a large number of men in the university who do need the help which comes from such an organization and it is from this standpoint that men should make their decisions when asked to join. Let all men in the university take an interest in this organization at least to the extent of becoming members.
