OMAHA CUP GOES TO "A"

Annual Contest Results in Victory For That Company—The Individual Contest—Baseball Team Beaten.

The annual competitive drill of the cadet battalion, held Saturday, was won by company A. Company D received second place and C and B third and fourth places respectively. In the individual competitive, which followed company drill, A. K. Barnes, first sergeant of company D, was awarded first place and Corporal Harold Homan of company B second. The drill was witnessed by a large crowd of spectators, who entirely filled the bleachers. With the exception of a disagreeable wind the day was almost an ideal one for the contest. The judges were Captain Eli Hodgins of Omaha, Captain P. J. Cosgrave of Lincoln and Captain Lincoln Wilson of Lincoln.

The drill was opened by company C, under the command of Captain Jerome Langer. Company D, under Captain Guy Barnes, company A under Captain Harry Tukey and company B under Captain Hepboit Klinge, followed in the order given. Each company was given about half an hour to go through the program arranged by the judges. The movements consisted of the most important ones in the company manual.

The individual prizes were contested for by sixteen men, four having been chosen from each company by "spell downs" held during the week. After eight men had been thrown out for errors the judges marked the remaining eight and rank was determined by the resulting score.

The presentation speech was made by Dr. Roscoe Pound and the prizes were presented by Misses Jeanette Thorp, Blanche Hargreaves, Louise Tukey, Abbie McHenry and Mae Davenport. They consisted of the Omaha cup, company colors, first and second individual medals and a sword presented to Captain Tukey by the members of company A.

Saturday night the fortunate company celebrated its victory. They were especially jubilant as this is the first time company A has been awarded first place. The cannon at the capitol was brought into use to aid in the jollification.

BASEBALL

In the first college game on the campus last Wednesday the varsity team went down in defeat before the Highland Park aggregation and at the end of the tenth inning the final score stood 5 to 3, and the victorious side could easily be designated by the victorious smiles covering their faces.

No one knows just how it happened that the score stood as it did, but on the whole their strong battery did the work, coupled with their ability to hit the ball when necessary. In team work and individual playing the Rhodes team was far superior; their playing was fast and showed the effect of many victories on their play. They seemed to have played with speed and precision absent in the previous games in the series. The varsity team was sittles and pitched his usual game, allowing only eight hits to be made by the Highlanders. Thompson, the twirler for the visiting team, did excellent work, striking out seven men. To him must be given much of the credit for their victory.

Notwithstanding the threatening weather, a fair sized crowd was in attendance, bringing with them a goodly amount of enthusiasm. The slight sprinkle settled the dust and as a result it was the prettiest game seen here this year for both spectators and players. The Highlanders went to bat first and much to their amazement retired in one, two, three order. The same happened to the Rhodes family in their turn. The game up (till the fifth inning was not unlike professional ball, not a man was able to reach third base. In the third Reeder saved a probable score by a sensational catch in left field. In the fifth inning the first scoring was done. Smith of the Park team went out to Rhodes. Dunning went to bat and landed a two-bagger. Manahan hit to Rhodes, who errored and Dunning scored. The home team in turn succeeded in running in a score. Raymond and Doane went out to center and third respectively. Hood hit safe and stole second. Bell hit safe and Hood stole home. Score 1 to 1 at the end of the fifth inning.

Again in the seventh Nebraska gets two more scores, due to the costly errors of the visitors, who seemingly want to pieces for the moment. But for the moment only, for with the game practically cinched by the home team the Highlanders grew desperate in the ninth and began to hit Gaines hard. With two outs, Manahan got his base on balls; Osmundson hit a fly to center, just over second. DePutron though making a pretty run, errored, and Osmundson made a circle of the diamond, this bringing in two scores. Nebraska made nothing in their half. Score at end of the ninth inning 3 to 3.

In the tenth the Des Moines team again began their vicious batting and two more scores were charged up against the home team. This was the last of the scoring and the game ended 5 to 3 in favor of the visitors.
