The Debating Association held a stormy meeting in the law library Thursday evening. The cause of the trouble was an attempt by the supporters of P. B. Weaver for president to contest the election of George A. Lee. Mr. Lee was elected by a vote of 18 to 19, but his opponents claim that enough fraudulent votes were cast for him to throw the election to Mr. Weaver. A motion to allow a contest was tabled by a vote of 31 to 25. The large increase in the vote was due to the new members run in for the occasion by the two factions. An attempt was made to leave the contest to the chancellor, but no agreement could be effected.
