

One of the Seniors was once a member of a base ball club, but doesn't exactly remember the position filled. Thinks it was "stop-cork."—News Letter.

Our little five-year old was the other day packing up his neckties preparatory to going in the country, and being asked by his nurse if he were not going to take anything else, replied, "Oh, no! they don't wear anything but neckties up there you know."—Packer Quarterly.

We fear the "Packer" girls have put wrong notions into that boys head.

There is in existence in the world, one hundred and fifty-two religious sects or denominations. Of these fifty-seven are represented in the United States.

Of the whole number, there are only sixty-four Protestant sects, the remainder being Catholics and Pagan denominations.

The Catholic population of the United States is estimated at two million, and seventeen thousand and the Protestant at two million eighty thousand.—Ee.

Not long since two Sophs. having indulged somewhat freely in "fried oysters" were being led home by some of their friends, when one of the festive twain called to the other to come and rescue him from the hands of his conductors. The response was as follows: "Ned, could I but wrest myself from these iron graps of Demos, thenes and Cicero, I would come to thee—I would entwine my arms around thy neck, and we would lie down and sleep in this mud as sweetly as the babes in the woods."

For a week our chief editor has been perambulating these classic grounds with one of his orbs of light tightly bandaged. As he will proffer no explanation, many of his friends have concluded that something is wrong. To prevent all incorrect surmises, we state that John is an extremely temperate young man, so that no blossom expands in secret loveliness its ruby petals beneath that grimed handkerchief. Knowing that some muscular students hang out in his domicile, and that there occurred an opportunity at the late fire to wreak vengeance on his unsuspicious head, we believe sciolistically that—but pray excuse us, for now-a-days he glowers blackly on us.—Ee. He has about as much trouble with his orb, as our editor has with his nose. But our editor never "glowers" on us, except—Well, never mind.
