

—Regents Wm. Adair and L. B. Fifield gave us a pleasant call, recently, at our sanctum.

—By a recent decision of the faculty, all meetings of the literary societies will close at 10 P. M.

—For neat printing of all kinds go to W. W. Beach, O St., corner of 11th, under Harley's Drug Store.

—When you buy Groceries, don't forget to give W. W. English a call, at the Little Grocery around the corner of O and 11th.

—The class which meets every Friday afternoon for practice in singing, is an interesting, profitable and enjoyable feature of the University.

—The skating rink at the Academy of Music seems to have quite an attraction for the students. A few of them have actually learned to stand up on rollers.

—We met George in the hall the next morning after the accident which happened to him at the skating rink, looking quite care worn. He is rapidly recovering.

—A copy of the North Nebraska Eagle, published at Dakota City, lies on our table. It is a welcome visitor to our sanctum. It has the appearance of being an enterprising, live newspaper.

—The library is still a popular place of resort for the spare moments of the students. Its affairs are excellently managed by the librarians, Miss Ruth Hawley and Mr. A. C. Platt.

—As we came down the street, the other day, we saw a young lady student step into a saloon. If it had been temperance we would have remained silent. O, what will the coming generation be?

—C. N. Little, a typo in our office, has been compelled to leave the office on account of other pressing business. Mr. S. P. Platt occupies the vacant case. Our other compositors are Miss Mary H. Williams, a very efficient compositor, and Mr. Albert Fitch, who acts as foreman.

—The transom over the entrance door of the Palladian society hall has recently been decorated with the name of that society in ornamental letters. This will add much to the attractions of the hall.

—The gentlemen at the Dormitory keep up their physical strength by performing various athletic feats, in the middle of the street, before admiring throngs gathered on the sidewalks and at the neighboring windows.

—Mr. G. R. Harris, a student of the University, gave us a call a short time since, and exhibited to us some good specimens of his skill as an object painter. He is willing to teach others the art of painting, for a little consideration.

—We understand that the Regents have appropriated fifty dollars for the purpose of assisting the University Union to pay for their organ. The organ of this society was used for several months by the University during Chapel exercises.

—The military company, one day recently, on account of the unfavorable condition of weather did not drill, but were treated to an excellent lecture on "Gunpowder," by Prof. Dudley. The Professor gave the boys much valuable information and instruction as regards this destructive compound. The company drills three times a week, Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

—Considerable enthusiasm is manifested by the military company in the drill exercise of the term. We notice a marked improvement in the company. We are informed that a number have sent for uniforms. The company presents an attractive appearance as they march about the campus, and when the boys are fully equipped, as they soon will be, they will present quite a soldierly appearance.

—There are a number of students who have not yet become subscribers to the STUDENT. Every student should take a copy. We have placed the price of subscription at the low price of one dollar, so that no one can reasonably refuse to
