

the chorus began on "The music keeps dropping" he looked at it, gave a wild despairing look at the audience and fled. He left one overshoe and a worn copy of "Innocents Abroad" which will be sold for the benefit of the STUDENT.

Some resolutions were drawn up and signed by 108 students of the University, endorsing the Chancellor and expressing indignation at the charges against the conduct of the students. It was presented to the committee of investigation, but that august body concluded that the opinion of over five-sixths of those who are best acquainted with the University and its daily workings, was not of sufficient consequence to be considered by them. Most of them, however, perhaps all, had the curiosity to read the resolutions before they were taken from the room. They were published in the Journal with all the names attached.

The investigation goes on and day by day the committee finds new complications in the affair. They probably did not imagine that they would go so far when they began. The worst feature of the affair is that the papers, by false or partial reporting are giving the people of the state the impression that the behavior of the students of the University, especially in the intercourse of the sexes with each other, is shockingly bad; while the truth is—and this has been the testimony of the most reliable witnesses—that the students of this University are an unusually well behaved set. Let these charges be substantiated, or cease to make such assertions.

PERSONALIA.

A. W. Foote has returned and is attending the University.

A. W. Field, '77, has been admitted to practice in the United States Court.

H. H. Wilson, '78, gave us a call. His genial countenance is illuminating the school at Seward.

Alf. Platt, '78, who has been teaching in Iowa for the last three months, is in town. He looks as if the air of Iowa agreed with him.

A. Russel Kiem, '81, who has not missed a term during the last three years, is staying out on account of sickness. If we mistake not Russel will be back next term.

Master Paul Marley is proprietor of the stand at the Capitol. If you feel the need of refreshments while at the Capitol you will find anything you want at his stand.

Chancellor Fairfield delivered a lecture at Tecumseh, Jan. 30th in the interest of the Agricultural college. On the 31st he lectured at Falls City in the interests of the common schools.

Frank Boies called on the University a few days ago. Frank is still going up, and in another year at the same rate he will have attained to about seven feet in the perpendicular.

Mr. Aldretus C. Brown is attending the University. Mr. Brown, in addition to other accomplishments, has quite a large collection of poems of his own composition, some of which have appeared from time to time in different publications.

Prof. Aughey lectured at Tecumseh, Jan. 31st on "The Geological History of the Soil of Nebraska." While there he attended the Farmers' Institute which was in progress, and reports that he has seldom attended a more interesting meeting of that kind.

Albert Fitch and a brother younger than himself are now editors and publishers of the Central City Courier. They are entering on the field of journalism young, as Albert is only nineteen or twenty. However he was a thorough student and stood at the head of most of his classes, and we predict for him a successful career in the field he has chosen.
