

No student should start home for Christmas Vacation without a box of Pendleton's Pure and Delicious Candies.

Christmas Goods,
 Christmas Goods,
 Call on O. M. Homans, for the largest and best assortment in the city, under the Opera House.

The HESPERIAN STUDENT Association election was lively. A third party large enough to hold the balance of power was formed and on election of Palladian Editor-in-Chief refused to vote for either of the candidates who were running. Both withdrew and H. K. Wolfe was elected without opposition. J. S. Bridenbaugh was elected Union Editor-in-Chief; Miss Minnie Williams, Associate; B. B. Davis, Local; A. R. Keim, Vice. Pres.; B. C. Arnold, Sec.; J. H. Silvernail, Treas.

Some of the exchanges have sat down upon us by remarking, in a manner evidently intended to be insinuating, that they don't have to resort to notices of the Royal Path of Life and advertisements of corsets to fill their local columns. Why bless your unsophisticated souls, we get paid for it. We do it for the lucre; not that we need it, but we are accumulating a fund to distribute for the support of those College papers that are vainly trying to thrive on the thin diet of their own unmixed literary excellence.

A couple of mice put in an appearance in the dining room of the Dormitory the other morning during breakfast. Immediately the greatest consternation ensued. The Senior with the raven locks and mustache to match, mounting a chair, so as to be better heard, you know, tied a handkerchief tightly around the bottom of the limbs of his unmentionables and exhorted the ladies to be calm, assuring them that there was no cause of alarm. Ye Local seized an opportunity when the mice were on the other side of the room to get down from the chair on which he had been standing looking on the chandelier for the mustard, and retired with deliberation and dignity. Did the young ladies faint? Why no; how could they when the gentlemen were all on chairs or on the table on the other side of the room? The mice finally retired into an overshoe belonging to the blonde Freshman and will probably retain possession until he can borrow a rat-terrier to send in after them.

Pure and unadulterated Candies for Christmas and New Years Presents can be had at Pendleton's 11th st. Candy Manufactory.

Some very valuable additions to the library have recently been made. The class in Ancient Law will have the following new works to consult; McLennan's Studies on Ancient History; Ancient Society, by Morgan; The Aryan Household, by Hearn; Wilson's Prehistoric Man, and several others. In the department of English Literature there is Stratton's Old English Dictionary, a rare work costing twelve dollars; Nare's Glossary; Hallowell's Dictionary of Archaic and Provençal words. There are seven or eight additional volumes of the International Scientific Series. Huxley's essays and scientific works. Geo. Henry Lewes' works. In the department of Greek there are two volumes of Greek Etymology by Curtius; two volumes of the Greek Poets by Symonds; The Problem of the Homeric Poems, by Geddes; two volumes on the History of the Doric Races by Muller, and several others. We ought to mention The Life and Times of Stein by Seelye. The Life of Arndt, by Seelye; England in the Eighteenth Century, by Lecky; two volumes of May's Constitutional History, of England. There are numerous others which we cannot take space to mention.

Personalia.

Miss Richardson, the artist, has returned and resumed business. Call in and look round her studio.