erary sucieties, not to forget the importance of their annual free-will offering which they should consecrate to the services of the Student.

It was quite amusing to one of the University classes the other day when the in. structor said: "If I had a wife"-in a tone which would imply that he was dee titute of such a collateral-"1 would love her better than a strange woman."

Young ladies, please don't use your handkerchiefs on the street, because some of the new students are very basiful and might misunderstand you. We know that no ladics of the University would be guilty of a handikerchief flirtation.

Professor: "What was the result of Socrates' drinking the cup of hemlock ${ }^{\prime \prime}$ Soph. (a young gentleman of political tastes): "An immediate cessation of lifeall of which goes to prove that Indiana went Democratie?

Now whenever any of the new cadets see a lady approaching, they gracefully raise their bats, poise then, in the air at an angle of 120 degrees with the surface of the earth, and hold them there until the laily is out of sight.
The free class in yoeal music is now well under headway. Most of the students have learned to open their months, following the example of Ye Lical. The instructor says that the ladies of the class ought to be ashamed to let the boys go so far ahead of them.
The Y. M. C. A. held a very pleasant reception at Mrs. Peckham's last Monday evening in honor of Rev. J. H. Worley and wife. Many of Mr. Worley's University friends were present, Our old fellow student will preach in the M. E. church of Palmyra the eoming year.
We learn that the Students Lecture As. sociation is to be reviver. This is us it should be. A meeting is to be called at onee to make arrangements for getting first class lecturers here during the winter. J. G. Blaine has been mentioned as one of them.
We call special attention of the students to the free singing class which bas been inaugurated in the University, It is not every day that we get an opportunity to learn the seience of musie "free gratis for nothing" and we advise them to make the best of their present chances.
One of our Junior young gentiemen possesses the "elements of success" in the highest degree Not long since when he found it was raining at the close of divine service, he put his hat comfortably away under his coat und walked tome bare. headed seven blochs in the rail. Fact: We can prove it:
The Palladians have made sarrange. ments to admit no person after 7:45. This will do away with the interruption to the exercises made by delayed members of the audience. They propose to give this a montl's trial, and if it does not suceced, something new will be devised.
The disgraceful scene enacted at the University Friday evening, Oct. 8th, will not bear froquent repetitions. When members of the ligher classes get drunk and come howling about the University, attempt to whip the Janitor and in other ways conduct themselves in a manner unbecommg to gentlemen, it is time something was done; and if the faculty is not wholly a slave to pelf it will not stand many repetitions of the offense
One of our promising University students declares that the roputation ivhich small boys have of always asking so many questions is a libel on the smalt boys. He says that the questions asked at an average examination in mathematics causes the proverbial questions of the "small fry" to dwart into insignificance.
One of our noble Freshmen accompan ied a young lady to a house at which he wis not known. After sitting in the parlor a fey minutes the man of the house said: "Now look here, sonny, if you want to see my boy, you will find him out in the back yard; it not, your 100 m is better than your company." Tableau.
Some prendogentlemen ascended to the summit of Nebraeka's seat of learning with hostlle intent The poor innocent bell, which summons us to classes, was the victim; consequently a small sheep bell has been the only warning for opening and closing recitations. Carpenters are at work fastening up the stairways to prevent future ascensions.

Music is sweet: music hath charms to soothe: but of all the disastrous consequences which music is cupable of ac complishing the worst may be seeu in $n$ recitation prepared in the Library the afternoon before under the sootining intluence of that rattle de banging piano directly overhead. After mature consideration we have conchored that the sound of that piano is not musie. Is is only an inhasmonious sliseord.
