

H. E. Grimm, formerly of the State Normal School and once a student of Doane College, has matriculated here.

A large number of novelties for the use of the students have been introduced by the University Printing Company. We advise every member of the University family to call and inspect the stock.

Miss J. Cleve Lamb will spend the summer in the east, hence her studies have been discontinued for the present. Her place on the Palladian June exhibition has been assigned to Miss Glen Talbot.

That telephone "goak" is so funny for anything. Readers who have not been placed in possession of it by Messrs. Clark and Bisbee, the committee in charge of its circulation, can be supplied with the authorized version at this office.

At the last meeting of the Board of Regents the resignations of Professors Thompson and Culbertson were accepted. They are to take effect on the first of September. The college farm has been placed in charge of Mr. E. P. Savage.

Benton's sixteen large volumes of abridgements of the debates in congress from 1789 to 1856 is a work that might be much consulted in studying questions connected with American politics. 1st, shelf of the 15th alcove in the library.

Our "Chromo" gardener no longer enhances the beauty of the landscape with his picturesque presence. His position is now filled by Mr. W. F. Bisbee, but it will hardly be safe to call the latter gentleman "Chromo No 2," except by telephone.

The Cadet Band claims the smallest drum major in the country. Roscoe Pound is the young gentleman who has been elevated to the position, and although he can scarcely see over the bass drum he is better versed in military tactics than the best six-footer in the ranks.

Daily prayer meetings are now held by the Y. M. C. A. in room number 13, from 12:30 to 12:45 P. M. The weekly meetings on Wednesday evening and the Bible Class on Sunday morning are well sustained. This association is engaged in aggressive Christian labor.

A few weeks ago we stated that two students had refused to join a certain secret society of this institution. The statements, true at that time, will hold good no longer, for one of the aforesaid duo has interviewed the festive goat and the insidious electric battery and now wears a cabalistic pin.

An unexpected and very welcome gift was received by the Palladian society at its last meeting of last term. After the business was all disposed of and the president was in the act of opening his mouth to declare an adjournment to the Candy Kitchen, Miss Cora Fisher secured the floor and in a neatly worded speech presented to the society a purse of forty dollars, with the compliments of the Girls' Debating Club. The gentlemen became so enthusiastic over the matter that they wanted to embrace the entire club.

The cistern on the north side of the building was repaired last week. Among other valuable articles found in its bowels by the workmen was a slang expression carelessly dropped last fall by a Freshie girl. Its weight and unique appearance causes much comment. It will be placed in the museum.

The seniors have ventured to appear with a pin. It is a plain gold scroll bearing "Class of '84" upon its face. A class that is cheated out of an opera house to orate in on commencement day deserves some consolation, and we are glad to see them find it in so harmless thing as a plated breast-pin.

A bold bad student, who has a greater appreciation of the ludicrous than respect for the faculty, recently copied from an eastern journal an elaborate essay over the name of one of our professors, and gravely handed it in as his own. A grade of sixty and an admonition to use better language was the only reward of the enterprising student.

The preparatory class in Physiology has decided medical characteristics. It is in charge of Prof. Mitchell, M. D., Dean of the medical faculty, and recites in the medical lecture room. The rumor that dissection is a part of the work mapped out for the term has gained credence among the members of the class and causes no end of consternation.

R. L. Marsh, '84, has been appointed pastor of the M. E. Church at Blue Springs. He will spend the coming term in labor in his new field, returning to be shoved off the perch with the remainder of the Senior class. The church over which he has charge is strong and the community a prosperous one. The young man enters his chosen profession with bright prospects.

"And the lion and the lamb shall lie down together." On account of the rain on Friday evening April 11th the societies united and held a most enjoyable meeting in Union Hall. These fraternal meetings are now so common as to cause no remark. They show that universal "brotherhood" may become a reality even in the days of the present generation of students.

As the University gains in strength and numbers the increase of organizations connected with it becomes very noticeable. The latest arrival is an orchestra, with all the necessary appliances for setting the air of this propinquity in unwholesome and disagreeable vibration. If the originators of the scheme are allowed to live through the first week of practice we will give further particulars in our next issue.

The Palladian Girl's Debating Club is officered this term as follows: President, Cora Fisher; Vice President, Lottie Pollard; Secretary, Laura Roberts; Treasurer, Clara Caldwell; Critic, Mary Campbell. Regular meetings are held every Thursday afternoon, but for the life of us we cannot tell what the proceedings are. An indignant committee from the club has informed us that our suggestion in regard to bangs and crimps was "away off," but when asked for definite information they fail to give it. The club is hereby notified that an invitation to attend one of its meetings will be gladly accepted by almost any member of the staff, and the result of his observations will be truthfully given. Otherwise imagination must do the reportorial work.

The usual opening reception was given on the first Friday evening of the term in the society halls. It was as near like its predecessors as possible, hence no extended notice is necessary in these columns. The only unusual occurrence in the whole evening was the appearance
