

bands in the state. A faithful and efficient member of the Philodicean Literary Society, he was also a charter member of Alpha Epsilon Chapter of the Sigma Chi fraternity, whose best interests he guarded and promoted with that zeal which characterized all his efforts. In his intercourse with the students, Frank was always agreeable, and had a good word and welcome smile for each. Although well known outside the University, yet it was here that he was best and most favorably known. He was an industrious student, and his faithfulness to duties assigned, his gentlemanly demeanor, won for him the confidence and respect of instructors, the esteem and love of his fellow-students. The funeral exercises were held in the University chapel Thursday morning, conducted by Rector Allen, of the Episcopal church. The cadets and band escorted the family and friends and among them the Senior class, from Prof. Edgren's residence where his death occurred, to and from the chapel; and also acted as an escort to the 7:30 train, Friday morning, which carried the remains to Plattsmouth for burial. The addresses of Rev. Creighton, Rev. Gregory and the Chancellor were very appropriate and touching, and met with a warm response in the hearts of the students who had gathered to pay a last tribute to the memory of him they loved. Appropriate services were held also at Plattsmouth immediately upon the arrival of the funeral train, and large numbers there viewed the remains of one whom they knew only to love, and whom they sorrowfully followed to his grave, in the Plattsmouth cemetery.

"Where'er He sees a smile too bright
Or soul too pure for taint and vice,
He bears it to that world of light
To dwell in Paradise."
