

The board of regents will meet Dec. 14th. We hope they will get us squared up, and in presentable shape, for the legislature which follows close upon them. Look out for a fight over that old bone of contention — the college farm. We've heard it hinted that certain parties are preparing trouble for us.

The house on the southwest corner of 13th and S has already been the subject of frequent mention in these columns. Recently another event added to its fame. It seems that two of its occupants were unable to appear at their accustomed hour of the morning. For further particulars inquire of Gerwig and McCance.

Miss Laws concluded to go even as far as McCook last week to enjoy her two days out. Report says that next week will see her father, the Hon. G. S. Laws, installed in Lincoln preparatory to assuming the duties of Secretary of State. Miss Laws is surely fortunate in thus being able to share, at once, home and college pleasures.

One of the pleasantest social events of the term was the reception given to the Junior class, the evening before Thanksgiving, by Miss Rachel Manley at her elegant home on 11th street. Some of the Juniors were unavoidably absent, having gone home to spend thanksgiving, but those who were there enjoyed the evening thoroughly and came away with more enthusiasm than ever for the class of '88.

The Palladians celebrated Thanksgiving night by holding a sociable in their hall. Music was dispersed, both instrumental and vocal, among the latter being a song to the class of '90, which appeared to be specially pleasing to the knights of the brazen star. Refreshments were served in the hall and after adjournment a company numbering fifty-two repaired to Poehler's to complete the evening's entertainment.

It is sad, we admit, to lose one's ticket back to Lincoln when arrangements have been made for a lady's company to an entertainment that very evening, and especially when under such financial circumstances that toothpicks and p—r chips are the only effects left which could be pawned. For you know it takes cheek to ask to get trusted for telegraphing and then, the disappointment of the lady herself and all that. So, who can blame Ansley for wearing that "I haven't seen any sugar for a month look?" Sad.

The Unions devoted Friday evening of Thanksgiving week to a special Thanksgiving program which was to have consisted of a talk by Professor Howard, recitations by Miss Rheta Childe, and music. For some reason not yet known, Prof. Howard failed to appear. However, with but a short recess, through the kindness of Misses Childe, Perry and Scott and Mr. Mallory, a very pleasing program was presented. The remainder of the evening was devoted to a social, after which oysters were raided, etc.

The Sophomore class met in the library Saturday at 3 p.m. for election of officers for the ensuing term. The following were chosen to positions of honor and trust: Pres. Miss Jennie Bonnell; Vice Pres., A. Pizey; Secretary, Peter Newcomer; Treas., E. Eagleson; Historian, Roscoe Pound. Two students having fresh., soph., and jun. studies were elected to membership. After transaction of more unimportant business the class adjourned. The 'baffled rage' of some of the disappointed people was indeed piteous to the eye of the disinterested observer.
