

While Anderson was striving with an exam some person with enough assurance to go "uninvited to the feast" was rummaging his room. From the rapid stride in boldness, it will not be long before students will have to lock their doors to attend classes.

Fogarty, our editor-in-chief went to Gretna to spend his vacation. As he departed he was heard to mutter something about a red headed schoolma'am and a fellow having to rustle to get ahead of him "by gum." (N. B.—This was written by the office devil.)

While Wagner with his fair one was wending his way homeward after the musical in the neighborhood of Twenty-fifth and R streets, they gave the university yell. Immediately all chanticleers in the vicinity began to crow. Wagner says it was only eleven o'clock!

The following are the officers of the Union society for the spring term: H. C. Peterson, president; Miss Mary Ames, vice-president; Miss Edna Hyatt, secretary; J. B. Beecher, assistant secretary; W. F. Wolfe, treasurer; Miss Edith Mockett and Mr. Ralph Johnson, sergeant-at arms.

The first university dance of the year was given in Temple hall, Friday evening, March 21. Thirty-six couples participated in the merry hop, and united in wishing a similar occasion of enjoyment to be repeated in the near future. The proceeds amounting to $11 went to the university base ball club.

A schedule of base ball games has been arranged. The first game will be played April 19, at the Lincoln park, between the Wesleyan and the U. of N. nines. Considerable enthusiasm in baseball is manifested among the students, and the members of the faculty have shown their interest by liberality in donating.

Gillespie took one of the handsome young schoolmarms of Neb. City to the K. P. ball last Thursday night, and after he had escorted her to her room at the hotel he went through the office where the clerk shoved the register toward him and asked if he wanted a room for himself and wife in the bridal suite—Gillespie was all broke up and hasn't been seen since.

The new adventist college will be located about one mile and a half south-east of the city on the David May farm. The new suburb will be called College View and the institution will be known as Union college. Work will begin very soon. The main building and one of the boarding halls are to be completed in time for the opening of school next September.

D. W. Bush, owing to the sickness of his brother, has been called to Washington. He will be gone for twelve months, during which time he will have charge of a bright paper, the Chehallis Bee. Bush will be missed by his many university and Lincoln friends, and his departure will be a marked loss to THE HESPERIAN in which he has taken so active an interest.

We are indebted to Professor Fossler for information concerning the work in Gothic, Sanskrit and comparative philology. The university has a larger class in Sanskrit than Yale college. The progress speaks well for our institution which at no distant day is destined to turn a large part of her attention to post-graduate work. Dr. Edgren, the professor of the department, is an enthusiast in his field, having done original work in Sanskrit especially, part of which Max Muller speaks of in his "Science of Thought" as marking "a decided advance beyond what had been achieved in the same direction by such eminent scholars as Benfey, Patt and Curtius."

The music department gave its fourteenth recital on the evening of March 18. The program, consisting of several excellent numbers of vocal and instrumental music, was appreciated by a large audience. One of the leading features was a violoncello solo by Dr. G. E. Andrews. The recital is another illustration of the thorough work that is being done by the pupils of Miss Cochran and Professor Menzendorf.

A committee of the inter-collegiate athletic association met at the state university on March 22 and adopted a constitution which is to be presented before the next meeting of the association for ratification. The following noted athletes composed the committee: F. A. Barrows of the Christain university; A. E. Fowlie of Doane college; Mr. Davieson of the Wesleyan, and Messrs. McClatchie and Almy of the state university.

On March 20 the class of '92 elected the following officers for the spring term: Geo. L. Sheldon, president; Miss Cora K. Lyons, vice-president; G. L. Tait, secretary; W. L. Stockton, treasurer; Miss Louise Pound, historian; Miss Edna Hyatt, corresponding secretary; Miss Minnie DePae, sergeant at arms; James B. McDonald, class poet; J. H. Hooper, door keeper. Committees were appointed on class colors, class yell, and athletics.

Some time ago mention was made of the war department wanting the names of three graduates. Lately the lieutenant has received orders from headquarters at Washington that, on the graduation of every class, he shall report to the adjutant-general the names of such students as have shown special aptitude for military service. The names of the three graduates who were the most distinguished students in military science and tactics will be inserted in the U. S. army register and published in general orders.

In a recent issue of the Christain Union of New York, is a review of Professor Howard's "Local Constitutional History of the United States." The reviewer began to read the work with an idea of observing his custom of skipping all he could but the book soon made such an impression on him that he read it carefully through. The article throughout speaks very highly of Professor Howard's production, saying that an agreeable change from many constitutional histories now appearing is seen in this work in the new and significant facts printed on nearly every page. He says that the history is written in accordance with the most modern views and that Professor Howard's work completes the transformation from the old form when more importance was given to the study of ancient history, of rulers, and of nations to the modern form or the history of peoples, states and municipalities.

THE SCHOOL EXHIBIT.

Probably the best exhibit of school work ever seen in Nebraska was that shown in Grant memorial hall during the teachers' convention. The large drill hall was completely filled with samples of the work which the boys and girls of the public schools of Nebraska are doing. It would be useless to attempt to note all the interesting features of the exhibit in a short article.

The first exhibit to the right as we entered was that of the Lincoln Business college. This consists of specimens of penmanship and was very fine. The next was the work of the Wahoo city schools of which Professor T. H. Bradbury is superintendent. This was a good exhibit and consisted of maps, geometric and landscape drawings and examination work. The exhibit of the Nebraska institute for the blind attracted much attention. Among other things there were several school books printed in raised letters, a copy of Kneass' Mag-
