A BOLD BUT UNSUCCESSFUL BURGLAR.

He Enters a Building, Draws a Revolver on a Colored Man, Skips Out and is Captured.

A rather bold but unsuccessful attempt at robbery was made yesterday morning between three and four o'clock, at the California Wine Room, on Douglas street, by a young man not more than eighteen or nineteen years of age. He broke out a small portion of a pane of glass in a rear window, and although the hole was not large enough to admit his arm, he nevertheless managed to unloosen the window fastenings, and then rapped the sash, entered, revolver in hand. Proceeding to a small apartment, where a colored man named Williams Reed was sleeping, he stepped upon a chair, gently shoved back a sliding window, and pointing the cocked revolver at the head of Reed, he said: "Give me your pocket book, or I'll blow your brains out!"

Reed had been awakened before the burglar had got upon the chair, and lay with his eyes open for developments, not knowing what to make of the mysterious noise.

On seeing the revolver pointed at him, and hearing the demand for his pocket book, he exclaimed: "Oh, ho! I have got you!"

"Give me your watch, or I'll shoot you," was the second demand.

Reed thereupon jumped out of bed, and the young man, grabbing his coat and pants from under the pillow, flew out of the open window as quick as a flash of lightning, and skipped down the alley past the Herald office. Reed ran out of the front door and, fortunately, met Policemen Mansfield, Byrne and Thorn on the corner, and quickly told them of what had happened. They instantly scattered out, and in a few minutes they had cornered a young fellow who, it was supposed, was the same one who had attempted to scare Reed at the point of his revolver.

He was seen on Tenth street, and he disappeared up the alley past the City Hotel. He was found in a water-closet back of Krug's lager-beer hall, having locked the door on his pursuers, Thorn and Mansfield. Thorn broke the door in, and he was captured and taken to jail to await an examination, which took place at the Police Court this morning, and resulted in his being bound over for his appearance at the District Court in the sum of $2,000. He gave his name as Chas. Edwards, though he is better known as Wallace. It appears that he had been drinking Thursday night at a late hour in company with Reed, who, he learned, had $150 in his possession. All the circumstances point to him as the would-be robber of Williams Reed. Although not admitting that he was the chap who entered the California Wine Room, he confessed that he was preparing to commit a burglary at Hengen's boot and shoe shop, as he had made up his mind to have some new footwear before morning.

The coat and pants were picked up in the alley, where they were dropped by the thief, who failed to find any money in the pockets.

RATHER SUSPICIOUS.

A Soldier Caught in Possession of articles stolen from Em. Davis' House.

While Policeman Mansfield and Byrne were standing at the corner of Douglas and Tenth sts., yesterday morning about three o'clock, they stopped a soldier, who had a bundle under his blouse, and who seemed to act very suspiciously. On examining the contents of the bundle, they found a picture of one of the inmates of Em. Davis' house, and also a letter addressed to one of the girls by a certain man. From this clue they rightly concluded that Miss Davis' house had been entered, and going to the house, they found some of the case. Among the other things taken and found in possession of the soldier, whose name is Tobias Clous, were several little trinkets, nine pairs of stockings, a towel, a cravat, and a piece of ribbon. Miss Davis also missed a valuable breast pin, which could not be found. The soldier claims that some one handed him the articles to keep for a while.

The thief entered the house through an open window. He was taken to jail to await his examination.

HORSE-STEALING.

An Emigrant's Team Taken while he is Camping on the prairie.

An emigrant named W. H. Mc-Masters, en route from Iowa to Howard county, Nebraska, has been camping near the Papillion, six miles west of Omaha, for the last three or four days. Yesterday morning he had intended to proceed on his way to his destination; but his surprise can be imagined when he awoke to find his team of brown mares and a colt gone.

Some heartless thief had slipped them during the night. One of the horses was allowed to run loose during the night, while the other, the mother of the colt, was lariat.

The thief cut the lariat, and rode off with the whole outfit. Mr. Mc-Masters could find no trace of them whatever, and after some hours search, he came into town and informed the city and county officials, who will do all in their power to recover the property.

This robbery leaves Mr. Mc-Masters in very embarrassed circumstances, as he is unable either to move ahead or come back, as he has no horse or cattle left, and he has but seven dollars in money, a wife and two children, and some few household articles and farming implements.

Another horse theft was perpetrated last night at Salling's grove, the victim being Mr. Sahling, who lost one horse. He is in the city looking after the animal and the thief.

OUR NEBRASKA CITY LETTER.

NEBRASKA CITY, June 12, 74.

EDITOR OMAHA BEE:

My dear Sir—The South Platte Association of Congregational churches met in this city this morning at 9:30. Rev. Henry Bates, of Plymouth was elected Moderator. The attendance is fair. The growth of the denomination in this section of the State is encouraging. The business of the morning session, was such as usually mark the routine work of such bodies—the characteristic feature being edification.

The session this afternoon opens pleasantly. So far, there seems to be no man of special ability to act as leader, and no subject of vital interest to call out the bone and sinew of the workers. Both, however, will be present this evening, when Rev. S. R. Dimock, of Lincoln, preaches at the Presbyterian Church.

Rev. J. G. Taylor, of this city, is secretary, and Rev. H. L. French, of Millard, assistant scribe. The gentlemanly and honorable bearing of the latter has won him many friends since he has been in the State.

The Sunday School Convention closed last evening. It was a grand affair throughout. Very many decided special and individual notices, which these few hurried notes will not allow. The work of the Convention was systematic, pointed, polished, comprehensive, courteous, charitable, and christian. It closed very happily; the occasion long to be remembered by many.
