Frazier's Great Remedy

The people of the United States have been humbugged with all kinds of Patent Medicines, quacks and imposters, for the past few years, in a most shameful manner. The writer of the following is one of the victims, and wishes to following is one of the victims, and wishes to present a very plain case.

Believing that by cleansing the blood was the only true way of banishing disease, and being a great sufferer from weak langs and a scrolutous affecti-m, and after trying many kinds of Patent Medicines and the most eminent Physicians, I commenced doctoring myself, and at last discovered a Blood Searcher, or Root Bitters, which not only gave me immediate releif, but after a few weeks effected a radical cure. The cough left me, my lungs became strong and sound, my a petrte good, and the scrolutous disease had disappeared. Feeling confident that my Discovery possessed wonderful healing virtues, I gave it to others affiliced, and found it effected the most miraculous cures in thousands of cases, not alone wonderiot heading with the control of the control of the curing Cough. Consumption, Asthma, Catarrh, Scrofula and We-k Lungs, but all diseases caused from humors in the blood. The demand from my friends and others hearing about these Bitters becoming very great, I commenced putting them up for sale, calling hem FRAZILR'S ROOT BITTERS. I was a first backward in presenting either myself or medicine to the public—not being a Fatent Med cine Man, but I am getting bravely over that. I have sold thousands of bottles of my Root Bitters, and it is my desire and determination to place the same within the reach of every suffering man, woman and child on the face of the civilized globe.

globe. The grand principle that operates in these Root Bitters is the power they possess in cleansing the turgid blood and banishing the vile humors from the system. Root Bitters are strictly a Medicinal Preparation, compounded from roots combined with herbs and plauts, many of which were used in the good old days of our forefathers, when people were cured by some stupic root or herb, and when Calomel and other pois are of the mineral kingdom were nurshown.

They open all the natural passages of the body, cast out disease, take away all sickness and build up the system with pure blood, hence they must reach all diseases by purificaand build up the system with pure blood, hence they must reach all diseases by purification and nourishment.

No person c n take Root Bitters and remain long unwell. Victory upon victory they have gained over disease and death in all stations and conditions in life. They are constantly effecting cures of the utmost importance. For Consumption, astuma, Scr.Jula, Scrofulous Eruptions, Catarrh, Weak Lungs, Lost Vitaity and Broken-down Constitutions, these Root Bitters are universally admitted to be the most wonderful Medical Discovery known to the world. Their pectoral healing properties penetrate every portion of the human frame, soothing the Lungs, strengthening the Stomach, Kidneys and Liver, cleansing the blood from every kind of humor. No other medicine will care. Chronic Rheumatism, Neursigia, Heart Disease, Fits, Dizfices, Headache, Dyspepsia, Fever and a gue, Costiveness, Picke, Dyspepsia, Fever and a gue, Costiveness, Picke, Urinary Diseases, Kidney Bisease, and Liver Complaint, so quickly as this Boot Bitters. All such diseases are caused from a bad stomach and a poisonous condition of the blood. For weakly, nervous young mea, sufering from loss of memory, loss of energy, etc., caused from abuses in early life, and to delicate females, these strengt bening Root Bitters are especially recommended. American CYCLOPAÆDIA New Revised Edition.

y rewritten by the ablest writers on subject. Printed from new type, illustrated with Several Thousand Engravings and Maps.

THE WORK ORIGINALLY Published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPAEDIA WAS completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of cience, literature, and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new dition entitled, THE AMERICAN CYCLOPALthe movement of political affairs has kept that the discoveries of science, and their trul application to the industrial and useful and the convenience and refinement of litic. Great wars and consequent revolutions as the convenience and refinement of litic. Great wars and consequent revolutions as the convenience at the consequent revolution as the convenience of the con office have been made by the Indefatigable exployers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last tecode, with the matural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view as multitude of new most, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.
In preparing the present edition for the press, thas accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the intest poslible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest in vention in the precional arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historial event.

The work has been begun after long and caretill preliminary habor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

There of the criginal stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopedia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition have been added not if or the sake of pictoris' effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. Taey embrace all branches of science and natural history, and depict the most samous and remarkable leasures of sciency and and rate as we last he various processes of mechanics and beanufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence: the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed me. In a moment more I was able to clamber out of it upon the shed below.

There I remained until the day dawn. With my returning senses the truth came to me. That which had murdered the three men who slept before me in the blue chamber was nothing more or less than the coal stove.

It was provided with what is called a damper, and this being caught in a manner which closed it sent the poisonous gas into the room. It had been kindled as a wood fire would have been at the hour of retiring, by one quite ignorant of the danger possible from coal gas, and they had slept never to awaken. Had I thrown myself upon the bed, I also should have been found dead at daylight, in all human probability.

"I believe there is some horrible inseen thing in the room," she said, "some awful, shapeless spirit, that when it is locked in with him murders him. Let others believe what they will, I believe that." The words haunted me, but I laughed at them, of course. Whatever it was, I would try to know. I had a plan. At dusk that day I went into my bedroom myself. I came out a strange man. I wore a white wig. a pair of green goggles, and an over-coat, the tails of which reached to my heels. I carried a thick cane. and stooped a good deal as I walked. In my hands I carried a carpet-bag, and in my bosom a pair of pistols well loaded. As I passed out into the street the early moon was just rising; she lit me on my way to the door of Mme. Matteau's house. It was opened for me, when I knocked, by old Hannah. Hereyes were red and swollen. Then I told her that I was a stranger, and had received Mme. Matteau's address from a gentleman in New York.

and desired to stay all night under her roof. She shook her head. "I don't think you can," she said. "The lady is away from home. Besides we are in trouble here. I don't think Miss Gabrielle would __" But here Miss Gabrielle herself

"I am an old man, miss," I said "and as you see, quite infirm. I dread another step. I should take it as kindness if you would accom-madate me, and I will pay any price you ask."

Miss Gabrielle looked at Hannah. "We have only one room," she said, "and that..." I ended the question of my story by begging to be taken to it. "You will have supper, sir?" said the girl.

But I declared that I had eaten, and only wanted rest. Her reply was: "Hannah show the gentleman to the blue room, and make a fire." I was in the blue room, the scene of the three sudden deaths or murders. I was a small apartment, painted blue. It had also blue window curtains, and a blue silk coverlet on the bed; a neat striped car-pet, a set of old mahogany furniture, and a very handsome ewer and a basin of costly china. It was at the time almost a universal custom to burn wood. In this room, however, was a small coal fire. I alluded to this as Hannah came in with the scuttle. "Yes, sir," she said. "Missus does burn coals. Her son is a clerk or the like at the new mines at Mauch Chunk, and he sends it cheap to her; but it's a nasty, dirtysmelling thing, and I hate it. Now it's built and lit, 'twill warm up in fifteen minutes. It takes longer than wood."

She went out of the door and came back in a minute with a little tray on which stood a pot and a cup and saucer, also a bowl and a tiny "Miss sent a bit and a sip," said she. "Tea rests us old folks mightily, "Good night."

"Good night," I said, I expect I shall sleep soon; I must be up very early, though, for I have bills to pay. I have some hundreds of dollars with me to pay out to-morrow, and it's in this bag.

She looked at me in a queer sort of a way and lingered beside me. At last she spoke:

"Look ye, sir; I think that old folks of your age do wrong to lock doors on themselves. You might be ill at night and who'd get in to you? Leave your door unlocked."
Was it this woman's practice to beg travelers who stopped with her mistress not to lock the doors? Was there some baneful potion in the cup she had given me?

It was an innocent-looking cup enough—an old-fashioned affair covered with little gilt sprigs. The tea was fragrant Hyson; but the suspicion that had crept into my mind had taintel it. I fancied a strange color, a curious smell. I put it from me and would not have tasted it for a kingdom.

I did not intend to sleep, and I did not undress myself. I merely GREBE & KARBACH.

removed my disguise, and sat down beside the table, with my pistols beside me. That some attempt might be shortly made to murder me I felt to be possible. I thought of all the old tales that I had neard of trap doors, and sliding panels, and secret entrances to travelers' rooms. I was not a coward, but I felt strangely nervous, and singlarly enough for a man in my perfect health my hands were growing cold, and my feet were lumps of ice while my head was burning hot. Fifteen minutes had passed, and the fire was kindled, but the room was not warm. The blue flames struggled among the black coals and flung forked tongues tipped with yellow tints, into the room There was nothing cheerful about the stove, though it was of that open style now called Franklin. Yet I drew a chair toward it from habit, and sat with my feet upon the hearth. I do not know how long l sat there. Suddenly I became aware that I was not myself. I was losing my senses. If unseen hands had been clasped about my neck, and an unseen knee been pressed against my chest, my sensa tion could not have been different. A thought of the evil spirit which my friend had suggested faintly struggled into my mind. As I staggard to my feet a noise like the roaring of the sea was in my ear. The flames of a candle turned to a great yellow blue. I barely retained strength enough to stagger to the window and fling it open. The fresh cold winter air rushed in at it. It gave me intense pain, but it relieved me. In a moment more

As for the fact that neither doctor nor coroner discovered the truth I have but to say that they were not deeply scientific men—that coal stoves were scarcely used in the place, and that it had not been mentioned that the chamber was thus

Of course I rejoiced the household by my discovery next morning, and equally, of course, Mme. Matteau, who was not only freed from suspicion, but became the object of uniDRAW POKER.

A Telegraph that Worked the Wrong Way.

(Wyandotte (Kan.) Letter to Kansas City Times. The Fourth of July was not cele-brated in the usual manner here, nobody being particularly drunk and no one being shot according to previous custom. One of our mer chants had a small game of "draw" on that day, which he happened to celebrate in this wise, He had played the game some with another old man on several occasions, wherein he has always beaten, and for some time past his study by day and his meditations by night has been how to get even.

On the 3d of July a friend called at his place of business and told him how it could be done. He and this friend were to sit down to a little game with the old man; when the friend had a full he was to telegraph to the merchant by rubbing his right ear softly; when he had a pair he would hold up one finger; when Providence was particularly kind and he held two pairs he would hold up two fingers, and so on through all the changes of the game. The game seemed feasible, and the merchant devoted the entire day to his friend in learning and practicing telegraphic signs which were to bring con fusion upon the old man and wealth into his own pocket. He became as proficient in the "work" as a Master Mason of ten years' standing, and on the morning of the Fourth sauntered into the old man's place with a sweet smile upon his ace, which those only can wear who have an approving conscience or four aces. His quiet comforter and friend was sitting in the back part of the room as innocent as the flowers in May; and on being invited to take a hand seemed surprised and reluctant, but finally consented. out of friendship, and sat down to that little round-topped walnut table, where so many crowned heads have uneasily rested. Presently the "old man" came up and wanted to be let in

The merchant demurred at first, but finally consented, out of regard to the day and the memory of George Washington-and the game commenced. Soon the private telegraph was put in operation, but though the signals were given correctly, and read apparently with ease, they didn't correspond with the facts, as held by the players. Several games were lost in trying to get the "hang" of it, and at last, the merchant being about $60 out, said he never liked to play poker on the Fourth of July—it always seemed to him like breaking the Sabbath and left the room, giving his telegraphic friend a look as he passed that would have melted a heart of stone. As it only struck a check of brass it didn't interfere with the swallowing organs of the friend, who was silently drinking to the memory of the great and good G. A few moments after the "old man" and the telegraphic poker player was seen dividing about $60 into moities and the merchant observed to a friend as he drove out to hear the Declaration of Independence, that anybody who played "draw" was a
