A gentleman walked into our sanctum yesterday and laying on our desk a card having on it the words "John Baerman, Prof. of Foreign Laguages," he announced that he was the Mormon preacher who was referred to in an article in last Monday's BEE. He wanted an apology or correction made, as he was not that kind of a man.

We asked him if he had ever been in London, Canada; if he had ever been married there; If he had been married a second time in New York: and if he was contemplating a third marriage in Omaha; to all of which he replied in the negative. We told him we could not see how the article in question referred to him then, as it did not even mention his name. Well, he explained that he was certain it did refer to him, for he had given a needy man the sum of $5.65, on Sunday, the identical amount mentioned in the BEE. We cannot comprehend how the item can be twisted so as to be made to refer to Mr. Baerman, although he says he is the individual

The Action Taken in the District Court this Morning.

Yesterday morning in the District Court, Judge Lake presiding, the defendant in the case of the State vs. Charles Ketcham came in, and Maul can congratulate themselves filed a plea of pardon in bar of sentence. He was represented, in the absence of Mr. Doane, by Gen. Manderson, who stated that the pardon had been properly issued by the Governor, and that the law had been fully complied with.

Mr. A. J. Poppleton, who had prosecuted the case, opposed the motion to sustain the pardon, as it was not shown that the law, requiring two week's publication of the notice for application of the pardon, had been compiled with. He thought this necessary. He had asked over fifty persons if they had seen the notice, and but a very few had discovered it. In making a diligent search for it, he had finally found it, In the most obscure corner of the most obscure paper in Omaha, namely, the Republican." Gen. Manderson did not know hardly how to reply to this, as it was too true in regard to the Republican. He was sure, however, that the law had been complied with, as the Governor would never have granted the pardon until he had satisfied himself that all was correct. The Court sustained the plea of pardon, and the following entry was made upon the record by the Clerk: And now comes the said defendant, Charles Ketcham, and produces, in open court, the full and unconditional pardon of the Governor of the State of Nebraska, for the crime of embezzlement, of which he sylvania; B W Melborne, Platte; was, at the June term, 1874. the above arrangements were made. There is but one opinion as to the result of the investigating committee's labors, and that is that a verdict will be in favor of Beecher. The public, however, will hardly rest satisfied with such an acquittal, and the Plymouth pastor will require the vindication of a public court of law before being reinstated in public favor and esteem.

The Herald, to-day, gives the probable explanation of Moulton's unwillingness to testify, as follows: Moulton is a member of the firm of Woodruff & Robinson, which sometime back was involved in some little difficulty with the U.S. internal revenue bureau. Moulton is said to have been considered by Jayne as the offending party, and an explanation became necessary. Moulton applied to Beecher and the latter went to Washington, J. R. Conkling, post mortem exwhere, after some exercise of influ-ence, he succeeded in arranging matters to the satisfaction of the authorities. In view of these alleged circumstances, the Herald thinks Beecher's invitation to Moulton to appear and testily may have been extended and received solely in a Pickwickian sense.

Beecher's counsel is confident that Beecher will not prosecute Tilton however the matter ends. Beecher's spirit is too forgiving for that; he thinks his enemies will be punished enough by the result of the investigation and report of the committee. WASHINGTON, August 4. The postoffice department is un-settled in opinion as to the propriety of sending a representative to the Postal Congress to be held in Berne, Switzerland, in September. The idea of the Congress is to have each nation send a representative in the person of the chief of postoffice department, so that a treaty, if de-sired, could be agreed upon on the spot, if Postmaster General Cresswell had remained in office oe intended to be present at the meeting and it does not appear from all circumstances that America will be represented at this postal congress.
