A Remarkable Well.

During the dry weather, Messrs Fletcher & Hubbard, who have the contract for sprinkling the streets, ran out of water on account of their pond drying up. Learning that Mr. J. H. Lacey, residing at the northwest corner of Twentieth and Chicago streets, had a 120 foot well, with sixty feet of water in it, they offered him $2,000 for the privilege of obtaining water therefrom, by means of a steam pump, which they would put up for the purpose. EDITOR BEE: Mr. Lacey, however, refused the offer, as he did not care to speculate in this way, nor to destroy in any manner, the beauty of his handsome grounds

Hearing that this well had an interesting history, and that the water had peculiar qualities not incident to other wells in this locality, a BEE reporter Friday morning called upon Mr. Lacey, at his residence, and obtained the following account: The well was dug in 1868. Water should have been reached at about 25 feet below the surface, but at that point the workmen struck a blue hard pan clay, and dug through it Bush, wife and child, Council to the depth of 95 feet, finding on the way down boulders, of a dark green color, from the size of a man's fist to that of a person's head; strattas of petrified vegetable matter; trunks of trees, ten inches in diame-

> The digging thus tar had been undertaken by three different parties, each having abandoned the task in turn. But Mr. Lacey determined to strike water or go through to China, persevered at considerable cost, until a depth of 120 feet was reached, when in boring with a six inch augur and drill, which was used at times, a rock was struck, which appeared to be of soft sandstone, or a shell rock, for on two or three heavy blows being given it by the drill, it sank about ten inches, and a stream of water spouted up with such force, that the man in the well had to be drawn up im-

Mr. Lacey has had it tested, and finds it to be what is known as carbonated chalvbeate water, which contains the carbonate of iron, dissolved in excess of carbonic acid, and is easily recognized by forming an ochry deposit of red oxide of iron on the boards and bricks surrounding the well, owing to an escape of the carbonic acid on exposure to the air. It is similar to the celebrated waters of Wiesbaden, in Germany; Islington and Spa, in England; Bedford, Sharon, and other places in the United States. The water is very clear, and has a peculiar and pleasant taste, which cannot be discovered in any other water in Omaha. Mr. Lacey congratulates himself on the fact that it is not necessary for him to go away from home to obtain medicinal spring waters, as this answers every purpose. Continental Life Directors for Omaha The Omaha Local Board of Directors of the Continental Life Insurance Company, of New York, has elected the following officers for

LINCOLN, August 14, 1874.

Again has the mountain labored and again has it brought forth a mouse, and a short lived one at that. The grand event which was to have revolutionized politics in Nebraska was to come off yesterday in the assembling of the Independent convention, this being the third attempt to bring together the champions of industry. It was expected that the gathering would be at least commensurate with the effort made to render it a success. Although Gen. Bick and some of the Ko-op leaders have been vigorously trying, with the aid of Gosper's windmills. to blow life into the corpse, by representing that the assemblage had exceeded the expectations of everybody, the truth is, that it was comparatively a much smaller affair than any county convention ever held in Lancaster county. It didn't pan out very well, but 'twas ever thus, etc. The chief fugler in the movement, Church Howe, was on the ground three days ago surveying the field, with a long glass, from an elevated position, with the hope of manipulating the convention according to his own ideas. His face kept elongating as the time for holding the convention approached, and as the long expected delegates failed to make their appearance.

The Convention was originally called with the view of putting up a platform and making the nominations ahead of everybody else. It was proposed to put on a bold front, and carry things by storm. When ing night and day to bale it, but it became apparent that the thing they could not reduce the water to was to be a fizzle.
