I wish to say in reply to last evening's Union, which states that special mail agent Hawley could not find sufficient proof against Yost to convict him before the Postal Department, that this is a question. If Mr. Hawley presented the case at the Department in the same way that he did before Yost, Furay and Mr. Estabrook, my attorney, then is Mr. Yost in a bad boat. He summed up the case in this manner: The first charge-speculating on oostal clerks' salaries, Mr. Yost adnitted that he did while deputy postmaster and while postmaster. would get him into trouble. Therefore, it will be seen that my first charge was sustained by Yost's own this year, which has proved a suc-

The second charge-speculating on mail contracts and defrauding the government-Hawley said I sustained by proving that there were two frauds, one against the government, arising from the difference between the two contracts, when the original contract could have been transferred to Sweezy, a responsible man; and the other by beating Stephenson out of $75.00, when he was entitled to the contract without paying any bonus, as he was the next highest bidder.

> petition headed by Yost, and signed by most of the State officers, demanding that I should be removed from office; and if he received the signatures in the same tricky manner that he did that of Mr. Bristol, the pension agent, I am inclined to think that he will get his foot into it. Bristol says Yost came into his office one morning in a great hurry and said he wanted him to sign a petition to have Williams promoted to a postal clerkship. Bristol signed the petition without reading it, and the next day he was surprised to hear that it was a petition to have me removed.

I do not care anything about the 'record" which the postal ring fixes up here about me. My official record on file at the Department will show exactly how I stand. I have done nothing but obey instructions. If I am removed for that, I care not; but that is not the reason. I was put out; it was because they could not make a tool of me, and compel me to keep my mouth shut. They know it as well public khow it.

EDWARD KUEHL. MAGISTER OF THE DEPARTED. OUR ASHLAND LETTER.

(Correspondence of THE BEE.)

Ashland is quiet and business rather dull; but little wheat coming into market, owing to the low prices now paid for grain. Of all new enterprises of interest in the agricultural department and of the farmers, Ashland has one which will interest that class of people. Since Messrs. Dean & Wilson have their flax mill in full blast it has created great deal of interest among th farming community, and now they are devoting more time and interest less trouble than small grain. Messrs, Dean & Wilson have sowed several hundred bushels of seed cess, besides they have loaned to farmers to sow which they buy by the acre or ton.

Flax which is pulled is more profitable, as it can be put up in better shape. It is hauled to the mill in shief, and the seed is shelled off by machinery without tangling it, then it is spread out to rot, after bales and sent to the Eastern market, (Massachusetts). That which is cut and threshed is more tangled. It is bought, and after going through some process as that pulled it is baled and sent East for making upholstery and ropes. The former is used for making thread, and for weaving, Mr. Wilson formerly from Masto cancel his own stamps—was ad- sachusetts has a lifetime experience in the business now engaged in, There will be more Flax raised in Saunders County next pay-roll for more money than he year than ever before, as the farmers are well satisfied it will pay.
