Notes by one of Wiltse's Surveying Party.

EDITOR OMAHA BEE: Wishing to place before your readers a summary of the hazardous expedition known as the survey of the northern boundary line of our State, I submit you the following notes: Mr. Chauncey Wiltse, of this city, held the contract and at first was promised an escort, which promise was afterwards broken, leaving him the alternative to either abandon the project or organize an escort of his own. The last named proposition he concluded to adopt, and accordingly selected Mr. Majors, of this city, as the best man to be found to organize and command the guard, which consisted of ten scouts. These scouts were equpped and armed, each with a late improved Winchester rifle, and mounted on iorses purchased in Omaha. THE SEND OFF took place on the 13th of August, from Omaha, going Northwest. We penetrated from the settlements on the upper Eikhorn across the Niobrara, to the south bank of the Keya pa-ha, a distance of fifty miles. where the initial point was established by Prof. Austin.

THE GENERAL CONFORMATION of the first hundred miles of the country passed through did not vary much, except the last portion, it being more sandy, though it is good grazing land. The pine regions lie from five to twenty-five miles to the south, on the Niobrara river, while the oak and cottonwood is confined to the bottom land to the north, on the Keya-pa-ha. A NARROW ESCAPE FROM STARVA-and a timely warning to men not accustomed to these wild districts occurred to two of our men. The facts are as follows: A Mr. Johnson was sent on the line with a load of stakes, and to insure his safe return Mr. A. A. Sloan was detailed as escort to the wagon

They defiled to the left and soon passed into an unknown and wild looking valley. Here they became lost. They spread out the wagon cover, and with downcast look awaited their fate, when to their great joy one of the scouts came upon them and took them into camp. ATSIN-ZAGAT-ISCHA'S AGENCY, 168 miles from the initial point, we were favored with a military escort consisting of forty men from the 2d Cavalry, commanded by Lieutenant Cole. Here we packed four of the five wagons, leaving the best portion of the scouts under command of Capt. Majors, while the rest prothe Wyoming south liue. THE RETURN TRIP commenced on the 27th of september, and occupied sixteen days from "Spot" camp to Omaha, although we left three teams upon the Elkceeded on foot 56 miles further, to

THE RED HOT BEAR FIGHT mentioned in a late issue of the Union of this city, occurred nearly seventyfive miles this side of "Spot" camp, and was the occasion of much rare sport, as some twenty of the boys had a shot at him. Mr. Philip Weaver, however, drew first blood. Then as his bearship passed within ten rods of the wagons he received a broadside. "Jake," our cook, made an assault with an axe, but did not reach the expiring monster in time to commit the butchery.

TO KILL A MAN At five hundred yards, thought by some of the party, to be an easy task, but after exhausting many cartridges, (not on men) it was not thought so easy. Neverthe less at the killing of our first elk on the up trip, Frank Crowell gave the animal a bad wound at that distance, and he was afterwards brought

In conclusion, it is but just to give prominent mention of the action of Mr. Majors, who from the first evidenced a steady and unchanging line of tactics. Undoubtedly to him the success of the expedition was greatly due. "EAT-A-BITE."
