New ORLEANS, Oct. 21. The conference committee of Democrats and Republicans reconvened last night, to choose a successor to Bonsano, umpire of the advisory board. The Republicans required the adoption of a policy giving assurances that the guarantee of the Democrats, of a cessation of violence and intimidation, would be faithfully observed. The Democrats refused this, unless two places on the returning board were given them immediately. A general dis-agreement resulted and the constr-ence, at near midnight, adjourned sine die, without action. The Dem-
