GENERAL BABCOCK.

His Personal Appearance and Record. [St. Louis Globe-Democrat, 8th.]

Except the trial of Aaron Burr and the impeachment of President Johnson, no more important trial has been held in the United States since the century began than that which was virtually commenced yesterday.

Both of these men stood accused of crimes whose very grandeur is calculated to rob them of half their enormity in the eyes of the unthinking multitude.

The general is a man under middle height, probably not more than five feet seven. His blue eyes shine from a ruddy, handsome countenance.

Soon afterwards, when Vicksburg fell, General Grant paid Colonel Babcock the special compliment of requesting his personal attendance at the ceremony of the surrender.

Mr. Norwood said he desired to speak on the bill, but was unable to do so to-day. He moved the senate adjourn. Rejected.

VERY LATEST! MIDNIGHT. WASHINGTON.

Congressional SENATE. WASHINGTON, Feb. 9.

Mr. Wallace presented fifty petitions of five thousand citizens of Pennsylvania in favor of aid to the Texas Pacific railway.

Mr. Edmunds submitted a resolution instructing the committee on public buildings and grounds to inquire into the expediency of making adequate provision for a speedy completion of the Washington monument in Washington.

Mr. Kelly called up the senate bill to extend the time for the completion of the proposed Northern Pacific railroad.

Mr. Morrill spoke at length in favor of the bill, and said the senatorial committee had become a national question, on which congress could not turn its back.

Mr. Banning asked leave to offer a resolution calling on the secretary of war for information as to the number of soldiers at present in the service of the army.
