

THE OMAHA BEE.

TERMS OF WEEKLY BEE: One copy, one year in advance...

SITTING ROOM is now ready for a high joint convention.

ST. AUGUSTINE, Florida, is the oldest settlement in America.

CHARLES O'CONNOR'S personal appearance before the high court of arbitration is described by the Washington correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean.

CHRONIC rumblers about the condition of our streets and sidewalks, will derive much comfort from the statement of a New York contemporary that the streets of New York have become congested with pesty mud.

AFTER the fourth of March next the Senate of the United States will be constituted of 39 Republicans, 3 Democrats, Independent and one vacancy in Louisiana.

THE result of the recent elections in Germany, is regarded by leading London papers, as decidedly discouraging to the supporters of the Empire.

ONE of the most important measures before Congress is Judge Crouse's Omaha bridge bill.

Several members of the legislature are now advocating a bill to tax churches like any other property.

THE fine church structures which are built by rich congregations generally demand and most always secure public conveniences, such as gas, water, electric lights, etc.

THE compromise electoral bill came before both houses of Congress for final action.

THE compromise electoral bill came before both houses of Congress for final action.

Howe's Efforts Standers. Hol. Churchy Hows, when making his charges against Hon. E. Rosewater, said: "I charge him with being the paid editor of a subsidized organ of a powerful corporation."

Mr. Howe was unfortunate in this statement for it shows a man who has been made clear in the investigation it is the fact that the B. & M. corporation has not paid money to any paper during the Senatorial election.

The books of the B. & M. railroad show the amount paid for job work and advertising by that corporation to the Omaha Herald in 1876 was considerably in excess of the amount paid during the same year to the BEE.

GEN. STRICKLAND once made the remark that he could not bear a man who while seeming to soothe his ears with sweet sounds of music, was aiming a deadly stiletto at his back.

THE Herald has much to say in condemnation of Mr. Wells, who is only reported—not proven—to have accepted $200,000 for a transmutation of the Louisiana election returns in Southern Nebraska.

COAL IN NEBRASKA. In our telegraphic columns will be seen a report of a very valuable and extensive discovery of rich coal in Southern Nebraska.

PATRICK ON HOWE. The May after the senatorial contest, I met Mr. PATRICK and Dr. MILLER in Chicago and came as far as Red Oak.

LEGAL PROTECTION TO CRIMINALS. The present criminal laws of this State are full of public officials, in the light of the past six years of experience in this State, strikes us as a nullity.

It has been said, and it cannot be too often repeated, that Mr. Howe had run his campaign as Mr. Tilden did, and if since the election he had been detected in the intrigues and chicanery of a politician, he would have been rejected by the country in both parties.

S. G. OWEN, President of the State National Bank of Lincoln, testified on Wednesday evening that while Mr. Howe was a member of the Legislature two years ago, he [Howe] was asked to oppose and did oppose, and advise the use of money to defeat the capital reform bill.

MR. TILDEN'S "REFORM" TACTICS. New York Times. It is as fair to judge a man by the agents he employs as by the company he keeps.

THE English Government, as will be seen by the Queen's speech in our cablegrams, has strong hopes of effecting a reconciliation between Turkey and Russia, and thereby maintaining the peace of Europe.

POLITICAL NOTES. The constitution says that all States shall be equally represented in the Senate.

THE tripartite-commission plan is the law. The country may now take a long breath of relief and settle down to business for 1877, and the advertising public must and shall have a hearing if we have to split column rules.—[Nashville American.]

Believing the cause of Hayes to be just, and that his claim to the Presidency is based on the honest and legal votes of the people of the United States, I think ten of us would like to declare him the President of the United States.

While there is no enthusiasm among Colorado Republicans over the compromise bill, there is still some complaint of the Colorado Senators for casting their votes in favor, and any attempt to make it appear that they have displeased their constituents by their action must be a failure.—[Denver Col.] News.

THE recent course taken by Senators Edmunds, Conkling, and other Republican lawyers, on the count of the electoral votes, and the vice president, shows character and independence worthy of the great occasion and inspiring respect for the high profession they have adopted.

JUDGE THURSTON, in his ardent against the admission of hearsay testimony, said: "You are here trying your peer."

loudly applauded whenever a Democratic Congressman, as is frequently done, says something that meets their approval. It would be wise to keep the "rebel yell" out of the national legislative hall a while yet.—[Lebanon Courier.]

CRUCH HOWE.

Continued from 6th page. conversation with Mr. Cole and conveyed to him the idea there was nothing in these charges and told him Mr. Howe was for fighting that case right through.

Q. Let me inquire whether you ever made any such statements as I have referred to in the presence of Oliver L. Bristol? A. What statements?

Q. As to whether you know that Mr. Howe was guilty? A. No, sir; I do not; I don't think that Mr. Rosewater will go on this stand and swear I ever made the statement to him that Cruch Howe confessed that to me, or that Mr. Bristol will swear.

Q. Did you never state anything to that effect to Mr. Bristol, at any time or place? A. No, sir; I never state anything to that effect to Mr. Bristol, at any time or place.

Q. Did he not, after the second ballot or so, open his carpet bag and bring out the name of John C. Webster as his candidate before that convention? A. I saw Mr. Towle come up to Mr. Rosewater and use the language, "What name do you want to put for Mr. Webster?" and he said: "I will see about it."

Q. Did you see any tickets for Webster? A. I did not see them; I was only looking for Cowin tickets; but I saw some after the convention.

SUCCESS. Test of Merit. The great success of Vegetine in curing disease of the blood, is due to its being a natural medicine, and its being made of the most pure and healthful ingredients.
