THE OMAHA BEE. TOM SAWYER.

How He Won a Prize Bible at Sunday School.

BY MARK TWAIN. Subbath-school hours were from 9 until half-past 10; and then church service. Two of the children always remained for the sermon voluntarily and the others slways remained too -for stronger reasons. The church's high - backed - uncushioned pews would seat about 800 persons; the edifice was but a small, plain attair, with a sort of pine-board tree box on it for a steeple. At the door Tom dropped back a step and accosted a Sunday-dressed comrade:

"Say, Billy, got a yaller ticket?"

"What'll you take for her?" "What'll you give?" "Piece of lickerish and a fishhook." "Less see 'em." Tom exhibited. They were satisfactory and the property changed. bands. Then fom traded a couple of white allegs for three red tickets and some crifle or other for a couple of blue ones. He waylaid other boys as they came, and went on busing tickets of various colors ten or fifteen minutes longer. He entered the church now with a swarm of clean and noisy boys and girls, proceeded to his seat and started a quarrel with the first boy that came handy. The teacher, a grave elderly man, interferred; then turned his back a moment and Tom pulled a boy's hair in the next bench, and was absorbed in his book when the boy turned around; stuck a pin in another boy, presently, in order to hear him say "Ouch!" and got a new reprimand from his teacher. Tom's whole class were of a pattern -restless, noisy and troublesome. When they came to recite their lessons, not one of tuem knew his verses perfectly, but had to be prompted all along. However, they worried through, and each got his in various ways, and the little boys reward in small blue tickets each ! with a passage of Scripture ou it; that the air was thick with paper each blue ticket was pay for two wads and the murmur of scufflings. verses of the recitation Ten blue And above it all the great man fat tickets-equalled a red one, and could be exchanged for it; ten red tickets equalled a yellow one; for ten yellow tickets the superintendent gave a very plainly bound Bible (worth forty cents in those easy times) to the pupil. How many of my readers would have the industry and application to memorize 2,000 verses, even for a Dore Bible? And yet— Mary had acquired to Bibles in this way-it was the patient work of two years-ar a boy of German parentage had won four or five. He once reciter, 3,000 verses without stopping but the strain upon his men'al faculties was too great, and he was little better than an idiot from that day forth-a grievous misfortune for the school, for on great occasions, before company, the superintendent (as Tom expres-was so great and conspicuous for that day that on the very spot every scholar's heart was fired with a fresh and eclat that came with it. In due course the superintendent stood up in front of the pulpit, with a closed hymn-book in his hand and his forefinger inserted between its leaves, and commanded attention. When a Sunday-school superintendent makes his customary little speech a hymn-book in the hand is as necessary as the mevitable sheet of music in the hand of a singer who stands forward on the platform and sings a solo at a concert-though why, is a mystery; for neither the hymn-book nor the sheet of music is ever referred to by the sufferer. The superintendent was a slim creature of thirty-five, with a sandy goatee and short sandy hair; he wore a stiff standing collar whose sharp points curved forward abreast the corners of his mouth-a fence that compelled a straight lookout ahead, and a turning of the whole body when a side view was required his chin was propped on a spreading 'davat, which was as broad and as iong as a bank note, and had fringed ends; his boot-toes were turned sharply up, in the fashion of the day, like sleigh runners-an effect patiently and laboriously produced by the young men sitting with their toes pressed against a wall for hours together. Mr. Walters was very earnest of mien, and very sincere and honest at heart; and he held sacred things and places in such reverence, and so separated them from worldly matter that unconsciously to himself his Sunday-school voice had acquired a peculiar intonation which was wholly absent on week days. He began after this

"Now, children, I want you all to sit up just as straight and pretty as you can, and give me all your attention for a minute or two. Therethat is the way good little boys and girls should do. I see one little girl who is looking out of the window. I am afraid she thinks I am out there somewhere-perhaps up in one of the trees, making a speech to the little birds. [Applausive titters.] I want to tell you how good it makes me feel to see so many bright, clean little faces assembled In a place like this, learning to do right and be good." And so forth and so on. It is not necessary to set down the rest of the oration. It was of a pattern which does not vary, and it is familiar to us all. The latter third of the speech was marred by the resumption of fights and other recreations, among certain of the bad boys, and by fidgetings and whisperings that extended far and wide, washing even to the bases of isolated and incorruptible rocks like Sid. and Mary. But now every sound ceases suddenly, with the subsidence of Mr. Walter's voice, and the conclusion of the speech was received with a burst of

A good part of the whispering had been occasioned by an event which was more or less rare—the entrance panied by a very feeble and aged man; a fine, portly, middle-aged gentleman with iron-gray hair; and a dignified lady who was doubtless the latter's wife. The lady was leading a child. Tom had been restless and full of chafings and repinings; conscience-smitten, toohe could not meet Amy Lawrence's eye, he could not brook her loving gaze. But when he saw this small new comer, his soul was ablaze with bliss in a moment. The next moment he was "showing off" with all his might—cuffing boys, pulling hair, m: king faces—in a word, using every art that seemed likely to fascinate a girl and win her applause. His exaltation had but one alloythe memory of his humiliation in this angel's garden—and that rec ord in sand was fast washing out under the waves of happiness that "Now, I know you will tell me," said the lady. "The names of the first two d'sciples were—"

were sweeping over it now. The visitors were given the higheet seat of honor, and as soon as Mr. over the rest of the scene. SPECIAL QUOTATIONS.

Tom was introduced to the Judge; but his tongue was tied, his breath would hardly come, his heart quaked - partly because of the awful greatness of the man, but mainly because he was her parent. He would have liked to fall down and worship him, if it were in the dark. The Judge put his hand on Tom's head and salled him a fine little man, and asked what his name was The boy stammered, gasped, and got It

And you never can be sorry for the trouble you took to learn it em; for knowledge is worth more than anything there is in the world; it's what makes great men and good men; you'll be a great man and a LINIMENT good man yourself, some day, Thomas, and then you'll look back Fhomas, and then you'll look back and say: It's all owing to my dear teachers that taught me to learn—it's all owing to the good superintendent, who encouraged me and watched over me, and gave me a beautiful Bible to keep and have it all my own, always—it's all owing and usefulness many valuable horse. to right bringing up. That is what you will say, Thomas—and you wouldn't take any money for those two thous-and verses-no indeed, you wouldn't. and now you wouldn't mind telling me and this lady some of the things you've learned? no, I know you wouldn't, for we are proud of the little boys that learn. Now, no doubt, you know the names of all the twelve disciples. Won't you tell us the names of the first two that were appointed?"

Tom was tugging at a button hole and looking sheepish. He blusted now and his eyes fell. Mr. Walter's heart sank within him. He said to himself, it is not possible that the boy can answer the first question— why did the Judge ask him? Yet he felt obliged to speak up and say: "Answer the gentleman, Thomas;

don't be afraid." Tom still hung fire. "David and Golliah !"

Debility.

Debility is a term used to denote deficiency of blood. The nutritive constituents of the blood are in less than their regular proportion, while the watery part is in excess. I believe the watery part is in excess. I be looked to a variety of diseases. The lowest limbs are apt to be swelleen. The patient is feeble and cannot bear much exertion. The circulation is irresular, but almost always weak, Palpitation of the beart is a very common symptom. Violent emotion often throws the heart into the most tumultuous nation. The vital functions are languidly performed. The muscular strength is diminished: fatigue follows moderate a slight exercise. The breathing though quiet when at rest, becomes hurried and even painfully agitated under exertion, as in running, accending heights, etc. The nervous system is often greatly disordered. Vertigo, dizziness, and a feeling of faintness are very common. Violent and obstinate neurals of pains in the head side, breast and other parts of the body, are also frequent at endants upon the disease. The secretions are sometimes diminished. In females the menses are almost always enther suspended or very past ally performed. The bile is scanty, and contineness, with unhealthy evacuations from the bowels and dyspeptic state of the stemach, are extremely common symptoms. MARVELOUS EFFECT.

H. B. STEVENS, -Dear Sir: I have used Vesetine, and feel it a duty to acknowledge the great benefit it is has done me. In the spring of the yeer 1972 I was sick from general debility, caused by overwork, want of sleep and proper rest. I was very weak and much emaciated. I tried many remedies, without receiving any benefit from any of them, until I was persuaced to try Vegetine, Before I had taken this one week my improved condition gave me renewed hope and courage. I continued to take it every day, gaining more strength until I was completely restored to health. The effect of this remedy, in case of general debility, is indeed marvellous. f general debility, is indeed marvellous, ELIZABETH A. FOLEY. 21 Webster street, Charleston, Mass.

EXPECTORATION.

Is the act of discharging from the throat and chest matter that arises from colds, instead of scattering and distributing it through the blood, and poisoning it. By thus assisting the Lunez. Throat and Chest, Dr. Green's Expectorant cures Colds, Coughs, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Byptheria, Whooping Ceugh and all affections of the Lungs. Throat and Chest, and the first stages of Consumption and Typhold Fever. Its qualities are Expectorant, Sedative Pectorial and Alternative. It does not stop the cough as most preparations do, by their anodyne and astringent effects, retaining the mucous and offending matter in the blood and causing permanent disease of the Lungs, but it cures by locsening the cough and assisting the lungs and throat to throw off the offending matter, which uses the cough, thus scientifically mak he cure perfect. It at once alleviates nost distressing cold on the lungs, standard and the cough. No better remedy can be for Asthma, Broachitis, Croup and thought of the bowels constituted in use will subdue any to to Consumption, Lung and Typhoid larger.

If the liver is torpid on the bowels constituted a few doese of Dr. Green's Liver Pills will assist nature. No better cuthartic can be found.

As are the experiences of this life, none are without its silver lining. Troubles and cares come; some abide with us; some pass away. To-day the body is vigorous, to-morrow it is dead and gone; life at best is short and the great problem how to perpetuate it is still unsolved. Life, however, can be prolonged, the weak and feeble body made strong, no matter from what cause induced, and instead of being a burden to dispeptic and debilitated bodies, can be made an enduring pleasure; but how? Simply by the daily and moderate use of Dr. Green's Bitte Tonic. This truly medicinal preparation: not a cheap and trashy article, intended simply to stimulate and then leave the second state of the body worse than the first, but it gently relaxes the bowels, stimulates the liyer, making it work off the poisonous humor of the blood, controls and regulates digestion, thereby removing the cause of headaches land low spirits, relieves flatmility to that ergan with an increased and healthy appetite; regulates female weakness, prevents fever and saue and malarious disease, protects the system from unwholesome air and impure water, and vitalizes and tones the whole body against all attacks of disease. Try it and you will find it pleasant to the taste and healing to the body.

In sudden or severe cases of Liver Complaint, or in constipation of the bowels, a few doses of Dr. Green's Liver Pills will avisit the Tonic in a cure, and if you are shaking with the ague, Dr. Green's Ague Pill will drive it away.
