Cheap millinery—Particular attention is called to the advertisement of Mr. S. P. Morse, which will be found elsewhere in our local columns. As Mr. M. means business, never advertising bargains unless he intends to give them, we advise our readers to call and look at his large stock before purchasing their millinery.

There is a case of mysterious disappearance at the Omaha National Bank. C. E. White, one of the clerks, has gone to Nebraska City, without saying a word to anybody, and it is suspected that he has gone to be married. The bank boys feel hurt at his slipping off that way, so they wanted to give him $300,000 or $1,000,000 as a starter, but they don't feel so much like doing it now.

Policeman Byrne Tuesday night arrested a young "coon" named Ed. Brown for stealing a pair of pants from McLaughlin's store. He was sent up yesterday for 30 days. He is the same young rascal who nipped Mrs. LeFranc's pocket book about two months ago in front of the police court, and he admits it him off. He is also charged with stealing $25 worth of clothing from a 30th line some time ago, and selling the plunder in Council Bluffs. Take him all in all, he is a "slick" man.

The principal workmen who have been employed in the rebuilding of a Union Pacific headquarters, last evening presented a handsome gold watch chain, valued at $25, to J. A. Henry, Jr., the time-keeper. The presentation speech was made by Mr. A. D. Sabine, and Mr. Henry replied in a few appropriate words, and was followed by Superintendent Decker, of the A. & P. Telegraph, and Mr. Ellsworth, night train dispatcher. The following are the names of the contributors of the gift: Samuel Lippincott, foreman; John H. Miller, John Barnes, Thomas Mann, Fred Maynard, Henry Collins, P. J. Dryer, Wm. Rice, Robert Kluger, J. T. Blake, D. W. Sehnir, Jerry W. Beaber, James Fogarty, O. C. Northrup, J. W. Tripp, A. D. Sabine, waiter Munson.

Don't fail to see Frederick's look. The unique entertainment given last evening at the Academy of Music by the Hyers Sisters was greatly enjoyed by quite a large audience, notwithstanding the muddy condition of the streets. The play, "Out of Bondage," does not amount to much as a drama, but it affords a splendid opportunity for the illustrations of slave life and character in the days of bondage. It abounds in fun and jollity, and the numerous vocal solos, which are finely rendered, make it a musical drama. The Hyers Sisters are excellent vocalists; Miss Celestine O. Brown is an accomplished and brilliant pianist; while the specialties of Sam Lucas, the colored comedian, are both entertaining and amusing. The great number of songs and melodies rendered make the entertainment a very musical affair, and the music is of the highest character, and well worth hearing, especially the concert and operatic selections by the Hyers Sisters quartette in the last act.

THE PRO RATA WAR.

The Kansas Pacific and Denver Pacific vs. The Union Pacific.

Important Questions to be Argued In the United States Circuit Court To-Day.

Yesterday a. m. telegrams from Washington announced that at the conclusion of Senator Chaffee's remarks on his resolution regarding the management of the Union Pacific railroad with reference to pro-rating with the Kansas Pacific and Denver Pacific, etc., Senator Saunders read to the clerk of the desk and had sent a telegram from A. J. Poppleton, attorney for the Union Pacific railroad, that the question whether the Kansas Pacific, Denver Pacific, and Burlington and Missouri River roads were branches of the Union Pacific and what their rights were, was now pending before Judge Dillon and a discussion might be expected in a few days and expressing the hope that there would be no legislation until after the decision should be made.

Senator Saunders said he desired to address the Senate in regard to this resolution, but was not prepared. Senator Chaffee then yielded and the resolution was laid over for the present. The telegram from Mr. Poppleton in relation to Senator Chaffee's resolution referred to a suit now pending in the United States Circuit Court, now in session in this city, Judge Dillon presiding. The suit was brought by the Kansas Pacific and Denver Pacific railroads against the Union Pacific, to compel the Union Pacific to pro-rate with those roads on business delivered by them to the Union Pacific at Cheyenne.

By the term "pro rate," they mean the right to have their business carried from Cheyenne to Ogden at mileage pro rata of the lowest through rate from Omaha to Ogden, which is one-half the through rate, Cheyenne being equidistant between Omaha and Ogden.

The question whether the Union Pacific is entitled to any increase of rate west of Cheyenne, by reason of increased cost of construction and operation of the road, and the question whether the Kansas Pacific and Denver Pacific constitute a branch of the Union Pacific, as raised by exceptions filed by those companies to the answer of the Union Pacific, will be argued to-morrow morning.

AN AMUSING TRIAL.

Grace vs. Connolly—The Plaintiff Awarded $50 Damages For a Broken Collar Bone.

The jury in the case of Grace vs. Connolly et al., brought in a verdict yesterday for the plaintiff giving him $50 damages for a broken collar bone received while engaged in a fight with the Connolly family.

This was rather an amusing trial. Grace, while on the stand, shocked the dignity of the Court by the frequent use of profanity, his oaths generally being hurled at Mr. N. J. Barnham, counsel for the defendant. The Court severely reprimanded him for it, and finally threatened to stop the trial if he did not discontinue it, and intimated also that he might be invited to step down into the basement behind the bars for contempt. After the trial was over Judge Savage called Grace up and talking to him, and concluded by saying, "I think perhaps you had better not come before this court any more. That's all the punishment I shall inflict upon you."

Some people might consider it a heavy punishment to be barred out of court, but whether Grace took it that way is a question. Connolly, during the trial, claimed to be deaf, and insisted that the counsel should sit close to him. Mr. Baldwin, counsel for Grace, put his auricular power to a test, by going toward him, and asking a few questions in a very low tone, which he answered promptly. Thereupon the Court became satisfied that he was not so deaf as he might be, and that no ear trumpet was necessary. So he ordered Mr. Baldwin to resume his place at a distance.

One noticeable characteristic of the trial was the disposition of the parties to wander off from the subject in hand in all sorts of neighborhood troubles, and the testimony was sandwiched with innumerable exclamations such as "says he," "says I," "God bless me," "Arrah now," etc., and Judge Savage held that he could do to keep them on the main track.

Grace testified that he had worked for the Union Pacific for the last four years, but on cross-examination it was shown that he hadn't done any work for eight years. So it seems that the first money he has earned is that which he is to receive for having his collar bone broken.

PICKING UP A SLEEPER.

A Man Robbed of Four Hundred and Seventy-Five Dollars, and a Gold Watch and Chain, By His Room Mate.

The robbery was at once reported to policeman McAuliff, who notified City Marshal Butler of the circumstances. Butler rushed off in a carriage he took with him Charles Fleck, proprietor of the hotel, and drove out to Gilmore and Pappillon at a rapid rate, after having first telegraphed to those points. Not finding their man there, they started on their return, coming in on the Bellevue road. Arriving at the "Half-way House," Marshal Butler thought it would be a good idea to take a look inside. On entering the place the very first man that Butler and Fried saw was the thief himself. He started out at the back door and bounded away like a deer, with the Marshal in hot pursuit, and the officer finally ran him down after a lively chase.

On searching him the sum of $339, was found. It seems that the thief had hired some one to drive him out of town towards Gilmore, and that afterwards he had taken a back track to throw his pursuers off the scent.

The prisoner was brought back to Omaha in the afternoon and lodged in jail, where he will be likely to remain for some time to come. Marshal Butler deserves considerable credit for the successful capture. IMPROVED BOOK KEEPING. Below is a sample of the new and only "BOOKS" which we shall keep on and after the 15th of November:

If the merchant who sells goods on credit is successful in his business, all the expenses and losses above enumerated must be made good to him by his paying customers, but if those losses are not recovered, the merchant is ruined, and his expenses are reduced he can well afford to give his patrons the benefit. The fuel is made so that it will burn for 24 hours, and is so arranged that it will be admitted that the fuel produced on the press is "SAFE". There is a handle attached to each machine so arranged that the handle can be cut in any direction. The handle may be used 5 or 10 times before using. Parties desiring machines must send their orders early, as the demand is greater than the supply. Agents make no representations as to the quality of the fuel. The truth as to the capabilities and merits will insure a rapid sale. A man can cut up his year's stock of fuel with the press and corn stalks, than he can with an axe and wood pile. The above cut represents our improved machines, which will be sold with all the attachments, at $25.00. DAVIS BROS. & FISK, 412 F. & M. St., up stairs. Tel. No. 604.

DAVIS BROS. & FISK, Patentees and Manufacturer, Omaha. This Press is designed for pressing corn cobs and other similar materials into a compact shape so that they can be burnt with our late "Wide Range" and made into bundles of convenient size for fuel. As the bundles are to be burnt with the bands on them the stalks are bent so that they are easier to burn than when straight.
