The funeral of Ollie M. Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Barlow, will take place to-day afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the residence, Twenty-second and Webster streets, the Rev. Mr. Millspaugh officiating.

Charles Strong, who some weeks ago unmercifully pounded Bernstein, got out of jail only a day or two ago, and Tuesday he cruelly assaulted an unoffending Chinaman without the least provocation. The police are looking for him.

Byers, the shoemaker, was robbed a few weeks ago of a watch, a door key, and five dollars in money. A policeman has recovered the watch for him. It is said that the theft was committed by Woods, who is now in jail on the charge of perjury.

At the concert this evening, Ilma De Murska, the "Queen of Song," will be assisted by C. W. Rosen, the well-known tenor; Mr. C. Makin, the eminent basso; and Mr. John Hill, the celebrated violinist and pianist.

An old lady and gentleman, on their way from the East to San Francisco, lost their railway tickets to the latter place yesterday morning, they think, at the Union Pacific depot, at the transfer. Search was made for them, but no clue could be had of the necessary papers to carry the old folks to their destination. Their money was about all invested in their tickets.

At the concert this evening, Ilma De Murska will sing the following selections: "Variations de Concert," "Carnival de Venise," specially arranged for Ilma De Murska by Sir Julius Bedelie; grand aria, "Robert to Faime," by Meyerbeer; grand aria, "Linda di Chamounix," Donizetti; "Lucia Waltz," by Sempere Glazier.

A well-known gentleman and his son entered a street car a day or two ago, and the boy who had a half dollar with which to pay the fare, dropped the coin into the box, instead of purchasing a package of change from the driver and then putting the correct amount in the box. The father, however, did not worry about the matter, but when the next passenger came in and passed up his nickel, the gentleman coolly dropped it into his pocket.

The horse thief arrested last week in Omaha by a constable from Junction, brief mention of which was made in these columns at the time, was arraigned before a justice of the peace at the latter place a few days ago, but he decided that he would not hold the thief, as he had been arrested on Nebraska soil without the requisite papers being made out in that state, and the fellow was released. A new warrant was sworn out, and the whole populace turned out en masse to hunt the thief, but all to no avail, as he made good improvement of the time between his release and the procuring of the warrant. The Junction Bulletin says great excitement prevailed, and the justice who released the man is severely criticized by many.

HOME AGAIN.

Return of Bishop O'Connor—He is Accompanied by Bishop Conroy.

The Right Reverend Jas. O'Connor, Roman Catholic bishop of the diocese of Nebraska, returned home yesterday after an absence of two months in the East, where he has been lecturing and working in the interest of the missionary cause among the Indians. He was accompanied by the most Reverend George Conroy, Bishop of Ardhan and Clon Macnois, Ireland. Bishop Conroy is an apostolic delegate from Rome, and is one of the highest dignitaries of the Roman Catholic church that has ever visited this country. He is en route to San Francisco, and on his way thither he will visit Denver and Salt Lake, and will be accompanied by Bishop O'Connor to the latter city, which is within the latter's jurisdiction. Bishop Conroy has with him his secretary, who is a priest.

The distinguished divines were met at the depot by the following committee, appointed to receive them: Rev. Father O'Brien and Messrs. J. A. Creighton, F. C. Morgan, M. Donovan and H. J. Lucas, who met them at the transfer. Upon arriving at the Union Pacific depot on this side of the river they were received by a large number of prominent members of the church.

Carriages were in waiting, and the bishops were driven to the Episcopal residence, where a formal reception will be held to-morrow afternoon.

An effort is being made to induce Bishop Conroy to remain in the city until Monday next and deliver a lecture at the cathedral on Sunday evening.

A Few Facts.

Cole Bros. are the oldest lightning rod men in the United States. They employ more men, run more teams and manufacture and sell at retail more lightning rods than any other company in this country. They have always had the reputation of manufacturing the best grade of material and putting up the best lightning rod in the market. Their Franklin lightning rods have received more premiums than any other rods offered to the public. It was never defeated at any fair where it was ever exhibited for competition, and was never awarded a second premium. The Franklin lightning rods have been tested for a longer period of time, have been used in greater quantities, and over a larger scope of country, than any other lightning rod, and with much greater success. Mr. E. House represents the company in this city, and is doing a running business. His work may be seen on a great many Omaha structures. A few of the most centrally located are Cruckshank & Co., dry goods house; A. J. Sampson, carriage factory; Clark & Warden, livery stable; Erik & Hansen, grocery, and Omaha Publishing company building; Dewey & Stone's building.

ALL CLEAR.

Trains on the T. P. Moving.

Loss of Life, both of Men and Animals, by the Storm.

The Union Pacific track is now entirely cleared of snow, and all trains are moving. Three through passenger trains will arrive here from the west today, the first at noon, the second at one, and the third at two o'clock. The eastern roads, consequently, will have a heavy run to-morrow afternoon. The blockade lasted six days.

A dispatch from Sherman station, on the Union Pacific, states that since the snow storm subsided the bodies of a number of persons who were moving, died from exposure. Two soldiers perished between Fort Russell and Cheyenne, a distance of three miles. Four men with an ox team were caught 15 miles northwest of Cheyenne. Three of them reached the railroad Sunday, terribly frozen, and will probably lose their feet; the fourth man and the cattle perished. Three ranchmen were found dead a short distance north of Cooper Lake. It is probable that only a small part of those who have died from the effects of the storm. One ranchman lost 10,000; sheep near Egbert Station. Many other cases are reported of loss of stock.

The snow is drifted in immense piles wherever there is any place to form a drift. Every cut in the railroad track was filled with snow and sand, and the sheds were also full. The railroad company had their forces out before the storm subsided on Sunday, and have been constantly at work with four snow plows at different points with all the men they could work. The different forces met at Sherman yesterday at 9 o'clock, having cleared 550 miles in less than three days.

Common Sense in Advertising.

We notice in the leading newspapers of late a good deal of sensible talk on the subject of advertising. Much of it is contributed by leading advertisers themselves, who have had large and expensive experience, and have kept such a careful and intelligent record of the costs and results of the various kinds of advertising that their testimony amounts to a practical demonstration.

They have tried all methods from the stereopticon and the street car placard to the big, white painted letters on fences, and the periodical handbills stuffed with advertisements, and showed under the doors or into the pockets of people who never open them. The testimony of all these experienced men enforces the conclusion that, for a genuine effective advertising medium, which is sure to bring a prompt and liberal return for the money invested, there is nothing comparable to the intelligent and well-to-do people of a community look for news and opinions upon current events. We venture to say that every business man in this city who has made a trial of the various methods of advertising under discussion has reached the same conclusion. The day of illustrated placards, announcements and "advertisers' directories" is past in this country. The business has been overdone, fortunes have been wasted in it, and the barrenness of results from all such outlays has prejudiced some classes of business men against the whole subject of advertising. This prejudice is, however, but limited and temporary, and the tide of intelligent opinion is setting back to first principles—that is, in favor of fresh, well-written and attractive advertisements, frequently changed in form and inserted in the leading newspapers of the community that the advertiser desires to reach. Money judiciously expended in this way is never lost, and it often brings a return of ten, twenty or fifty fold. The influence and range of the daily newspaper are broadening and deepening day by day. The Journalism of the United States has ripened and improved in tone and character more during the last ten years than it had done in the previous fifty. We are a busy people, and have little time or taste for long stories. The increased range and variety of the newspaper is trenching upon the domain of the book publisher, the pulpit, and the lecturer. More and more, year by year, the daily journal is furnishing almost the sole reading matter of a large proportion of the people. For exactly this reason its value as an advertising medium is increasing day by day. We may say from no merely selfish motive, but because it is true, and it is to the interest of business men who are preparing to spread their wares to the spring breeze of returning prosperity that they bear it to mind. Money spent in advertising may be wasted or bring golden fruitage, according to the degree of intelligence with which it is dispensed. Put it into a good, live, popular newspaper, which will carry your advertisement to the counting-room, the breakfast or supper table, and the fireside of the people, who have wants to be met, and money with which to meet them. This is the whole priceless secret of successful advertising.—[Cleveland Leader.

ARTIFICIAL STONE.

It Stands the Fire Test Without the Least Perceptible Weakness.

It is Rapidly Growing in Favor with Builders Throughout the Country.

For Beauty, Durability and Economy it Has No Rival among Building Materials.

A Solid Recommendation All the Way from Minneapolis.

The Novelty Artificial Stone Works, No. 263 Farnham street, C. K. Davis, Manager, still continue to attract the attention of the public. The inventor's architect has arrived here from Minneapolis. Yesterday a BEB reporter had an interview with him at the Grand Central concerning the artificial stone, the principal points of which interview will be published hereafter. The architect has with him the photographs of numerous buildings which have been built of artificial stone. Among these is the Safety Deposit Building, San Francisco, a very beautiful structure; also the residence of Erastus Byers, at Minneapolis, which building was recently burned, the walls, however, standing the fire; also the Jackson school house, the city hall market, and Thompson's building, all in Minneapolis, where the artificial stone is being generally used for building purposes. These photographs can be seen at the office, No. 263 Farnham street.

The inventor considers his architect one of the best in the United States. Col. Smythe, the lawyer, was to-day in consultation with the architect in regard to bringing this stone to the attention of an association that is being formed to erect an opera house, and it is very likely that the opera house will be built of this material.

No better recommendation of the artificial stone could be asked for than the following from the Minneapolis Tribune, of March 12:

The artificial stone company of Minneapolis has reached the goal of the result of the crucial test to which its manufactures were subjected at the recent fire in the elegant residence of Erastus Byers, Esq., corner Fifth street and Hennepin avenue. Although the heat was intense, it had no perceptible effect upon the artificial stone of which the building was constructed. The blocks with which the house is veneered are only four inches thick, with a superficial measurement of 12 by 36 inches, and yet not a half of them were cracked or broken by the action of the heat and water.

In conversation with a Tribune reporter Mr. Byers expressed himself not only thoroughly satisfied with the result of the test, but as a result of the trying ordeal to which this stone was subjected. He said that at times the blocks in the wall were heated so hot that when a stream of water struck them they would hiss like a red hot iron and there were no signs of disintegration. He said that when the water was poured upon them a critical examination. He is confident that a block of the artificial stone burned in a kiln for weeks, and then taken from the kiln and plunged into cold water would be in no degree weakened. He gives a practical proof of his abiding faith in the artificial stone that he has decided to build his elegant house with it at a distant day. The walls of his building remain standing, but will be taken down, as the bond of mortar or cement has been destroyed. Blocks of stone have been weakened, and not the stone itself, which is as strong as ever. He will use the artificial stone in his new residence extending from the corner of Hennepin and Hennepin streets, where the native stone would crumble to fragments.

What better recommendation could this material have than that requested by Mr. Byers? The most critical observer, who is familiar with the house in question previous to the fire of last week, would find to the contrary, that the walls as they remain standing.

There are in this city a large number of handsome structures built wholly or in part of the artificial stone, which they rank among the finest in the city.

As a business block the handsome store of J. H. Thompson, opposite the City Hall, has no superior, as far as taste and beauty are concerned. In Minneapolis, while the fine residences are constructed wholly of the artificial stone. As a building material it certainly possesses over anything in the market in the combination of strength, beauty and economy. It is heavier than brick, with a crushing weight nearly ten fold as great, and equal to the best limestone.

It is admirably adapted for window and door casings, sills, copings, vases, copings, monumental work, pavements and lawn walks, and has been used with marked success in the construction of bridges, and in the deflection of the action of the elements, growing heavier and harder by exposure and in places where it is alternately wet and dry, and in pavements, it improves with age.

For interior finishing it has no superior. Capable of taking a fine polish and in any desired color or shade, it is not inferior to marble for mantels, fire-place and grate trimmings, hearths, etc. In short, it may be substituted in building for terra cotta, lime stone, granite or marble, and will serve their purposes well, and at a much less expense.

That it has the confidence of the people of this city is fully attested by the fact that it enters wholly, or in part, in the architecture of many of our finest structures, both public and private, and not less than four hundred persons have increased their facilities to meet the largely increasing demands which are being made upon their works.
