He believes the people took refuge there to escape the Spanish incursions. In an old Spanish work entitled 'Apostolic Labors of the Society of Jesus," the finding of gold and silver in the Santa Rita mountains is thus

"In the year 1769, a region of virgin silver was discovered on the frontier of the Apaches, a tribe ex-ceedingly warlike and brave, at the place called Arizons, on a mountain ridge which hath been named by its discoverers Santa Rita. The discovery was made known by a Yaqui Indian, who revealed it to a trader of Durango, and the latter made it public. News of such surprising wealth attracted a vast multitude to the spot. A depth of a few varas masses of pure silver was found, of a globular form and one or two arrobas in weight. Several pieces were taken out weighing upward of 20 arrobas; one found by an inferior one found by an inferior official attached to government of Guadalajara weighed 140 arrybas. (An arryba is 25 pounds.) Many persons amassed large sums, whilst others, though diligent and persevering, found little or nothing. For the security of this mass of treasure, the captain of the Presido of Alar sent troops, who escorted the greater bulk of this silver to headquarters, whereupon this offi-cer seized the treasure as being the property of the crown.

"In vain the inders protested against this treatment, and appealed to the audience chamber at Guadalajars, but for answer the authorities re- a very poor and open fence that ferred the matter to the court of Madrid.
