Choice fresh vegetables; also fresh butter and eggs at Wm. Gentlemen's, Sixteenth and Cass streets. 27-31. Jordon Thomas, colored, was Thursday adjudged insane, and will be sent to the asylum at Lincoln. Don't forget the grand matinee Saturday afternoon next by Alvin Joslyn's Comedy Company. By special request the Alvin Joslyn Comedy Company will give a grand family matinee at 2 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, May 29. Take your children to the grand family matinee to be given by the Alvin Joslyn Comedy company Saturday at 2 p. m. The pastor of the Christian church will preach next Sunday night on "Strikes and Strikers." All workmen have a special invitation to attend. Douglas county is enjoying an immigration boom of large dimensions. Twenty-three families have settled in Jefferson precinct within the last three months, and more are coming. The Episcopal council closed its session Thursday afternoon. A missionary meeting held in the evening was addressed by Bishops Spaulding and Garrett. The June term of the district court for Douglas county will begin on the 7th proximo. There are 418 cases on the printed docket which will be issued in a few days. The number of attorneys now enrolled on the court record is 81. Mr. M. Donovan, the general proprietor of that excellent hotel, the Creighton house, is enlarging the building by a large kitchen placed in the rear of the lot. An elegant washroom has also been added to the other conveniences. Through an oversight, the position of organists for members of the choir was left out of the order of procession for decoration day. They will be placed in the first division with the decorating committee. Members of press will be furnished accommodations in third division following judges and officials of the federal courts. At 12 o'clock Thursday night two of the employees of John G. Jacobs' undertaking establishment, who were sleeping in the rear of the building up stairs, were aroused by the noise of footsteps in the front of the store room on the second story. A vigorous search failed to find any one present and it is supposed that the marauder escaped down stairs opening the front door by a false key as he departed. Articles of incorporation were yesterday filed in the county clerk's office by the Nebraska Cattle Growing company. They state that the object of the association is the breeding, growing and dealing in cattle, with Omaha as the place of business. The capital stock is placed at $100,000 in shares of $25 each. Moses Ballou, E. G. Ballou, Otis H. Ballou and David Cook are the incorporators. About 10 o'clock Thursday night a man was discovered lying insensible in the gutter on Fourteenth and Cass streets. It was at first supposed that he was poisoned and the police were notified and requested to procure medical aid. He was taken in a wagon to the city jail when the case was discovered to be one of plain drunk. This morning he was fined $5 and costs by Judge Haves and discharged. First-class work guaranteed. The young men of Omaha are beginning to realize that the best place to lay in a stock of fine neckwear, fancy hosiery, white and colored dress shirts, summer underwear, etc., is at L. B. Williams & Sons, because they don't ask the exorbitant prices of the furnishing goods dealers. 2613 The choice numbers of the two May festival concerts will make up the programme for the concert tomorrow evening. West Point Creamery Butter, 25c, at Pundt's. 28-31 Office, of three rooms with constant supply of soft water, to rent, in the Crutcher bank block. m21eodtf The Songs of Seven.

SNIDE SHOE DEALERS. Euchred Eastern Manufacturers Investigating the De-funct "Assignees." Gone But Not Forgotten. Some time before the holidays an establishment which sailed under the name of the "Assignees" Boot and Shoe Sale Company, located on Farnham street, in the store formerly occupied by J. B. French & Co. They hung their banners to the breeze in the shape of hand-bills and profuse advertising, and apparently did a thriving and lucrative business. A man by the name of Peabody was the nominal head of the establishment, which received and shipped quantities of goods in the most mysterious manner. It was understood from the manager that the Omaha establishment was only one of four or five similar institutions located in various parts of the west, and that the goods received were obtained from broken down factories in the New England states. One peculiar feature which attracted some attention was the fact that the establishment shipped about as many goods as they brought into the city, and that in all cases the boxes contained goods of the same name. Another peculiar and suspicious feature was that the firm transacted all their business without the aid of the banks, forwarding moneys through the express companies to points east and south. About a month ago the establishment suddenly packed up its goods, shipped them to Chicago and closed its doors. Its proprietors skipped the town, the store was advertised "For Rent," and the place that knew them once knew them no more. A few days since it transpired that the outfit had been practicing a systematic system of swindling upon eastern factories, and that a number of New England jobbers were seriously out of pocket by the failure of the establishment to meet its obligations. Letters to Omaha failed to find anyone who held themselves responsible for the debts of the "Assignees," or to reveal any trace of its proprietors. Inquiries in various directions could procure no traces of the swindlers, and an agent was sent out from Boston to track the goods, and if possible obtain some reimbursement for the eastern losers. So far Mr. Randall's investigations in our city have not been very successful. Parties who lived adjacent to the decamping firm profess entire ignorance of the workings of the establishment, its proprietors or their method of business. The stock is scattered in an hundred stores or sold by auction, so that the Massachusetts victims are not likely to recover any thing in reimbursement of their losses. The Songs of Seven. Burnett's Flavoring Extracts, at Pundt's. 28-31 May Festival Concert at Baptist church, Saturday evening, with price of admission reduced to 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children. The Songs of Seven. Smelts in cans, at Pundt's. 28-31 All the members of the May Festival are requested to meet at the Baptist church, at 7:30 to-morrow evening. New and magnificent—Those gold and silver brushes and combs, at Kuhn's, Fifteenth and Douglas. Warranted quadruple plate. 22-61 SPECIAL. We are now prepared to furnish regularly, once or twice a week, the finest special dairy and creamery butter, and will guarantee a first class article at the lowest prices, quality considered. Parties taking regularly can depend on getting the same when great scarcity occurs, in preference to all others. Wm. Fleming & Co. m26m31 Hamburg Figs 25c a box. How can they do it? What! Why make those elegant pants to order for Five ($5.00) bill. L. B. WILLIAMS & SONS. 26-31 PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS. Dr. Geo. Graff left yesterday for Cheyenne. D. G. Hull, of Lincoln, is in the city. W. C. Keith, of North Platte, is in the city. Hon. T. M. Marquette left yesterday for Lincoln. Engineer J. D. Cook has arrived from Toledo. C. H. Dewey has gone to Chicago to attend the republican convention. Bishop Spaulding, of Colorado, who has been attending the Nebraska Episcopal council, left yesterday for Denver. Miss Adelaide Neilson, the distinguished actress, passed through the city yesterday on her way to the coast. W. A. Strong, general passenger agent of the Northwestern railway company, accompanied by his family, went west on the noon train yesterday. Sam Smith, special agent of the postoffice department, and attached to the office of the superintendent of the free delivery, is in the city on a round of inspection. A lubricant for the limbs—St. Jacobs Oil. Jacob Loockman, 724 Clinton street, Buffalo, N. Y., says he has been using Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil for rheumatism. He had such a lame back he could not do anything, but one bottle has, to use his own expression, "cured him up." He thinks it the best thing in the market. MISSING—A case of constipation by using Hamburg Figs.

DECORATION DAY. Preparation for the Coming Exercises—The Procession. To-day, Decoration day, will be generally observed by our citizens. All the details of the procession have been completed, and the display will be imposing and satisfactory. The call for flowers has met with a general response, and the sympathetic hearts and willing hands of the ladies are today engaged in providing for the decking of our dead heroes' tombs. Following is the revised order of procession, in which as last published there were several omissions. Order of Procession. Marshal of the day and aids. VETERAN. Ninth Infantry Band. Detachment of city police, in charge of city marshal. Phil Kearney Post, No. 2, G. A. R. Co. A. Carter Post, No. 7, G. A. R. Co. G. N. G. S. N., Capt. George H. Crager. Co. B, N. G. S. N., Lieut. A. THE LITERARY FIEND. Another Batch of Poetical Effusions from Mr. Schimmerhorn. Some months ago THE BEE introduced to its readers an unique poetical genius whose province seems to be to grind out poetry by the yard. Since that time the efforts of the "literary fiend" have by no means relaxed, and the office has been deluged with his contributions, some of which have found their way into the columns of THE BEE, and more of which have been tearfully deposited in the wastebasket. A couple of weeks since, Mr. Schimmerhorn sent in the following choice effusion, which is characteristic of his genius: SPRING POETRY. BY A. K. SCHIMMERHORN, THE "LITERARY FIEND." I saw an old man turn a crank, Around him small boys formed a ring— Forth came the organ's doleful sound; I knew, indeed, that it was spring. And as spring's heat became intense, I sighed for funds I could not muster; But laid aside my overcoat And bought "on tick" a linen duster. I saw a farmer planting corn To make his stock of winter fodder; I saw him quickly hide his hind The fence—he saw a lightning-rodder. I saw the wild geese wing their flight To Arctic ocean's cooler shores; And then I saw a flock of "ducks" Surround the city milliner stores. I met friend Jones, "Why sad?" said I. He answered low, "A plague upon it, I have to pay ten dollars out To buy my wife a new spring bonnet." I saw the chickens raising flowers, As wicked chickens love to do; I heard a gentle female voice Excitedly say, "Shoo! Shoo! Shoo!" I saw a tramp the road beside, In ragged clothes and battered beaver; I asked him if he wanted work: "No, no," he said, "I have spring fever." I saw a "later bug" walk forth And elevate his bugship's nose; I heard him say in persuasive voice, "The spring; I smell an 'early rose.'" I heard a grocer shrilly say, "True talents lack the very dicker!" The while he took some last year's fowl. And sold them all as fresh spring chickens. I saw a certain basket stand Upon the sanctum's lonely floor; I saw it filled up to the brim—"Spring poetry," and nothing more. A press of matter on our columns and a decent respect for the feelings of our readers compelled us to reject it. A few days later another poem accompanied by a letter enclosing a $2 bill found its way to our sanctum. We published a notice requesting Mr. Schimmerhorn to apply at the counter for both, but met with a flat refusal—the following poem. EDITORIAL TRIALS. The editor his scissors gripped, Then eyed the pile of manuscript. On hard-boiled eggs he lately dined— Unquiet stomach, gloomy mind. An article on "Peace and War," By some unknown contributor, He scanned with such ferocious haste It landed in his pot of paste. Some writer's "Views on Education" Were quick consigned to degradation, And to the wasted paper pile Followed by "A Pirate's Trial." A romance full of bloody plots, Its pages stained by stinky holes, The editor, with emile grotesque, Unread, cast down beneath his desk. With care, like avalanche on Alp, The editor then clutched his scalp— He could not clutch his hair, for why? He had a limited supply. The stalwart typhoid gathered round, Attracted by the awful sound; They dobed cold water in his face, Then asked him what had taken place. He heaved a sigh, then wildly said, While yet he held his aching head, "It is the most onerous of Simeon's Regulator. I would not take one million dollars for my interest in that medicine." W. H. WITKOR, "Walborn, Florida." We offer a first-class white laundried shirt, with an improved reinforced front, made of Wamsutta muslin, 3-ply bosom and cuffs, of 2800 lines, at the reduced price of $1.50. ON THE SEARCH. The Treasures of a Junk Shop—Where Were They Obtained? "You often run across curious sights when armed with a search warrant," said an officer of the city police force to THE BEE reporter, late last evening. There's no judging of what a shop contains by its outside or inside appearance. The dirtier and meaner it looks the more likelihood it contains valuable stores away in dark corners out of sight. The occasion of this remark was a search just completed by two officers of the police force under a general search warrant from Police Judge Haves, had been making a tour of investigations among the pawnbrokers, second hand and junk dealers of the Third ward, in search of some of the missing articles stolen from Braash's store on Tuesday last. The search, which was very rigid, failed, however, to discover the stolen articles, but revealed a number of others which bore a very suspicious appearance. In one establishment on Douglas street, the proprietor of which bears a rather unenviable reputation at headquarters, a curious discovery was made. After investigating the store and its contents the officers spied a little trunk, which both the man and his wife refused to open. Upon being forced to do so by the officers, a large bundle, done up in rags, was found unwrapped, revealing a dazzling spectacle of gold and precious stones. Thirteen elegant rings, set with diamonds, rubies and emeralds were displayed to the eyes of the police. Lockets of costly workmanship, bracelets, watch chains and guards, scarf pins of elegant design and sleeve buttons and studs of gold set with precious stones lay spread in great profusion. The pawnbroker and his wife were full of explanations as to the rightful ownership of the property, but none of the articles were exposed for sale and some of them had initials and marks of prior ownership engraved upon them. The officers had no good grounds for taking possession of them and finding nothing for which they were searching, on the premises, left empty handed.
