

TO CORRESPONDENTS.
Our Correspondents will be pleased to hear from, on all matters connected with the election, and on any subject whatever, of general interest to the people of this State. Any information connected with the election, and relating to the candidates, will be gladly received. All such communications, however, must be as brief as possible, and they must in all cases be written on one side of the sheet only.

political matters which only end in political advancement, and whose only object is that of puppets, ready to be manipulated in accordance with their desires. They forget that one of the great ideas upon which republicanism was founded was perfect liberty of thought and action, untrammelled by expediency or selfish ambition. And they likewise forget that in no instance since the foundation of the great party which they falsely claimed to represent the sentiment has a candidate been forced upon a candidate by bulldozing and bluster contrary to the will of the majority. Senators Conkling, Logan and Cameron have found that manipulating a country primary and state convention is a far easier task than building the national convention.

The Cincinnati Commercial gives the following information regarding the amount of money in the United States:
In 1854 Mr. Guthrie, secretary of the treasury, estimated the coin in the United States at $241,000,000; in 1861 at $241,000,000; at the United States at $271,000,000 to $300,000,000. It is now estimated by the Chamber of Commerce reports of New York that the coin in the United States amounts to $433,000,000, which is largely in excess of any report yet made. As to the national bank notes in circulation, $224,000,000; also the legal-tender notes, $36,000,000; total circulation, $1,104,000,000. The importations of coin from Europe have caused the volume of circulation to be greater and of a better quality than ever had before. We have unexampled abundance of money and low rates of interest.

The New York Herald reports have again taken up the Jew crusade and the hotel managers have refused admission to some of the most prominent Jewish citizens of the metropolis. One of the rejected made rather a witty reply. He said that knowing the circumstances he couldn't perjure of the proprietors hospitality as his religion forbade him associating with hegs.

"He ought to be met at the depot with a stuffed club," said a member of the G. A. R., yesterday. Douglas county soldiers repudiate the blatant blatherer.

SEVEN has usually been considered an unlucky number, but twenty three is strikingly unlucky to Conkling and Cameron, who have each the satisfaction of seeing members of their tied-up delegations, twenty-three strong, bolt.

WILSONVILLE.
The Thriving Young Town on the Banks of the Beaver.

The Pioneers of the Valley.
WILSONVILLE, Pa., May 31.—Men are boys grown older, and cities often retain many characteristics observed in the village germ. Upon this hypothesis the town of Wilsonville is to be congratulated that the class of people originating the place should possess the pluck and energy and exhibit the high moral and intellectual stamp that is the basis of so common remark by all who visit the place. The town was laid out one year ago by L. M. Wilson, and is located forty miles west from Orleans, on a smooth, open flat, contiguous to the Beaver river on the north side.

The Beaver river is one hundred and twenty miles long and has a valley that will average three miles in width at this portion of its course. Very many places are reported as feasible mill and factory sites, and at this place a fall of eleven feet can be secured with sufficient water to turn three sets of burr stones. In the upper part of the valley there are a number of large herds of cattle. In this immediate vicinity there are very few cattle, but four thousand head of sheep may be seen within a half-hour's ride. The shepherds are all doing well and making money. Some flocks suffered a white frost from sea obtained by coming deep, and plaited silk muslin, either plain or embroidered, forms an additional border.

HONEY FOR THE LADIES.
Black straw is fashionable. Pale blue is trimmed with yellow. Two or three materials are used in every costume now.

In fashionable circles in England bouquets are now entirely composed of flowers without leaves. A St. Louis lady had graduated at three o'clock and tried to send a bouquet by telegraph the other day. An exchange says that a lady who writes a newspaper in one of the western states says that "the popularity of the journal is due to the fact that people are always expecting she will say something she ought not to."

Among new importations are delicate gauzes with flower designs in white velvet or satin thread, and a new material, the texture that nothing but the design shows when the gauze is laid over a contrasting color, as is intended in costume.

"A great many fancy dress balls lately," says the Little Bel Review, "the most expensive dresses were those worn by the men, who seem vain enough to seize their (only) opportunity of displaying themselves in the most elaborate and costly costumes."
