It will be remembered that a day or two ago we made mention of a sick and disabled horse which was staked on a lawn on Cass street, being eaten alive by swarms of flies.

Madam Mendon, an accomplished instructor in the French and German languages, and also teacher of music, has arrived in the city with a view of establishing a class in the languages or in music. She teaches the high and pure French and German and will take pupils advanced in music. The student course highly recommended. An advertisement will appear in the Bee in a day or two announcing her location and giving persons an opportunity to place themselves under the instruction of an efficient teacher.

Lake Minnetonka. THE FAMOUS SUMMER RESORT AND FISHING GROUND—THE FIRST EXCURSION TO LEAVE OMAHA JUNE 30.

The unsurpassed pleasure resorts of Minnesota became famous long ago, and amid her unrivalled scenery and on the superb rough water lakes there meet every year people from all parts of the country, and especially from the extreme south and all along the banks of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers.

The Minnesota resorts are becoming every year more and more popular in Nebraska, and a number which has already become very large make it a custom to pass a portion of the summer at the Minnesota lakes.

The first Minnesota excursion of the present season will leave Omaha on June 30, at 3:45 p. m., going over the Sioux City & Pacific and Sioux City & St. Paul lines. The fare for the round trip to St. Paul and return has been fixed at $18.35; tickets good for sixty days. Full particulars of the excursion, with pamphlets descriptive of Minnesota scenery and giving full directions for reaching the resorts, all of which are but a short ride from St. Paul, can be obtained by addressing Maj. PROF. CRAWFORD.

The Charges Made Against Him, and His Statement.

Opinion of Various Parties Upon the Matter.

The meeting of the school board on Saturday evening and the action of that meeting were given to the readers of THE BEE Monday morning. The Herald and Republican of yesterday contained articles, editorial and local, making additional charges of incompetency, etc., against Prof. Crawford, and to some extent against Prof. Beals also.

A reporter called upon the above named gentlemen and others yesterday morning, and interviewed them upon this subject.

Prof. Crawford, upon being questioned concerning the statement in THE BEE, that he had not passed his examination at the time that he took charge of the school, replied that the assertion was wholly false; that he had the certificate of the examining committee, which was only given after a most thorough examination upon all the branches of study taught in the High School.

With regard to the charge that he made out all the examination questions for the High School proper, marked the average on the papers submitted, and had entire control of the promotion, he stated that all teachers in the city, himself included, made out a set of questions for their classes, which were submitted to Superintendent Beals, who made additions, alterations, or erasures, as suited his judgment, and that the whole matter of promotions was likewise subject to his approval.

"One of the papers," said he, "complains of the need of a larger force of teachers in the High School. This is the very necessity that I have been trying to convince the board of ever since I have had charge of the school. People generally overlook the fact that I have all the scholars in the central school, some 800 in number, under my charge, in addition to the High School proper."

Reporter—How about the charge that one of the classes graduated from the school without ever having studied natural philosophy?

Prof. Crawford—That was the class of '79. The year that they should have taken that study was the second year of the course, and the year before I assumed charge of the school. No record was made of the neglect, and I was not aware of it until too late to remedy the omission.

Reporter—What about this ticket matter?

Prof. Crawford—The board of education have asked me for an explanation of the matter, which I will give them at the meeting this week.

Reporter—It is asserted that training in composition is neglected, and that the pupils are not required to write more than two compositions a year.

Mr. Crawford—That is also false. (In proof of this statement he produced a list of the essays required of the various classes, during the year, which were arranged in systematic order, and embraced a different subject each month.) In addition to this, said he, the first year class take composition as a special study, in connection with rhetoric, and the second and third year embrace a course in English literature, during which time essays are constantly required upon the various authors and their times. For instance, last year they wrote essays upon such subjects as, "The Government and the Puritans," "William Pitt and His Times," "The Early History of Newspapers," "The Life and Times of Cromwell," etc.

With regard to the course of study in the school room, Mr. Crawford said that for a statement of his views on the subject, he could do no better than to refer to a paper published in THE BEE about two months ago, detailing his opinion as to what changes would be beneficial to the school. The article in question favors an arrangement of the system of instruction in the public schools so as to make it available to the masses; in short, a practical, business education.

Prof. Beals, upon being asked what he had to say with regard to the matter, stated that as the attack was not upon him in particular, that he had nothing to say concerning it.

Mr. Howard Kennedy said that he thought the editorial article in THE BEE last evening in relation to the schools an excellent one, and that it coincided with his views on the subject. He thought that the teachers who were rejected at the last meeting were in favor of the best in the city, and was in favor of their election at the next meeting.

He declined to express an opinion with regard to the Crawford trouble, and present, but intimated that he would be heard from on that score in the near future.

Mr. W. J. BROADBENT, ex-member of the board, said that he believed Crawford to be a competent and thoroughly conscientious teacher, and one who is overworked. He had too many subjects to handle to do them all justice. Instead of one assistant he should have two or more.

With regard to the charge in a morning paper of sectarianism influencing the members of the board in their decisions in rejecting a certain teacher, he believed it to be a gross misrepresentation, and further based his opinion upon knowledge of the action of the board in connection with the same case two years ago, when the teacher in question was afterwards re-elected, and he had no doubt she would be in this case.

Other citizens and members of the board were also questioned, but did not wish to express their opinion upon the matter until a later time.

A HASTY HOST.

He Has a Boarder Arrested for an Attempt to Beat a Board Bill.

The Prisoner Released on Technicalities.

John Moan, for the past four months, has been in the employ of the U. P. Transfer company, and for about the same length of time, has been boarding at the Linde house, kept by Mr. Linde. Moan, so goes the evidence, has been in the habit of paying his board on the tenth of every month, an understanding to this effect existing between himself and the proprietor. Monday morning he dressed himself in holiday attire, which fact aroused the suspicions of his host, who abruptly asked him if he intended running off without paying his bill, which amounted to some sixteen dollars, about ten dollars of which was due for board and the balance for debts contracted at the bar of the house. Moan denied that such was his intention, but on the contrary he would settle his bill on the 10th of July, prior to which date, he represented, he would be unable to draw his pay. Linde then asked Moan if he would give him an order on the company, which was consented to after much controversy, if the proprietor would deduct four dollars from the bill. An order for twelve dollars, payable July 10th, was drawn up and signed by Moan. Later in the day Linde went to the office of the transfer company at the Bluffs, but there, to his chagrin, learned that his tenant boarder had drawn his pay an hour before and had returned to Omaha.

Back to Omaha the hotel man likewise retraced his steps, where subsequently he encountered his troublesome guest. A conversation ensued between the two, in which Moan did some first-class wrestling with the truth. Linde pretended to be ignorant of the fact that Moan had drawn his pay, and the young man allowed the bait and continued to plead his inability to get any money before the 10th of July and assured his persistent caterer of his intentions to settle as soon as possible, and promising that he had succeeded in this guile. Mr. Linde was lingered about the city, carefully shadowed by a policeman, until evening, when he was arrested on a warrant issued by Judge Hawes. Yesterday the case came up before the police court. Moan had secured the services of Attorney O'Brien.

After a hearing, in which the facts given above were developed, the prisoner was discharged, on the grounds that cases where credit is given and definitely understood, do not come under the law for the protection of hotel keepers.

PRISONERS' PREVEND'ER.

An Alfresco Breakfast at the City Jail.

Stirring the Coffee With a Hoehandle.

Nine o'clock is the usual hour of breakfast at the city jail. A reporter of THE BEE was a witness of the serving of the repeat yesterday. The banquet was carried on the depths of a neighboring kitchen by a man and woman, presumably the caterer, and deposited upon the stone steps which lead into the jail. As a particular favor to the officer who has charge of the street gang, the coffee was carried back and sweetened.

Following is a copy of the bill of fare: Beef, a la Maitre, cut on the square. Bread, a la family, cut and buttered. Slapjacks, heavy for the size. Coffee, a la bran (sugared by request.)

The quality of the food probably compares favorably with that given to prisoners in most city jails, but the manner in which it is handled and served would lead one to believe that the inmates were animals, and not men and women.

The only eating utensils furnished are some half dozen tin cups. There are no plates, spoons, knives or forks, indeed, no attempt whatever is made to serve the food. The men are all run into one large cell, into which is thrust the several large pans containing the food and a large pot of coffee; the door is shut upon them, and our reporter was informed that it is a matter of strength and cunning as to who shall have first choice and the lion's share. Boys who are unfortunate enough to find themselves in jail frequently go hungry, being unable to cope, in the fight for food, with their stronger companions in confinement. An incident which occurred this morning will illustrate the general manner in which the food is manipulated. The pot of coffee before being given to the prisoners was set on the floor. A discharged prisoner, who still lovingly lingers about the place, hinted that the coffee would be none the worse for a little stirring. An officer standing by ordered him to stir it. Seeing no spoon about, he asked what he should stir it with. He was handed a hoe and told to use the handle, which he proceeded to do with a will.

It would be well if the officials having charge of the department in charge would remember that before trial the men in their charge are presumed to be innocent, and as men and citizens deserve to be treated as such.

He who lent thee had recalled thee Back with Him and his to dwell. Two short years thine silver haire Only 'er thy brow had shed, When thy spirit joined the angels And thy dust the dead.

As we gazed upon thee sleeping, With thy fine, fair locks outspread, Thou didst seem a little angel, Who from heaven to earth had strayed; And, entranced, we watched the vision, Half in hope and half in fright, Lest what we deemed ours and earthly Should dissolve in light.

We are weeped, we are weary; For us pray and for us plead, God, who ever hears the prayer, May through Christ's mediation, All our faults may be forgiven. Plead that ye be sent to greet us At the gates of heaven. J. S. R.

ON TO OMAHA.

The Gap Between Oakland and Covington Being Closed.

Other Movements of the Omaha, St. Paul & Chicago Company.

The Sioux City Journal states that Superintendent O. D. Brown, of the Nebraska line of the C. St. P. & O. road is back from a look at the work on that side of the river. Mr. Brown saw the surveyors of the Union Pacific on his way out locating a line on the south Logan towards this city. On his way back on Friday he heard that they were at work on the Elk creek, and still coming Sioux Cityward. Mr. Brown reported everything going on well on the grade of the Omaha line. Such of the contractors as have gone over to work on the Norfolk grade. On his way to this city Mr. Brown met fully fifty teams going over to the grade. The widening of the gauge and the laying of the track with heavy iron, reached the junction near Jackson yesterday. As iron comes and the grade is finished, the track laying will proceed on the Omaha line, and the further work toward Ponca will not be pushed. The bridges on the Ponca line are all finished, and the cut at the summit is now down to grade, and will be widened by a dirt train hereafter.

Charles Willard, of Blair, has been appointed train dispatcher of the Nebraska division of the St. Paul road, with headquarters at Omaha. In this connection the Blair Times of the 24th says: "The company contemplate an early date to put up a telegraph line over the road, and Mr. Willard being an operator and an old railroad man, the company thought him the best man for the place. He has been a railroad agent in this place ever since the town was first started, for a number of years being in the employ of the Sioux City road, and for the past five years has represented the Omaha & Northwestern road at this place. The place vacated at Blair by Mr. Willard was tendered to R. C. Hassan, an employe of the Sioux City & Pacific, and accepted by him.

JOHN PACIFIC BRANCH. J. J. Brown, of Council Bluffs, is reported by a number of graders who have been waiting at Norfolk to begin work, to have a contract of forty miles of grading from the present end of the Union Pacific branch track toward Sioux City. The entire distance from Norfolk to Sioux City is a little more than sixty miles. J. J. Brown also has a grading contract on the extension of the Sioux City & Pacific from Pierce to Plainview and it is on this that he is working. From the best information obtainable it seems that most of the permanent work on the Union Pacific north-west of Norfolk have yet been cross-sectioned and if so this accounts for no grading having been done.
