Now before the history of the country before the shipments of grain from the interior to the east by the water route borne any comparison with those of this season. The fact that the receipts at Buffalo for the month of June were in excess of the receipts for the opening of navigation to June 30th of last year is striking proof of the magnitude of this year's grain movement by the water route.

and groomman. The bride was arrayed in the most beautiful and costly dress, made in princess style, with lace at the throat and orange buds in the hair. Professor Fay presided in front of the couple and proceeded to repeat the customary marriage formula, using the sign language alone. After the usual questions, first to the man and then to the woman, he pronounced them man and wife, following with a brief and fatherly address and with prayer.

The couple, followed by their friends, were seated at a table. The bride and groom were seated at the head of the table, and the bridesmaids and groomsmen were seated on either side. The reception was held in the evening, and the bride and groom were the center of attention.

The town of DeSoto, Iowa, was thrown into a fever of excitement a few days since by the knowledge that a white girl named Miss Mary Dillon, respectable, intelligent and possessing, had married Eliza Hutchinson, the negro barber of that place. Mr. Hutchinson is a native of DeSoto, and has been married to Miss Dillon, Winter, and took the young lady to a country justice in Madison county, where they were quietly married, and no one about DeSoto knew of the fact, several days afterwards.

An Emmetsburg romance is thus epitomized by the Pilot on the 18th: "That marriage which was to have taken place at the residence of Mrs. Dillon, was postponed indefinitely. The marriage was on hand to perform the functions, and the bride was more than well pleased at her prospect of future conjugal felicity. Her sisters were overjoyed, but she wouldn't be groom, oh, where was he? Go - his parents, to whose prodding he had yielded, he had fled. But his flight has been on a v. cant. The tresspasser has been laid aside; the jessamine and the lily are now only mementoes of an amaranthine faith that even a girl not alter. But bowie knives, tomahawks, bullets, blood and scalp are talked of by some members of the family.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. and Alexander Taylor, of Cardano, Pa., whose fortunes were damaged by the insurrection. In her younger days she was a leading belle, and in speaking of her appearance, she said that she was a very beautiful girl. She was taken to get the wedding a secret until the very last moment, and the wedding notices were not printed in the New York newspapers until this morning after the pair were well on their way to the altar. Mr. Farley has some white blood in her veins, but Pat loves her none the less on that account. He says that his people may object to a choice, but that he is happy their objections will be wasted on him. The bride is spoken of as a very intelligent and rather pretty young lady.
