BASTARD REPUBLICANISM.

You may label a bottle of vinegar, "champagne," but it still remains vinegar. You may label a cow, a horse, but it still remains a cow. When a paper is labeled Republican, it doesn't necessarily represent republican principles. The principal Union Pacific organ of this city wears the label of the republican party, but its main spring is the Union Pacific monopoly. A striking illustration of the bastard republicanism of that sheet will be found in its last issue. The most active republicans in this county have enrolled themselves under the national standard bearer as the Douglas County Garfield and Arthur club. That club, through its president, Hon. J. L. Webster, has called a public meeting in the interest of Garfield and Arthur, at the Academy of Music in this city, for Thursday evening. Among the speakers invited by President Webster, was Senator Saunders and his name was among others published by the Republican in its call for the meeting. In the very paper that contains the call, an unwarranted, scurrilous and puerile assault is made on Senator Saunders in a column of billingsgate, and the speech which he is to make on the invitation of the Garfield club is ridiculed, and the senator's manner of delivering that speech is caricatured in advance. This is not only a shameful abuse of a public man without any cause whatever, but it is directly an insult to the Garfield and Arthur club, upon whose invitation Senator Saunders is to make his speech, for the party. We do not claim that Senator Saunders is a great orator nor do we make any such claims for himself. He may not even be as great a master of the Queen's English as that eminent statesman, Theron Nye, of Fremont, the paternal ancestor of the juvenile swab-buckler of the Republican, but we take it that if he is good enough to be invited by the president of the club, no respectable republican would abuse and vilify him for accepting an invitation. It is only such bastard republican concern as the Union Pacific is publishing in this town, that would backbite and caricature a republican before he has delivered his speech. In any other section of the country such a sheet would be disowned as a party journal.

NO INDUCEMENTS. In a conversation some days since with a prominent officer of the Catholic colonization society, the writer inquired why no efforts were made to locate colonies in the southern states as well as the western. "The southern people," answered the gentleman, "offer no inducements. They are lazy, unenterprising and intolerant, and we shouldn't like our people, for their own good, to be placed among them." That one sentence of Mr. Omaha expresses the whole subject of the slow growth of the south, in a nutshell. The southern people are "lazy, unenterprising and intolerant," and have been so for seven years since the war has closed. And the condition of the south is little better than it was in 1865. Other states infinitely smaller in population, than have grown with surprising rapidity. Why? They have encouraged immigration, fostered education and free speech, and laid the foundation of their prosperity on the cornerstone of the dignity of labor. The south has ostracized northern men who have dared to express their opinions, frightened immigration from its borders and lashed whined over the loss of slave labor, while its fields remain uncultivated and unimproved. They have offered no inducements to immigration, no inducements to capital and no inducements to free speech and liberty of action.

Who could answer all the lies, coined by the strikers and lackies of the Union Pacific, about the primary reform in this county? No sooner is one nailed than a dozen others are put forward. For instance, the Republican says that the instructions given to registrars in the country read as follows: "It is desirable to know that they are republicans and will vote for Garfield, but not essential." Now, the instructions to registrars in the country precincts are printed, and read as follows: "Every republican citizen of the county who shall be eligible to vote at the next election shall be entitled to registration. Registrars in the country precincts shall, when practicable, require each republican voter to sign the pledge that he will support Garfield and Arthur. Whenever any person known to be a republican declines to sign such pledge they shall register his name, but if any person not known to be a republican declines to sign such pledge, his name shall not be registered. Registrars in country precincts are not required to fill out the columns on the register describing the age of the person or length of residence, but it is desirable that such information be procured when practicable. Men enlisted in the regular army shall in no case be registered. No any person who has not heretofore voted the republican ticket. Parties who are about to cast their first vote may be registered on signing the pledge."

THE WORKINGMEN'S CANDIDATE. A curious freak of the spring winds was found occasionally in the streets of Omaha. Much seed was blown up for fear the wind had scattered the seed too much. I saw two fields of wheat and barley that were not plowed in the spring, but were planted in the fall, and dragged over, then planted in the spring, and the wheat and barley appeared and actually crowded out the corn and was harvested making a good yield. FARM IMPLEMENTS. A serious drawback to the farmer, and therefore to the country, is the large amount expended in the beautiful and almost perfect agricultural implements that food the country. Much seed is expended in the purchase of such implements. Manufactured usually by wealthy capitalists in the eastern states they are finished up in Omaha, and can be sold on convenient credit to reliable men, or in fact any who have land and teams and give an iron-clad note which is equivalent to a mortgage. No finer implements are found in any country than are offered to the farmers of Nebraska and the temptation comes in this shape. You can put in just as much crop as you have implements to do it with; your returns are sure, and we will give you time to pay. No debt is created, and no crop disappointment is to be feared. It has been put in

A WORD WITHOUT FARMERS.

Nebraska is an agricultural state. It is to your interest that the product you raise be carried to market at reasonable rates. It is not only your interest but your duty to prevent discrimination and extortion by railway monopolies. When these corporations confiscate your property and deprive you of your earnings by arbitrary transportation tolls, you are in self defense bound to resist such oppression. The only means you have to check and resist monopoly power is by exercising your privilege to appoint reliable agents to make laws that will protect you. Nebraska is a republic; a nomination in our state convention is equivalent to an election. These nominations will be made on the first of September, and it behooves our republican farmers to see to it that they are represented by delegates who will not sell out to monopoly. In nearly all the counties the nominations for the legislature will be made by the conventions which elect delegates to the state convention. Now, the legislature made by the farmers of Nebraska would be as good as dead if it were not for the protection of the producers of this state against monopoly oppression and by passing laws that exempt several million dollars of railroad property from taxation. The deliberate resistance made by the Union Pacific railroad managers to the regulations adopted by the republican county central committee of Douglas county for the prevention of double voting, ballot-box stuffing and wholesale fraud at the primaries, is an effort to foil upon the party a delegation of mere tools, lackeys and cappers of the great monopoly. And yet there are farmers in Douglas county so stupid as to allow themselves to be hoodwinked and humbugged by misrepresentations of the monopoly interests. We understand that some farmers in the western part of this county have actually signed a protest against this reform which is being industriously circulated by U. P. cappers, who tell the most absurd stories about the intentions of the committee. Does any intelligent farmer imagine that the Union Pacific would oppose this measure if it were in its own interest. Why all this clamor and howl about Rosewater's dictatorship, when in reality the people are menaced with the dictatorship of Jay Gould. Rosewater is powerless to do the people serious injury, for his success and that of his paper depends on popular favor, whereas Jay Gould can crush the life out of our industrial producers by simply ordering a raise on freight just when the harvest is over. If, as his enemies pretend, Rosewater is only working for a bid which haven't thought him out long ago and saved the thousands of dollars they have squandered every year in resisting the efforts of The Bee against monopoly misrule.

There is only a plain duty for every honest farmer in the coming contest and that is to take an active part in the primary elections. We should all be united in our opposition to the efforts of Jay Gould more than to those of any other man. He made a suborn fight against it, and at the critical moment delivered one of the most splendid speeches in the history of Nebraska. The subject of revenue law. In closing his remarks he made the following eloquent appeal for the working classes: "Let it be remembered that 22 per cent. of all the laboring people of this country are artisans engaged in manufactures. Their culture has been fostered by their parents, and their parents and the skill which they have developed that produced the glory of our continental exhibition. To them the country owes the splendor of the exposition of 1876. They are the backbone of the nation, and it is their duty to see that they are not oppressed. If this bill becomes law it will drive them from their occupations and throw into the keenest distress the brightest and best elements of our population." During his entire term in congress Garfield has manifested a strong sympathy for those who have to earn their bread by the sweat of their brow. This such is the case is well known. It is not strange, therefore, that the working classes, particularly the artisans and employes of manufacturing establishments, are evincing unusual interest in his election. They readily see that the choice this year is between a man of the people and a favored son of fortune who has been in the military service ever since he was introduced into the world, whose only boon companions are the rich and affluent of the New York and Philadelphia clubs.
