Gov ernor Nance's nomination was con coded from the outset, and was o the whole well deserved. Lieutenant Governor Carnes met with strong on position, and carried his point with difficulty. Mr. Collins, of Pawnee, developed much strength, and was given the hono able, though perfunctionary position, of presidential elector. The untenable position taken by Auditor Leidtke on the quartion of insurance fees of course blocked his renomination. The opponents of the monopoly programme mustered a creditable showing, but were without leaders and without organization. They consequently failed to make the impression which their constituency deserved. The combination of the railroad interests throughout the state was very apparent and indicated very plainly that the hope of the people is in the nomination and election of candidates to the legislature who cannot be bought with bribes or influenced

In some instances the aid was voted by republican legislatures, in others demo cratic, but in almos, every case the aid was asked for by democrats voted for by such democrats as were in the legislature, and was given to democratic railroad mansgers and officers. The case of North Carolina's repudiation deserves special notice, and the republican congressional committee make it the subject of analysis pils

From this it appears that in Janua ry, 1879, the debt of the state was $45,905,000. Of this amount $11, 356,000 was in railroad bonds which, in every instance, were asked for by democrats, and issued to democratic which 'recognized' only $4,693,000 of Hills is a house furnishing concern
