GIANTS AT WAR

Rival Railroads Racing Through Nebraska for the Black Hills.

The Burlington Battles With the Wabash.

Views Along the Skirmish Line.

The Chicago Tribune thinks that the schemes of the Burlington road to extend its line to Toledo and of the Hannibal and St. Joe to run into Chicago, will neither of them be carried out, and says: The building of the fine steel bridge across the Missouri at Plattsmouth by the Burlington will more than anything else yet mentioned have the effect of checking Gould in his machinations against this road. This bridge enables the Burlington not only to make direct connections with its Nebraska division, which needs but little stretching to reach Denver, but it is enabled to run into Omaha via Plattsmouth without crossing the great Gould's monopolies, the Omaha bridge. The Burlington thus becomes independent of Gould on Omaha business, and will save the heavy toll charged by the Union Pacific bridge. The prospects therefore are that none of these proposed extensions will be built, and that the Gould and Boston syndicates will finally join hands in the control of the western business.

IMPORTANT FOR NEBRASKA.

General Manager Merrill was at Niobrara all day Friday last, looking up the route with a view of extending the Niobrara branch of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad. Superintendent Sanborn, Engineer Morse, and H. M. Wilcox, of Niobrara, who has been appointed right-of-way agent, accompanied him, and on Saturday the engineer and party started out to O'Neill City by way of the north branch of the Yellowstone. They returned to Niobrara Sunday, and report that a railroad can be pushed to O'Neill City in sixty days if necessary. Gen. Merrill says that they are going to extend immediately, but want the right away before much is said.

The Sioux City Journal says: This proposed extension of the Milwaukee road from Niobrara to O'Neill City will naturally cause the Sioux City and Pacific road to extend from Neligh to O'Neill City. The latter company has already surveyed the line between the two points, a distance of forty-three miles, and grading on the line surveyed was expected to be ordered early this month. The Sioux City and Pacific folk think they have the lead in the race for the cattle country and the U. P. has after distancing the Union Pacific. Last fall will not quietly allow the Milwaukee to swing in ahead of their line. A bit of a railroad war may be expected.

A RAILROAD FIGHT.

"It is understood that at a late meeting of the directors of the Burlington at Boston, Vice President Perkins and General Manager Potter were authorized to build a mile of road into Wabash territory by every mile built by the Wabash into Burlington territory. The principal trouble between the Wabash and Burlington arises from the aggressiveness of the former in Iowa by continually pushing forward into territory already more than sufficient covered by the Burlington. The last straw which broke the camel's back was the gobbling up of the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska by the Wabash and its determination to extend it through Iowa. For the present, however, the Wabash will not be able to extend its line. Judge Burton, of Iowa, has just issued an injunction against the Missouri, Iowa and Nebraska, prohibiting this company from issuing more bonds, which prevents the Wabash from extending the line at present beyond Hustedon. It is hardly probable that the Wabash will force matters to extremes, for if an open with the Burlington should result it would certainly suffer the most, although it is backed by Gould, as the Burlington is in a far better financial condition than its adversary, and can stand a fight much the longest."

IRON BRIDGES.

For some time past the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway company has been engaged in replacing its wooden bridges with handsome and substantial iron structures. The improvement extends all along the line. Many of the new iron bridges are finished, and nearly all the wooden structures have been replaced before winter has fairly set in. When all completed, the Rock Island will present to the traveling public a road bed which for smoothness and safety will be unsurpassed.

ST. PAUL & OMAHA.

The following news notes of the new line from this city northward, are from The Sioux City Journal of yesterday.

Track laying on the Oakland end of the Omaha line was delayed at first by a lack of men, but was going on well when last heard from. On the north end the track when last heard from was nearly at Hubbard. With the crossing of additional flat cars the work will go on more rapidly.

Gen. Bishop, general manager of the St. Paul line, arrived from St. Paul last evening. He expects one of the transfer boats to arrive at this city from Plattsmouth within a few days, now that the bridge over the Missouri at that point is finished.

The bridge building on the Omaha line goes on in good form now, and there is not much likelihood of a delay from the bridge.

Several of the contractors on the Norfolk line have already finished their jobs, and more are to be finished this week. The whole grading will be finished sometime next week.

John Brannan has finished his contract on the Norfolk line, and his teams arrived in this city yesterday. To-day they will begin grading on a side track for the transfer track of the St. Paul, near the river.

A COLORED CONCLAVE.

Proceedings of the Recent State Convention at Eureka Kas. I.

The state convention of colored men, which assembled in this city Tuesday, closed its labors Wednesday.

The organization comprised: President—Rev. C. M. Brown, of Lancaster.

Vice Presidents—J. Gordon, Otter; J. Smith, Washington; John Lewis, Douglas; L. W. Washington, Merriam.

Secretaries—Frank Bellamy and B. Fulton, of Douglas.

E. R. Overall offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Whereas, Nebraska being the first state of the American Union admitted upon the condition that unlimited suffrage be granted colored Americans; and

Whereas, Alvin Saunders, being at that time the chief executive of the territory, used all his official influence to have said territory admitted upon that condition, thus showing his love for justice and all men; therefore be it resolved, That a committee of two be appointed to wait on Senator Saunders and invite him to address this convention at 8:30 this evening; and be it further

Resolved, That this convention tender its heartfelt thanks to the Hon. ex-Senator F. W. Hitchcock for his noble and strenuous efforts to secure the seating of P. W. B. Pinchback, of Louisiana, in the U. S. senate; proving that his party lay not in words alone, but in deeds as well.

A committee waited upon Senator Saunders, but found that he had gone to Lincoln.

The committee on resolutions reported a series, which was adopted, urging measures to preserve the freedom of the ballot in the south, and to encourage immigration in the state of Nebraska.

The committee on address reported a memorial which set forth the advantages of the immigration of colored people into the new states and territories; the idea that the colored man with the republican party, not because they fear the bound, but because they regard it as the party to progress; also that it is incumbent on both parties to remove the belief that elections in the south are carried by violence and fraud.

O. P. vs. B. & M.

The second match game of base ball between the nines of the B. & M. railroad and the Union Pacific, comes off on Saturday afternoon on the grounds in Lake's addition. The occasion will be of great interest as the contesting teams have proved themselves by long odds the best in the city. Their last match was one of the finest games of ball ever played in the city, and the U. P. boys only wrested victory from their opponents in the eleventh inning by a score of 7 to 6. Both teams have since then been in constant practice and will undoubtedly excel their former efforts at Saturday. We understand that the U. P. boys have added the prize of a pitcher, Frawley, to their list of winners, and his services were secured for the Council Bluffs last year. He is said to have an effective delivery. Mr. Frawley has been convulsively found a place in one of the numerous departments of the Union Pacific, and so, of course, has a perfect right to play with the team. It is hoped that a large audience will witness the battle between the rival railroads.

A PRIZE BABY SHOW.

BOOKING FOR BURNHAM.

A Red-Hot Contest for the Nomination of District Attorney.

Douglas County Votes Sixty-Eight Times Solid for Burnham.

The convention of delegates from the counties composing the Third Judicial District, assembled in the parlors of the Commercial hotel in Lincoln at 7 o'clock Wednesday, Jesse Davis of Blair being chosen secretary and A. M. Chawick of Omaha secretary.

The counties represented were Douglas, Washington, Burt and Sarpy. Douglas county put in nomination for district attorney, Hon. N. J. Burnham of this city. His nomination was made by Mr. J. T. Griffin in a neat speech and seconded by Judge Thurston.

Washington and Burt nominated Watson Parrish, Esq., and Sarpy county presented the name of Mr. A. M. Robbins.

At 8:30 the balloting began and revealed the strength of the respective candidates to be as follows: N. J. Burnham 17 votes, Parrish 14, Robbins 4, necessary to elect, 18.

Forty four ballots were taken without changing this result, Douglas county's vote being cast by Judge Thurston steadily for her candidate. At this point Thurston, who had missed his supper, ordered in a plate of bread and cheese with something to wash it down, and then complacently cast the forty fifth ballot the same as before. He then left to attend to the more pressing demands of the state convention, and Hon. Joseph Neville cast the county's vote.

Balloting continued until late in the night, 63 votes being taken. The convention then adjourned to meet at the court house at Omaha, Thursday evening, Sept. 24, at 7 o'clock, no change taking place in the previous vote.

The convention was one of the most remarkable ever held in Nebraska for the firmness with which Douglas and the other counties stood by their man, and the voting for Mr. Burnham was creditable alike to our delegates and their candidate. The unanimity with which they held together and stayed by their man was, in view of the strong outside pressure brought to bear upon them, remarkable.

LAST EVENING'S SESSION.

The second day's session of the Third judicial district convention assembled at the court house in this city last evening, and was called to order by the chairman, Hon. Jesse T. Davis.

Roll call showed a quorum present. Mr. R. M. Hopewell, of Burt, moved that when a full delegation was not present from any of the counties, the delegates present be allowed to cast the full vote of their respective counties. Carried.

On motion of James Neville, the convention proceeded to ballot for candidates for the office of district attorney.

The 69th, 70th and 71st ballots resulted as follows: Burnham 17, Parrish 14, Robbins 4.

A ten minutes recess was taken to allow the Douglas county delegation to consult, and at the end of that time the convention reassembled and cast the 72d, 73d and 74th ballots without any change whatever in the result.

Mr. Robbins, the candidate from Sarpy county, at this juncture withdrew his name with a few well timed words.

He was followed by Messrs. Frank Bliton, C. J. Green, M. R. Hopewell, W. Parrish and others, who engaged in a lively controversy as to the rights and wrongs of their respective counties.

The 75th ballot resulted as follows: N. J. Burnham 19, W. Parrish, 16, the vote of Sarpy county being equally divided between the two candidates, thus nominating Mr. Burnham.

Mr. Phillips, of Washington, moved that the convention proceed to select the judicial district central committee, which motion prevailed.

The following were added to the committee: Douglas county, W. I. Baker; Burt, M. R. Hopewell; Washington, Jesse T. Davis; Sarpy, A. R. Kennedy.

On motion the convention adjourned sine die.

LOOK! SEE!! READ!!!

A book every one must and will read. History of life at the south since the late war; just enough romance to make the book intensely interesting. The statesman may gather lessons of wisdom from its pages. The author is a rival of Dickens, an equal of Thackeray, and yet imitates neither. Taken all in all no American novel, since the days of Uncle Tom, has possessed half its graphic power. All intelligent people should read the book. The book will be furnished only by our authorized agents.

THE COMING OOPS.

The Annual National Police Convention to Meet in Omaha in May Next.

It will be seen from the following telegram, received by Mayor Chase Thursday, that Marshal Westerdahl has not been idle during his trip east.

The assembling of the delegates to the National Police convention is an occasion of considerable importance, and will not only bring a large crowd to Omaha, but raise it to considerable prominence throughout the country as a place progressive in the department for the prevention of crime as it already is prominent in other respects.

Before Marshal Westerdahl went east he expressed his determination to make this point if possible and he has been as good as his word.

The following is the message: SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1880. CLAMPSON S. CROSE, Mayor, Omaha.

The next National Police Convention of the United States will be held at Omaha, second Wednesday of May, 1881. O. J. WESTERDAHL.

POLICE COURT.

W. L. Wallace, the Twelfth street saloon keeper, was before his honor, acting Judge Benecke, yesterday by reason of having inebriated too much "liquid corn" and shooting off too much "hot air" and his revolver contrary to the peace and dignity of the people of the state of Nebraska. He was assessed $5 and costs which he paid.

Bell, the blacksmith, and a man with the peculiar cognomen of Jones were arraigned charged with drunkenness. They pled guilty and were fined in the sum of $3 and costs each. Bell paid but Jones, not possessing the necessary "lucre" languishes in druncheon.

J. C. Ringold and S. Wassard were "out for fun" last night and got tangled up with too much of "the same," and in consequence contributed $3 apiece to the school fund.

Several complaints were made against parties who have not been arrested.
