THE REBELS RUN.

Ayoub's Army Vigorously Pursued by the British Cavalry.

Shattered and Demoralized, the Afghans Take to the Mountains.

Special Dispatch to The Bee. LONDON, September 5, 10 p. m.—Col. St. John telegraphs from Candahar that the second cavalry under Gen. Gough, who is now in the city, has about twenty miles out of the city, when the latter was marching, killed three hundred fugitives from Ayoub's army, and that the British cavalry under Gen. Muthair killed one hundred more. The Kikari Kabul infantry, which seems to have fled without taking any part in the engagement, has retired up the Orghand Valley, in the direction of Kabul. These men were among the leading malcontents in Ayoub's army, and it is supposed they were glad of a chance to break away and go home. The British made straight for the Helmand river. A vigorous pursuit is being kept up and the result will undoubtedly be the thorough demoralization and eastward flight of the Afghans, so that a reorganization, at least this season, will not be possible.

Col. Shellwell has died of wounds received at the battle of Ferozabad. MacLaine was made prisoner. Special Dispatch to The Bee. LONDON, September 5—10 p. m.—It appears by the last dispatches that General Roberts' commenced his attack on the Afghans at Ferozabad on Wednesday at Babawal Katal village, 200 yards from the English positions, and was gallantly repulsed by the Highlanders and the second Ghorkas, covered by artillery, with no serious gun battery. Ten brigades advanced to the aid of the British, and were repulsed, where the Afghans were in force, but the enemy could not retreat the British advance. Shortly after the British camp became untenable, and the British were obliged to withdraw to the British camp, and the British were obliged to withdraw to the British camp, and the British were obliged to withdraw to the British camp.

A SIGNAL BOUNCE.

Lieut. Howgate Laid Low by the War Department.

Mrs. Myers Would-be Successor Suspended, Pending Court-Martial.

Special Dispatch to The Bee. WASHINGTON, September 5.—Owing to numerous complaints filed at the war department of certain alleged specimens of Lieut. Howgate, which have been inspected and disapproved of, a general order on the subject was issued, by which, in the direction of the secretary of war, that First Lieut. A. W. Greedy, fifth cavalry, is appointed to act as inspector of such unserviceable quartermaster's property and ordnance stores as may be properly presented to him for inspection, and for which First Lieut. H. W. Howgate, twentieth infantry, acting signal officer, is responsible. It has also been decided to transfer Lieut. Howgate to the regular army, and to be very large. It is also intimated that the late General Meyer, late chief signal officer, was most mortified before his death to ascertain that Howgate had been using the name of the corps to collect money from commercial organizations throughout the country for his polar expeditions. How much was collected and the use made of the funds, except in the purchase of the ship, which was unfavorable reported upon, but has since started for the Arctic region, is not known. It is also reported that the course of Lieut. Howgate, Gen. Meyer bitterly opposed the scheme, and to him was largely due the withholding of the government's co-operation.

NO CHARGES AGAINST HOWGATE.

WASHINGTON, September 6—1 a. m.—The statement that Capt. Howgate had been suspended and charges preferred against him is entirely untrue. Capt. Howgate has simply been discharged from the duty of property and disbursing officer and assigned to his regular duty in charge of the telegraph and signal stations in the regular army. There are no charges against Capt. Howgate.

YELLOW JACK.

Official advices from Havana state that the American schooner, Emma J. ### Sixty-Eight Persons Reported Lost and Thirteen Saved.

The Fearful Fury of the Hurricane Described by Survivors.

Mountainous Waves Sweep and Riddle the Steamer Ere She Sinks. Heroic Work of Officers and Crew, Most of Whom Perish.

Special Dispatch to The Bee. NEW YORK, September 4—12 m.—The reports published yesterday concerning the "City of Vera Cruz," of the Alexander line, are fully verified by telegrams to-day. Thus far only thirteen of the seventy people who left this port on board the ill-starred ship are accounted for, and details of the terrible hurricane in which the "City of Vera Cruz" went down leave but small hopes of any more being heard from. Only three of the twenty-eight passengers are accounted for, and eight of the crew of fifty are alive. Major General Torbert is among the drowned. None of the women survive. The officers of the ship were most heroic, and

ALL PERISHED AT THEIR POSTS. The names of only two of the survivors are as yet known, James Kelly, formerly of New York, and Mason Talbot, seaman, of England. Those known to be lost are Edward Van Sice, captain; Frank M. Harris, first mate; and many others. The names of the passengers are: T. Torbet, Mr. T. Messer, Miss E. Burks, Miss A. Clark, Miss Sadie Fay, Mrs. J. A. Garcia, Mrs. F. Hernandez, Mrs. M. Welsh, and others.

THE ILL-FATED STEAMER. On Saturday afternoon the steamer encountered a heavy gale which soon increased in fury and on Sunday morning it was found necessary to throw out a drag to help her head about. This secured the desired result, the time being, but the gale had now GROWN TO A HURRICANE, and immense waves began breaking over the doomed ship. Each succeeding wave tore away pieces of her upper works, and the rigging being torn, even the rigging being torn and shattered. The drag ceased to fulfill its functions, and as the seas rose over her bows and the vessel was unable to head into the wind, she was forced to drift.
