As the train came in, the Juniata oand struck up a lively air of welcome to which the Hastings band responded, while Captains Yocum and Cole formed their 250 torch-bearers into line for their march through the streets of the village. It was something of a surprise to the people of Juniata to see fifty Hastinge ladies in the line bearing torches along with their brothers, husbands and sweethearts. It was a novel scene, and yet one that impressed all with its beauty and propriety. Many of our best ladies were only too ready, if there had been torches to spare, to join their Hastings sisters in the march. Numerous transparencies adorned the ranks, several of which were of beau-
