Many Bills Crowded Through the Senate Yesterday.

While the House Wastes the Day Fillibustering.

Senator Windom Thought to CAPITAL NOTES. present administration, was held yes-terday afternoon.

The first Cleveland troops which accompanied Garfield as an escort arrived on another section of the train on which he arrived, and at once proceeded to their quarters. Gen. Gar-field, accompanied by his wife, called at the executive mansion shortly after eleven o'clock, and joined the presi-dent and hts family in their private parlor shortly afterward. The presi-dent and Gen. Garfield retired for a brief consultation on the subject of convening the senate in extra seasion, and it was decided to call the session for the fourth of March. The president will accordingly issue his procla-mation to that effect. Gen. Garfield deems it proper that the usual cus-toms should be observed in convening the extra session. The republicant can easily reorganize the senate after the new senator from Wisconsin has arrived. It is stated, however, that the democrats will secure an adjournment before that time, and prevent the republicans from securing control until December next, trusting that something or other may transpire in the meantime to prevent it even at that time. CABINET MATTERS. Neither Conkling or Blaine were in to a report that they were in consul-tation with Garfield. It is expected cabinet matters will come to a crisis ne expected at least four cabinet places would be settled by Wednesday evening, the special executive session of the senate having been called for Friday next. It is believed that the president-elect has virtually determined upon several members of his cabinet, and that their names will be sent in at once. It is rumored that Senator Windom will be secretary of the treasury, and there are many reasons for believing the rumor not to be wholly groundless. Over 200 houses and lets are offered for sale

y this office. They are scattered all over the ity. Any location you desire. Prices varying had been patiently awaited, and not only absorbed the attention of the house, but also of the lobby and the many outsiders all day. Its fate is the one theme of discussion, both inside and outside of the house. Corridors of the hotels have been crowded all day, and to-night the crowd does not seem to have lessened. Many banking houses have agents here who use the telegraph almost continually to keep their employers informed concerning every move that is made at this nour. It is thought that the bill will pass, but in what shape can not be foretold. It may be so amended as to induce the president to sign it. The friends of the bill are confident. and seem determined to force its passage. Its opponents may possibly abandon the fight, trusting to delays and amendments in the senate, or executive veto to kill it altogether. After the amendments had been offered, the speaker inquired whether separate votes were demanded.

Mr. Conger said he would demand separate votes on all the amend-Mr. Mills suggested that separate votes would hardly be demanded on items upon which they had allowed.

Mr. Conger replied that there might be a difference of opinion about them, and demanded a separate vote on the amendment that no treasury note of a less denomination than $100 shall be registered, but it was agreed to.

Mr. Conger also demanded a separate vote on the amendment provid-ing that the cost of issuing the new notes should not exceed half of one per cent. The house bill recommended one quarter of one per cent. The amendment was retained.

Mr. De La Matyr offered a motion their seats to-day, and this gave rise to recommit the bill to the committee on ways and means with instructions to incorporate the name to the 21st amendment; that whenever any naas sprovided by law, it shall be the duty of the secretary of the treasury to cause to be issued and placed in circulation legal tenders of like amount, and the national bank which shall have diminished its circution after September, 1881, shall be entitled to increase the amount of its circulation. The amendment was ruled out on the ground that it was germane to the amendment to which t was proposed. Mr. Tucker, on behalf of the committee, offered an amendment striking out and inserting certain words in the last clause of the 1st section, so as to make it read as follows:

"And if it shall happen that more than the entire amount of said bonds and treasury notes, or either of them, has been subscribed within said thirne offense to any wing of the party. has been subscribed within said thir-He was himself a candidate for the ty days, he shall award the full amount subscribed to all persons who shall have made bonafide subscriptions in the order of time of such suband incurred no ill will from the supscriptions at rates most advantageous to the United States."

The senate amendment proposes that the secretary shall award the full amount subscribed to all persons who have made bonafide subscription to the sum of $2,000, or less, and the residue rateable among the subscribers in proportion to the amount respectively subscribed. Mr. Springer moved to reconsider the vote last taken, and to lay that motion on the table. Mr. Conger demanded the yeas and

They were escorted to the carriages and driven at once to the Riggs house where a special suite of apartments had been prepared for them. retired at once to their rooms, since which time they have been resting quietly. For the pass three days the committee in charge of the decorations have been busily engaged in completing the arches erected of Pennsylvania Avenue, decorating public buildings, etc., and preparing for the grand display on inauguration day. There was no demonstrtion at the depot when Garfield arrived, and but few persons were waiting at the depot. The president elect does not look as though he had been worried by advice regarding the formation of is cabinet during the past month. There is a great feeling of relief among politicians that Garfield is here, and he will have no end of callers during the next forty-eight hours. Cabinet speculations are not plentiful to-day, which is attributed to Garfield's arri-Lively Shooting
